INTRODUCTION

DURING the last thirty years such interest has been taken in Donne's personality and his writings that his Life and Letters have been published, his Poems edited, Selections taken from his Sermons, his philosophy and the doctrines which influenced it carefully explained, and a Bibliography of his works has been compiled. Yet his Devotions have been strangely neglected, though they present a more vivid and intimate picture of Donne than anything else written by himself or others, and form the only short volume which gives evidence of his powers as a writer of prose. Within twenty years of its first publication in 1624 the book went through five editions, and it is even said to have been translated into Dutch; but for the next two hundred years it was practically forgotten, and only reappeared in three somewhat unsatisfactory reprints about the year 1840. These have become scarce, and it is now difficult to obtain any copy of the book.

Perhaps the fact most necessary for a true understanding of Donne's personality, and one which it is easy to miss completely when reading Walton's Life, is that despite all vicissitudes of fortune, despite even the apparent changes in his character, Donne himself was always essentially the same. "Antes Muerto que Mudado" was his youthful motto; and just as Walton mistook and exaggerated the change which took place in Donne's character, so he mistranslated these words: "How much shall I be chang'd, Before I am chang'd!" and exclaimed, "If that young, and his now dying Picture, were at this time set together, every beholder might say, Lord! How much is Doctor Donne already chang'd before he is chang'd!" (See Lives, ed. 1675.) But Donne's Spanish motto really meant "Rather dead than changed," and a less blindly adoring worshipper than Walton would have seen in both Donne's portraits, that of the gallant young adventurer, and that of the Dean in his shroud, something that indeed would die before it changed. His passions were always the same, though in later life they became the "sanctified passions" which he speaks of in his sermons.

Indeed the outward change was very great; but it was not the point of view, it was the object of his outlook, that had altered. And the change was a slow process, which started with what Walton calls "the remarkable error of his life," his marriage. It began when he settled in his "poor hospital" at Mitcham, and gradually increased from 1605 till 1617, a period during which he was vexed, as Jane Austen says of one of her characters, with "a superfluity of children, and a want of almost everything else." Donne "almost spent all his time," as he says in the Devotions (p. 46), "in consulting how he should spend it." How bitterly he suffered during these years of poverty can be gathered from the letters he wrote to his friends at the time. In 1615 he recovered from what he calls his "vertiginous giddines," and took orders, and two years later his wife died. This, more than anything else, accounts for the "sanctification" of his character. It had the most profound influence on his remaining years, and it is from this date, 1617, that the truly "religious" period of his life begins.

To one who reads Walton's words carefully it must be obvious that Anne Donne, of whom unfortunately we know very little, influenced him more than any other person. They were blessed with "so mutual and cordial affections, as in the midst of their sufferings made their bread of sorrow taste more pleasantly than the banquets of dull and low-spirited people"; with her "he had divided so many pleasant sorrows and contented fears, as common people are not capable of," and at her death "his very soul was elemented of sorrow." So in his Holy Sonnets Donne wrote himself,

Since she whom I loved hath paid her last debt...
Wholly on heavenly things my mind is sett.

His worldly ambition was at an end; religious ardour and a new devotion to God leave their stamp on everything he wrote afterwards. But beneath lay unquenched the same fire that had inspired the passionate lover and poet. The same man wrote the Songs and Sonets and Death's Duell. Not only with an equal, but with the same, ardour, did he devote himself to the world and to Heaven. This is not the only resemblance between Donne and that other great convert, Saint Paul; both give the same impression of huge strength and of a grim asceticism, and both felt, with a conviction that has rarely been equalled, the personality of the God whom they adored.

And yet, "sincerely devotional as Donne tried to be in the final phase, there lingers about him something unexorcised, as if Pagan incense were burning in a Christian crypt¹." And in the Devotions we see quite clearly what Donne was in this "final phase"; the book was written during a very serious illness in 1623, six years after the death of his wife, and two years after his appointment to the Deanery of St Paul's. His death was actually not very far distant. Here in the Devotions we are admitted to the "Christian crypt," we see Donne's passions unveiled, in hopes and prayers and expostulations, and in vehement declarations of repentance. We see into the mind of Jack Donne, the young adventurer, of John Donne, the courtly admirer of the Countess of Bedford, of Anne Donne's improvident and loving husband, and of Doctor Donne, the ascetic Dean of St Paul's. All are parts played by one man, and the "Pagan incense" which still lingers in the air only proves the sincerity of his later passion.

product of his later years. He has no need to be conscious of his auditory, his own dignity, or the Cathedral in which he preached, for he is concerned only with his own soul, and has before him the prospect of immediate death. Here, says Walton, he set down "the most secret thoughts that then possessed his soul paraphrased and made public; a book that may not unfitly be called a Sacred Picture of Spiritual Ecstasies, occasioned and made applicable to the emergencies of that sickness." These passionate, unadorned, "secret" thoughts give the book an intimate quality quite unique in Donne's writings.

"We are tempted to declare," says Mr Gosse (Life and Letters, ii, p. 291), "that of all great men he is the one of whom least is essentially known." Paradoxically, the more one knows of Donne, the more one feels this to be true; the more one reads his revelations of himself, the more is one mystified as to what he is revealing. There is something unreal about him; there are characters, farther removed from us by time and association, whom we feel that we know with an intimacy altogether satisfying. It is easier—and a modern artist has indeed done so¹—to picture him arriving in Heaven, than walking down a street. It is true that an inimitable description of his appearance, his conversation, and his charm, has been given us by

Walton; we can gather from his letters many of his habits and mannerisms; we possess portraits of him which we cannot doubt are like the man himself; yet it is difficult, if not impossible, to reconstruct a picture of the Dean of St Paul's living an every-day life, and to reconcile it with the Donne who lives in that Dean's writings.

The explanation probably is that the writings which reveal him most clearly were written in moments of intense exaltation. There are two ways of arriving at the pitch of emotion necessary for the production of such writings as Donne's. One is the absolute surrender to pleasure, and the sacrifice of the ordinary standard of morals; the other is the complete banishment of pleasure, and the consistent living up to an ideal. Donne adopted both of these. His greatest poem, The Extasie, shows how completely body, mind and soul were enveloped in love, and an attitude of fierce indulgence marks all his poems. Rupert Brooke said that "for width and depth he is incomparably the greatest of our love-poets": his love-poems show that this is unquestionably true. Still more intimate is the picture given us in the writings inspired by his religious emotions. The austerity of his last years is but faintly indicated by Walton, who says that "now all his studies, which had been occasionally diffused, were all centred in divinity. Now he had a new calling, new thoughts, and a new employment for his wit and eloquence"; and again, "the latter part of his life may be said to be a continued study; for as he usually preached once a week, if not oftener, so after his sermon, he never gave his eyes rest, till he had chosen out a new text, and that night cast his sermon into a form, and his text into divisions." Only on Saturday did he give "himself and his mind a rest from the weary burthen of his week's meditations." But perhaps we can best realise what Donne was in his last years by studying the strangely attractive—and to some (still more strangely) repulsive—portrait which is the frontispiece to Death's Duell. All the pleasures and all the comforts of a worldly life had been sacrificed to the contemplation of "heavenly things." In the Devotions this ardent asceticism reaches its climax: the menace of death was the signal for the enwrapping of all the faculties of body, mind, and soul in a fervent adoration of God.

But even this book does not banish the enigmatic atmosphere of unreality that surrounds him; rather it makes it more intense. It is as if we tried to study a man's features with a ray too piercing: the light dazzles, and does not illumine.

The religious exaltation of the Devotions is sometimes equalled by certain passages in the Sermons. Otherwise it is approached only in some of the Divine Poems, in the Holy Sonnets, and in the three great Hymns (one at least of which was composed during this same illness). There too the cry comes straight from the heart and goes straight to God, and there the consciousness of sin and the sinner's refuge in God are the main themes:

Spit in my face you Jewes, and pierce my side,
Buffet, and scoffe, scourge, and crucifie mee,
For I have sinn'd, and sinn'd, and onely hee,
Who could do no iniquitie, hath dyed.

The Holy Sonnets were composed after his wife's death, and the fourth of them appears to refer to a dangerous illness, perhaps the same as occasioned the composition of the Devotions—

O my black Soule! now thou art summoned
By sicknesse, deaths herald, and champion....

In these Sonnets also is manifest the triumphant certainty of the soul's ultimate victory over death—"Death be not proud"—which is one of the chief inspirations of this book; and in both the body, as nowhere else in Donne's works, seems almost in danger of losing its place in his great triumvirate of body, mind, and soul.

It is, says Professor Grierson, the "beating as it were against the bars of self in the desire to break through to a fuller apprehension of the mercy and love of God¹," which forms the note of Donne's later poems, and no better description can be given of the impulse behind the Prayers and Expostulations in this book.

This revelation of Donne's soul is the chief interest of the Devotions, but by reason of its intimacy the book falls shorter of literary perfection than do the Sermons, and sometimes even exaggerates the faults of style which mar them. Much may be, and has been, said of Donne's "tortuous" and "twisted" style, his misplaced ingenuity, his extravagant conceits, and his tiresome learning. From the last fault the Devotions are entirely free, for Donne had not, when he wrote them, the opportunity of consulting the obscure and dull authors whose quibblings fill too many pages of his Sermons, but his "ingenuity," his "conceits," his "tortuous style," are perhaps more evident here than anywhere else. Yet in spite of them all the book contains some of the most beautiful prose he ever wrote. Examples will be found in his wonderful Expostulation on "hearts" (pp. 63-65), and in the lovely passage beginning "All mankinde is of one Author" (p. 97). Moreover, it is fairer to call his method of thought "tortuous" and "unnatural" than his style. When he wrote down his thoughts, his unadorned, "most secret" thoughts, as the Devotions show, they were usually of a curious and subtle nature, and he did not write merely in order to exercise his ingenuity. But because the thought itself is often very difficult to follow, and the ideas do not seem natural to an ordinary mind, Donne is too often set down as an obscure and artificial writer. In his poetry this charge may sometimes be justified, but when he is writing on what may be his deathbed, and writing of all that concerns him most vitally, we realise that this method was part of his nature, and that it is when he is most in earnest that we can be least sure of a regular pattern in his thought.

— If Donne's thinking leads him into obscurity of style, it may be argued with justice that the thought itself cannot be always striking or interesting; the idea should triumph over the expression, if it is worth expressing at all. Intellectual laziness on the part of his readers is no doubt the reason for much that has been said against Donne; but it is equally true that often in this book, as in almost all his works, his thoughts seem laboriously and with little profit to explore very barren country. But a mind like Donne's could not dwell long on any subject, however little the subject may attract us, without discovering some aspect that surprises us, or drawing some conclusion which makes us think. At any moment his basest alloy may be transmuted to the purest gold. Donne, as De Quincey says, combined "the last sublimation of dialectical subtlety and address with the most impassioned majesty"; and so even his apparently most artificial and elaborate images are often spontaneously mingled with the flow of his sincerest devotion, and are indeed the only form in which he could express it. However much his conceits may at times annoy us, artifice achieves effects which simplicity cannot hope for.

A good example may be taken from the last page of his last sermon, Death's Duell, where he describes the darkening of the earth at the crucifixion: "Then those glorious eyes grew so faint in their sight, so as the sun, ashamed to survive them, departed with his light too."

In his most passionate prayers, just as in his most passionate love-poems, Donne's mind is for ever embarking upon "voyages, and peregrinations to fetch remote, and precious metaphors"; and it fetches metaphors from the absurdly every-day businesses of life. Sometimes they are elaborated till they seem to have lost their original inspiration, but there is never any effort in their introduction or their application. Donne is always awake to the apparent absurdity of the illustration, but he insists on using his own ideas without interference. This extraordinarily modern "awareness of the workings of his own mind," as Mr Pearsall Smith has called it, is nowhere put more plainly before us than in the Devotions.

The general effect of his prose on a modern reader is discussed at length in Mr Pearsall Smith's excellent introduction to his Selections from the Sermons, and it has been summed up with more than his usual perception by Dean Alford (Donne's Works, i, p. xix); though it is somewhat melancholy to reflect that the treasures which Alford himself avowedly sought in the Sermons were not those of "diction, or genius, or power of thought": he found there rather "a distinct and clear exposition of the doctrine of the redemption," and "a genuine body of orthodox divinity (in the best sense of the words)."

It is impossible to give any but a general description of the contents of the Devotions, for the book pretends to be nothing but a collection of musings, divided up into a series of "Meditations," "Expostulations," and "Prayers," without any singleness of plan or idea. It is in the "Meditations" that the human side of Donne's character is most apparent. They are, as the title of the book declares, meditations upon "our humane condition"; they consider it in all its aspects, and they are the reflections of a subtle, many-sided mind, the mind of one who has had profound experience of life, and whose experience has taught him an almost deliberately exaggerated and cynical pessimism. "With his strange satiric code of language, he dissects as with fine steel the curious throbbing matter of the heart¹," and of the mind too; he is scornful of man's weakness and of men's weaknesses, with both of which he is so well acquainted, and nothing he has learned from either is too trivial or too sublime for his pen.

The "emergencies" of his sickness suggest the subject for each meditation: change, fear, consultation, kings, sleep, bells, the heart; and he discusses them with illustrations drawn from the Old Testament, from History, and from men as he knew them. Whole chapters are devoted to one metaphor, while he likens men to trees in a garden, or "little worlds," or tenants of the farm of life. } The eternity of kings ("an eternity of three score and ten yeares"), "is in the Apothecaryes shop"; and "those that are great, and pretend, and yet are loth to come," find his infection an excellent excuse for keeping away from his bedside. There are many examples of the wit which had delighted his earlier admirers, and one or two directly autobiographical touches add an interest to the pages. } He describes (p. 46) more clearly and fully than elsewhere in his later writings, the circumstances in which he entered the ministry, and his indebtedness to King James for his decision. } Mr Gosse¹ has noticed another remark, perhaps a memory of early childhood, where he says, on p. 8, "My parents would not give mee over to a Servants correction." The bells "of the Church adjoyning" remind him of his foreign travels, and of bells he had heard at Antwerp and Rouen, and he tells a curious story of a "Bell in a Monastery." Mr Gosse has given us a picture of him², "lying there all alone, propped up in state in his great dark chamber; scribbling these funereal conceits on a tablet that rests against the fold of the coverlet, while 'that striking clock that I ordinarily wear' ticks on the table at his side." Donne adds to the picture himself, and one of the pleasantest of all the glimpses of the Dean that are afforded us is given in his own words describing the music which came from the church through his window, and how "Where I lie, I could heare the Psalme, and did joine with the Congregation in it" (p. 95).

So he meditates, "with some passages of incomparable charm," on the funeral bell, while the illness takes its course, and at length he is allowed to leave his bed. His description of his feelings on rising is very curious, and he recurs, as so frequently in his works, to the new doctrines which were disturbing his mind: "I am up, and I seeme to stand, and I goe round; and I am a new Argument of the new Philosophie, That the Earth moves round; why may I not beleeve, that the whole earth moves in a round motion, though that seeme to mee to stand, when as I seeme to stand to my Company, and yet am carried, in a giddy, and circular motion, as I stand?" (p. 128).

The reader may often be struck with the similarity between the ideas, phrases and metaphors in this book and in the rest of Donne's writings, particularly his Sermons, but sometimes even the poems of his early youth. In order to connect, as it were, the Devotions with the other writings some of these similarities are pointed out in the notes to the present edition, and no doubt many more could be collected. They certainly throw an interesting light on the workings of Donne's mind. A comparison of such passages might also help to place some of the undated sermons, but they are so widely scattered that it is often impossible to make any definite statement. Whole sentences from the Devotions are sometimes repeated in sermons which we know to have been preached at dates quite distant from the composition of the book. Particular attention has, however, been given to two sermons which appear in the folio of 1649 between those dated April 1624, and January 162 $\frac{4}{5}$, which Miss Spearing¹ assigns to the period during which Donne was Vicar of St Dunstan's, and which might reasonably be expected from their position to belong to 1624. The second (no. XLVIII of Fifty Sermons, 1649) is identified by Mr Gosse (Life and Letters, ii, p. 94) with that preached on his wife's death, which Walton tells us was preached on the same text (Lamentations 1. 1), but at St Clement's Church. It seems most likely, as Miss Spearing suggests, that this is an entirely different sermon on the same text, and is rightly included amongst those preached at St Dunstan's. A comparison of both these sermons with the Devotions alone is not enough, perhaps, to make any final decision as to their date, but they contain more noticeable similarities to passages in the Devotions than occur in most of his other sermons, and taken together they leave a very strong impression that they were written while the ideas which inspired the book were still fresh in his mind. Most of the similarities are in themselves slight, but one will serve as an example. On the first page of Sermon XLVIII Donne says, "But in all this depression of his, in all his exinanition, and evacuation, yet he had a crown...," and three lines later "evacuate" and "annihilate" occur together. On page 122 of the Devotions Donne ends his meditation with this sentence: "I am ground even to an attenuation, and must proceed to evacuation, all waies to exinanition and annihilation." Perhaps the fact that both passages contain a collection of the same extraordinary words is merely a coincidence; but such instances, collectively more striking, abound in these pages.

The Devotions are no model for a handbook of piety, no collection of prayers such as their title implies; their familiar invocations of the Trinity as "you three," and their reference to our bodies at the Resurrection as our "old clothes," for instance, seem to have shocked Dr Jessopp in his *Life of Donne*¹. The book is not a model of Donne's prose style, though it does contain glorious examples of his work; its value is not its philosophy, its theology, or any reasoning or argument that it contains; but it is extraordinarily interesting as a unique revelation of a unique mind. It shows us the intensity and the complexity of Donne's feelings; it shows us his personal philosophy—not his studied opinions on intellectual or theological problems, but his secret thoughts on what concerned him most. It does not explain, it reveals; it makes clear that “natural, unnatural” perversity in Donne's nature which made him at once the most human and the most incomprehensible of beings.

The irregularities of thought and the strangeness of expression are necessary to the completeness and truth of the revelation; body, mind and soul are inseparable in the vital things of life, together they must grasp “those absolute values of passionate experience which are the only excuse for the infinite and intolerable anguish of existence¹.”

Donne knew this in love, and he knew it in religion, which was to him the love of God. In the writings inspired by either of these loves, where he is describing the “passionate experience” of adoration, the faults of the mind, which is the translator of his feelings into words, are obvious and frequent. But they are necessary, and prove the genuineness and truth of what he wrote. The Devotions, our most intimate picture of Donne's deepest feelings, gain far more than they lose from the part played by the intellect in their composition. } Here Donne's mind is following his soul on a pilgrimage towards Heaven, through strange and wonderful lands, by unexpected and inexplicable ways, and with many turnings, halts, and digressions; his body, once the explorer of other countries where it found much pleasure, but no repose, is the soul's companion; and in these pages that sincere and subtle mind, a vivid but perverse historian, tells us intimately of some of their adventures on the journey, and leaves us wondering where and how it was to end. }

Only the Bibliographical Note is signed by Mr Keynes, but his criticism and his help have guided me through the whole book. I cannot say how grateful I am both to him and to the Dean of Winchester, who has read through the proofs and has made many helpful suggestions.

BIBLIOGRAPHICAL NOTE

THE TEXT

DONNE's Devotions were first published just 300 years ago, in 1624, in a thick duodecimo volume of 322 leaves. The book was printed for Thomas Jones by Augustin Matthewes, whose initials appear in the imprint of most copies, though one has been recorded from which they have been omitted¹. This first edition is a rare book, and probably the issue was a small one, for it seems to have been soon exhausted and was reprinted in the same year. The second edition, though the text closely follows that of the first, was somewhat reduced in bulk, containing only 300 leaves. It is also a rare book, but the edition was sold in the course of two years, and a third was printed towards the end of 1626, again forming a volume of 300 leaves. That it was printed late in the year may be inferred from the facts that the colophon on the verso of the last leaf is dated 1627 and that some copies have this date also on the title-page. Copies dated 1627 do not, therefore, constitute a fourth edition, as they are in every other respect identical with those dated 1626 and were printed from the same type. The third edition, though by no means a common book, is more often to be met with than either of the editions of 1624. The printer's name does not appear, but it was no doubt also from the press of Augustin Mathewes, as it contains the same printer's flowers and initial letters as before. These three editions were all that were published in Donne's lifetime, and they have been used as the basis of the text in the present edition.

In 1634, two years after Donne's death, a fourth edition was printed at the same press as before, but for a new publisher, Charles Greene. It was set in somewhat smaller type, making only 262 printed leaves, and was embellished with a frontispiece delicately engraved by William Marshall. This represents the marble effigy of Donne which was formerly in old St Paul's, and, having survived the fire of 1666, is still to be seen in the chancel of the present Cathedral. The effigy is surmounted by a skull wreathed with laurel, and is flanked by four scenes from the Old Testament. In 1638 a fifth edition was printed by Mathewes for Richard Royston. The type is somewhat more closely set, occupying only 226 printed leaves, and the book has the same frontispiece as before. Both these editions are now, for no obvious reason, exceedingly rare, being certainly less often to be found than even the first edition of 1624.

No further editions were published in England in the seventeenth century, but it is curious to find a definite statement that it was translated into Dutch and published at Amsterdam in 1655. The authority for this is Morhof who in his Polyhistor (ed. 2, 1714, lib. vi, cap. iv, § 18) states that Donne “Scriptis et Meditationes super morbo suo sacras, quæ in Linguam Belgicam conversæ et Amstelodami 1655 in 12° editæ sunt.” No such edition, however, is now known to bibliographers, and if it indeed exists very few copies can have survived. Perhaps it may yet emerge from the obscurity in which it has so long been hidden.

After the publication of the fifth edition of 1638 the Devotions were not again printed for more than two centuries; but at last in 1839 they appeared at the end of the third of the six volumes of Donne’s Works edited by Dean Alford. This constitutes the sixth edition. The seventh edition was tastefully printed at the Chiswick Press and published by William Pickering in 1840. To this edition were added two sermons, that on the death of Lady Danvers and Death’s Duell, Donne’s own funeral sermon, as it was called, and an enlargement of Marshall’s engraving was inserted as frontispiece. Finally an eighth edition was printed by D. A. Talboys at Oxford and published in 1841. In all of these recent editions the spelling was modernized and Donne’s peculiar use of capitals and italics was ignored. Yet both these peculiarities were certainly deliberate, so that part of the author’s intention is missed if they are abandoned.

These editions contain moreover numerous corruptions, which are due partly to the fact that the texts follow that of one of the later editions and partly to errors made in copying these originals when they were right. A few are due to attempts on the part of the editors to modernize and to emend the original text. The majority of these corruptions are unimportant, but they serve to make nonsense of some passages, and to spoil the point of others. Alford's emendation of "altercation" for "alteration" on the first page is an instance of this injudicious editing.

The text of the present edition, the ninth of the series, is based primarily on that of the first edition, but it has been carefully collated with those of the second and third editions. Where variations have been detected—chiefly in the use of capitals, italics, and punctuation, but occasionally also in words and phrases—that reading which in the editor's judgment seemed to be the best has been adopted. The more important of these variations will be found recorded in the footnotes, where also are noted the few instances in which an emendation has been supplied by the editor. The texts of the editions of 1634 and 1638, published after Donne's death, have not been regarded as having any authority. The original spelling, capital letters, and italics have been restored (except that j, v and s have been substituted for the archaic i, u and f), so that the book may again be read in very much the same form in which it was passed for press by its author. Most readers will appreciate this degree of restoration, which does much to increase the "contemporary" flavour of a work such as the Devotions. The system of punctuation used by Donne has introduced a question of some difficulty. The text of the Devotions contains an immense number of stops which seem unnecessary to the sense and are tiresome to a present-day reader, but it has been thought best after careful deliberation to allow the punctuation to remain, with the other typographical details, much as it was left by Donne himself. Only when his system makes a sentence actually unintelligible has it been altered so as to conform to more modern conventions.

The notes at the end of the book give references, as already stated, to Donne's other writings where he has used similar words or phrases, and are in addition designed to elucidate any obscurities or unexplained allusions in the text. Passages which may have been clear to a contemporary reader are sometimes more difficult to understand at the present time.

THE FRONTISPIECE

The oil painting, which has been reproduced in collotype as a frontispiece to the present edition, seems to be the best portrait of Donne that is extant, but it has never hitherto been accurately copied. The early history of the picture is not known, but in 1822 it was in the possession of the Rev. Dr Barrett. In that year an engraving after a drawing from the picture by G. Clint, A.R.A., was published in Walker's Effigies Poeticæ, but thus interpreted through two separate processes the painting lost much of its original character. It remained for nearly a hundred years in the possession of Dr Barrett or of his descendants, but was disregarded until it was sold in September, 1919, with the collections at Brandon House, Suffolk; it was then acquired for the National Portrait Gallery. The artist is not known. The picture agrees, however, very closely with a miniature by Isaac Oliver now in the Royal Collection, which is dated 1616, and was clearly either made from the oil painting or served as its source. The picture may therefore be regarded as representing Donne at the age of 44, that is to say, only seven years before he wrote his Devotions. The well-known portrait, which now hangs in the Deanery of St Paul's, was painted eight years after his illness, and seems to give a much less life-like representation of the Dean.

THE EPISTLE DEDICATORIE
TO THE MOST EXCELLENT PRINCE

Prince CHARLES

MOST EXCELLENT PRINCE,

I Have had three Births; One, Naturall, when I came into the World; One, Supernatural, when I entred into the Ministry; and now, a preter-naturall Birth, in returning to Life, from this Sicknes. In my second Birth, your Highnesse Royall Father vouchsafed mee his Hand, not onely to sustaine mee in it, but to lead mee to it. In this last Birth, I my selfe am borne a Father: This Child of mine, this Booke, comes into the world, from mee, and with mee. And therefore, I presume (as I did the Father to the Father) to present the Sonne to the Sonne; This Image of my Humiliation, to the lively Image of his Majesty, your Highnesse. It might bee enough, that God hath seene my Devotions: But Examples of Good Kings are Commandements; And Ezechiah with the Meditations of his Sicknesse, after his Sicknesse. Besides, as I have liv'd to see (not as a Witnessse onely, but as a Partaker)

The Epistle Dedicatorie

the happinesses of a part of your Royal Fathers time, so shall I live (in my way) to see the happinesses of the times of your Highnesse too, if this Child of mine, in-animated by your gracious Acceptation, may so long preserve alive the Memory of

Your Highnesse

I. MEDITATION.

Ariable, and therefore miserable condition of Man; this minute I was well, and am ill, this minute. I am surpriz'd with a sodaine change, and alteration to worse, and can impute it to no cause, nor call it by any name. We study Health, 5 and we deliberate upon our meats, and drink, and ayre, and exercises, and we hew, and wee polish every stone, that goes to that building; and so our Health is a long and a regular work; But in a minute a Canon batters all, overthrowes all, demolishes all; a Sicknes unprevented 10 for all our diligence, unsuspected for all our curiositie; nay, undeserved, if we consider only disorder, summons us, seizes us, possesses us, destroyes us in an instant. O miserable condition of Man, which was not imprinted by God, who as hee is immortall himselfe, had put a coale, a beame 15 of Immortalitie into us, which we might have blowen into a flame, but blew it out, by our first sinne; wee beggard our selves by hearkning after false riches, and infatuated our selves by hearkning after false knowledge. So that now, we doe not onely die, but die upon the Rack, die by the 20 torment of sicknesse; nor that onely, but are preafflicted, super-afflicted with these jelousies and suspicions, and apprehensions of Sicknes, before we can cal it a sicknes; we are not sure we are ill; one hand askes the other by the pulse, and our eye asks our urine, how we do. O multi- 25 plied misery! we die, and cannot enjoy death, because wee die in this torment of sicknes; we are tormented with sicknes, and cannot stay till the torment come, but pre-apprehensions and presages, prophecy those torments, which induce that death before either come; and our dis- 30 solution is conceived in these first changes, quickned in the sicknes it selfe, and borne in death, which beares date from these first changes. Is this the honour which Man hath by being a litle world, That he hath these earthquakes in him 5 selfe, sodaine shakings; these lightnings, sodaine flashes; these thunders, sodaine noises; these Eclipses, sodain offuscations, and darknings of his senses; these Blazing stars, sodaine fiery exhalations; these Rivers of blood, sodaine red waters? Is he a world to himselfe onely therefore, that 10 he hath inough in himself, not only to destroy, and execute himselfe, but to presage that execution upon himselfe; to assist the sicknes, to antidate the sicknes, to make the sicknes the more irremediable, by sad apprehensions, and as if he would make a fire the more vehement, by sprinkling

 15 water upon the coales, so to wrap a hote fever in cold Melancholy, least the fever alone should not destroy fast enough, without this contribution, nor perfit the work (which is destruction) except we joynd an artificiall sicknes, of our owne melancholy, to our natural, our unnaturall 20 fever. O perplex'd discomposition, O ridling distemper, O miserable condition of Man.

I. EXPOSTULATION.

IF I were but meere dust and ashes, I might speak unto the Lord, for the Lordes hand made me of this dust, and the Lords hand shall recollect these ashes; the Lords 25 hand was the wheele, upon which this vessell of clay was framed, and the Lordes hand is the Urne, in which these ashes shall be preserv'd. I am the dust, and the ashes of the Temple of the H. Ghost; and what Marble is so precious? But I am more then dust and ashes; I am my best part, I am 30 my soule. And being so, the breath of God, I may breath back these pious expostulations to my God. My God, my God, why is not my soule, as sensible as my body? Why hath not my soule these apprehensions, these presages, these changes, these antidates, these jealousies, these suspicions of a sinne, as well as my body of a sicknes? why is there not alwayes a pulse in my soule, to beat at the approach of a tentation to sinne? 5 why are there not alwayes waters in mine eyes, to testifie to my spiritual sicknes? I stand in the way of tentations, (naturally, necessarily, all men doe so: for there is a Snake in every path, tentations in every vocation) but I go, I run, I flie into the wayes of tentation, which I might shun; nay, 10 I breake into houses, wher the plague is; I presse into places of tentation, and tempt the devill himselve, and sollicite and importune them, who had rather be left unsolicited by me. I fall sick of Sin, and am bedded and bedrid, buried and putrified in the practise of Sin, and all 15 this while have no presage, no pulse, no sense of my sicknesse; O heighth, O depth of misery, where the first Symptome of the sicknes is Hell, and where I never see the fever of lust, of envy, of ambition, by any other light, then the darknesse and horror of Hell it selve; and where the 20 first Messenger that speaks to me doth not say, Thou mayst die, no nor Thou must die, but Thou art dead: and where the first notice, that my Soule hath of her sicknes, is irrecoverablenes, irremediablenes: but, O my God, Job did not charge thee foolishly, in his temporall afflictions, nor may 25 I in my spirituall. Thou hast imprinted a pulse in our Soule, but we do not examine it; a voice in our conscience, but we do not hearken unto it. We talk it out, we drinke it out, we sleepe it out; and when we wake, we doe not say with Jacob, Surely the Lord is in this place, and I knew it not: 30 but though we might know it, we do not, we wil not. But will God pretend to make a Watch, and leave out the springe? to make so many various wheels in the faculties of the soule, and in the organs of the body, and leave out Grace, that should move them? or wil God make a springe, and not wind it up? Infuse his first grace, and not second it with more, without which we can no more use his first 5 grace, when we have it, then wee could dispose our selves by Nature, to have it? But alas, that is not our case; we are all prodigall sonnes, and not disinherited; wee have recieved our portion, and misspent it, not bin denied it.

 We are Gods tenants heere, and yet here, he, our Land-lord 10 payes us Rents; not yearely, nor quarterly; but hourelly, and quarterly; Every minute he renewes his mercy, but wee will not understand, least that we should bee converted, and he should heale us.

Mat. 13. 16.

I. PRAYER.

15 O Eternall, and most gracious God, who, considered in thy selfe, art a Circle, first and last, and altogether;
 but considered in thy working upon us, art a direct line,
 and ledest us from our beginning, through all our wayes, to our end, enable me by thy grace, to looke forward to mine end, and to looke backward to, to the considerations 20 of thy mercies afforded mee from my beginning; that so by that practise of considering thy mercy, in my beginning in this world, when thou plantedst me in the Christian Church, and thy mercy in the beginning in the other world, when thou writest me in the Booke of life in my Election, 25 I may come to a holy consideration of thy mercy, in the beginning of all my actions here: that in all the beginnings, in all the accesses, and approaches of spirituall sicknesses of Sinn, I may heare and hearken to that voice, O thou Man of God, there is death in the pot, and so refraine from 30 that, which I was so hungerly, so greedily flying to. A faithfull Ambassador is health, says thy wise servant Solomon.

2 Reg. 4. 40.

17.

Thy voice received, in the beginning of a sicknesse, of a sinne, is true health. If I can see that light betimes, and heare that voyce early, Then shall my light breake forth as the morning, and my health shall spring forth speedily.

Esa. 58. 8.

Deliver mee therefore, O my God, from these vaine 5 imaginations; that it is an overcurious thing, a dangerous thing, to come to that tendernesse, that rawnesse, that scrupulousnesse, to feare every concupiscence, every offer of Sin, that this suspicious, and jealous diligence will turne to an inordinate dejection of spirit, and a diffidence in thy 10 care and providence; but keep me still establish'd, both in a constant assurance, that thou wilt speake to me at the beginning of every such sicknes, at the approach of every such sinne; and that, if I take knowledg of that voice then, and flye to thee, thou wilt preserve mee from falling, or 15 raise me againe, when by naturall infirmitie I am fallen: doe this, O Lord, for his sake, who knowes our naturall infirmities, for he had them; and knowes the weight of our sinns, for he paid a deare price for them, thy Sonne, our Saviour, Chr: Jesus, Amen. 20

2. Actio Laesa.

The strength, and the function of the Senses, and other faculties change and faile.

2. MEDITATION.

THE Heavens are not the less constant, because they move continually, because they move continually one and the same way. The Earth is not the more constant, because it lyes stil continually, because continually it changes, and melts in al parts thereof. Man, who is the 25 noblest part of the Earth, melts so away, as if he were a statue, not of Earth, but of Snowe. We see his owne Envie melts him, he growes leane with that; he will say, anothers beautie melts him; but he feeles that a Fever doth not melt him like snow, but powr him out like lead, like yron, like brasse melted in a furnace: It doth not only melt him, but calcine him, reduce him to Atomes, and to ashes; not to 5 water, but to lime. And how quickly? Sooner than thou canst receive an answer, sooner than thou canst conceive the question; Earth is the center of my Bodie, Heaven is the center of my Soule; these two are the naturall places of those two; but those goe not to these two in an equall pace:

 10 My body falls downe without pushing, my Soule does not go up without pulling: Ascension is my Soules pace and measure, but precipitation my bodies: And, even Angells, whose home is Heaven, and who are winged too, yet had a Ladder to goe to Heaven, by steps. The Sunne who goes 15 so many miles in a minut, the Starres of the Firmament, which go so very many more, goe not so fast, as my body to the earth. In the same instant that I feele the first attempt of the disease, I feele the victory; In the twinckling of an eye, I can scarce see, instantly the tast is insipid, and 20 fatuous; instantly the appetite is dull and desirelesse: instantly the knees are sinking and strengthlesse; and in an instant, sleepe, which is the picture, the copie of death, is taken away, that the Originall, Death it selfe may succeed, and that so I might have death to the life. It was part of 25 Adams punishment, In the sweat of thy browes thou shalt eate thy bread: it is multiplied to me, I have earned bread in the sweat of my browes, in the labor of my calling, and I have it; and I sweat againe, and againe, from the brow, to the sole of the foot, but I eat no bread, I tast no sustenance: Miserable distribution of Mankind, where one halfe lackes meat, and the other stomacke.

2. EXPOSTULATION.

D*Avid* professes himself a dead dog, to his king Saul, and so doth Mephibosheth to his king David: and 5 yet David speaks to Saul, and Mephibosheth to David. No man is so little, in respect of the greatest man, as the greatest in respect of God; for here, in that, wee have not so much as a measure to try it by; proportion is no measure for infinitie. He that hath no more of this world but a 10 grave, hee that hath his grave but lent him, til a better man, or another man, must bee buried in the same grave, he that hath no grave, but a dung-hill, hee that hath no more earth, but that which he carries, but that which hee is, hee that hath not that earth, which hee is, but even in 15 that, is anothers slave, hath as much proportion to God, as if all Davids Worthies, and all the worlds Monarchs, and all imaginations Gyants were kneaded and incorporated into one, and as though that one were the survivor of all the sonnes of men, to whom God had given the world. And 20 therefore how little soever I bee, as God calls things that are not, as though they were, I, who am as though I were not, may call upon God, and say, My God, my God, why comes thine anger so fast upon me? Why dost thou melt me, scatter me, poure me like water upon the ground so 25 instantly? Thou staidst for the first world, in Noahs time, 120 yeres; thou staidst for a rebellious generation in the wildernes, 40 yeres, wilt thou stay no minute for me? Wilt thou make thy Processe, and thy Decree, thy Citation, and thy Judgement but one act? Thy Summons, thy Battell, thy 30 Victorie, thy Triumph, all but one act; and lead me captive,

1 Sam. 24.

2 Sam. 9. 8.

nay, deliver me captive to death, as soon as thou declarest me to be enemy, and so cut me off even with the drawing of thy sword out of the scabbard, and for that question, How long was he sicke? leave no other answer, but that the hand 5 of death pressed upon him from the first minute? My God, my God, thou wast not wont to come in whirlwinds, but in soft and gentle ayre. Thy first breath breathed a Soule into mee, and shall thy breath blow it out? Thy breath in the Congregation, thy Word in the Church, breathes communion, 10 and consolation here, and consummation hereafter; shall thy breath in this Chamber breathe dissolution, and destruction, divorce, and separation? Surely it is not thou; it is not thy hand. The devouring sword, the consuming fire, the winds from the wilderness, the diseases of the body, all that 15 afflicted Job, were from the hand of Satan; it is not thou.
 It is thou, thou my God, who hast led mee so continually with thy hand, from the hand of my Nurce, as that I know, thou wilt not correct me, but with thine own hand. My parents would not give mee over to a Servants correction, 20 nor my God, to Satans. I am fallen into the hand of God, with David, and with David I see that his Mercies are great. For by that mercy, I consider in my present state, not the haste, and the dispatch of the disease, in dissolving this body, so much, as the much more hast, and dispatch, 25 which my God shall use, in recollecting, and reuniting this dust againe at the Resurrection. Then I shall heare his Angels proclaime the Surgite Mortui, Rise yee dead. Though I be dead, I shall heare the voice; the sounding of the voice, and the working of the voice shall be all one; and all shall 30 rise there in a lesse minute, than any one dies here.

2. PRAYER.

O Most gracious God, who pursuest and perfitest thine own purposes, and dost not only remember mee by the first accesses of this sicknes, that I must die, but informe me by this further proceeding therin, that I may die now, who hast not only waked mee with the first, but 5 cald me up, by casting me further downe, and clothd me with thy selfe, by stripping me of my selfe, and by dulling my bodily senses, to the meates, and eases of this world;
 hast whet, and sharpned my spirituall senses, to the apprehension of thee, by what steps and degrees soever it shall 10
 please thee to go, in the dissolution of this body, hasten O Lord, that pace, and multiply, O my God, those degrees, in the exaltation of my Soule, toward thee now, and to thee then. My tast is not gone away, but gone up to sit at Davids table, To tast, and see, that the Lord is good: My 15 stomach is not gone, but gone up, so far upwards toward the Supper of the Lamb, with thy Saints in heaven, as to the Table, to the Communion of thy Saints heere in earth: my knees are weak, but weak therefore that I should easily fall to, and fix my selfe long upon my devotions to thee. A 20 sound heart is the life of the flesh; and a heart visited by thee, by that visitation is a sound hart. There is no soundnesse in my flesh, because of thine anger. Interpret thine owne worke, and call this sicknes, correction, and not anger, and there is soundnes in my flesh. There is no rest in my bones, because 25 of my sinne; transerre my sinnes, with which thou art so displeased, upon him, with whome thou art so well pleased, Christ Jesus, and there will be rest in my bones: And, O my God, who madest thyself a Light in a Bush, in the midst of these brambles, and thornes of a sharpe sicknesse, 30 appeare unto me so, that I may see thee, and know thee to be my God, applying thy selfe to me, even in these sharp, and thorny passages. Doe this, O Lord, for his sake, who was not the lesse, the King of Heaven, for thy suffering him to be crowned with thornes, in this world.

The Patient takes his bed.

3. MEDITATION.

5 WEe attribute but one priviledge and advantage to Mans body, above other moving creatures, that he is not as others, groveling, but of an erect, of an upright form, naturally built, and disposed to the contemplation of Heaven. Indeed it is a thankfull forme, and recompences 10 that soule, which gives it, with carrying that soule so many foot higher, towards heaven. Other creatures look to the earth; and even that is no unfit object, no unfit contemplation for Man; for thither hee must come; but because, Man is not to stay there, as other creatures are, Man in his 15 naturall forme, is carried to the contemplation of that place, which is his home, Heaven. This is Mans prerogative; but what state hath he in this dignitie? A fever can fillip him downe, a fever can depose him; a fever can bring that head, which yesterday caried a crown of gold, five foot 20 towards a crown of glory, as low as his own foot, today.
 When God came to breath into Man the breath of life, he found him flat upon the ground; when he comes to withdraw that breath from him againe, hee prepares him to it, by laying him flat upon his bed. Scarse any prison so 25 close, that affords not the prisoner two, or three steps. The Anchorites that barqu'd themselves up in hollowe trees, and immur'd themselves in hollow walls; that perverse man, that barrell'd himsef in a Tubb, all could stand, or sit, and enjoy some change of posture. A sicke bed, is a grave; and all that the patient saies there, is but a varying of his owne Epitaph. Every nights bed is a Type of the grave:

 At night wee tell our servants at what houre wee will rise; 5 here we cannot tell our selves, at what day, what week, what moneth. Here the head lies as low as the foot; the Head of the people, as lowe as they, whome those feete trod upon; And that hande that signed Pardons, is too weake to begge his owne, if hee might have it for lifting 10 up that hand: Strange fetters to the feete, strange Manacles to the hands, when the feete, and handes are bound so much the faster, by how much the coards are slacker; So much the lesse able to doe their Offices, by how much more the Sinewes and Ligaments are the looser. In the 15 Grave I may speak through the stones, in the voice of my friends, and in the accents of those wordes, which their love may afford my memory; Here I am mine owne Ghost, and rather affright my beholders, then instruct them; they conceive the worst of me now, and yet feare worse; they 20 give me for dead now, and yet wonder how I doe, when they wake at midnight, and aske how I doe to morrow.
 Miserable and, (though common to all) inhuman posture, where I must practise my lying in the grave, by lying still,
 and not practise my Resurrection, by rising any more. 25

3. EXPOSTULATION.

M*Y God, and my Jesus, my Lord, and my Christ, my Strength, and my Salvation, I heare thee, and I hearken to thee, when thou rebukest thy Disciples, for rebuking them, who brought children to thee; Suffer little children to come to mee, saiest thou. Is there a verier child* 30 then I am now? I cannot say with the servant Jeremy, Lord, I am a child, and cannot speake; but, O Lord, I am a sucking childe, and cannot eat, a creeping childe, and cannot goe; how shall I come to thee? Whither shall 5 I come to thee? To this bed? I have this weak and childish frowardnes too, I cannot sit up, and yet am loth to go to bed; shall I find thee in bed? Oh, have I alwaies done so?

 The bed is not ordinarily thy Scene, thy Climate: Lord, dost thou not accuse me, dost thou not reproach to mee, my 10 former sinns, when thou layest mee upon this bed? Is not this to hang a man at his owne dore, to lay him sicke in his owne bed of wantonnesse? When thou chidest us by thy Prophet for lying in beds of Ivory, is not thine anger vented; not till thou changest our bedds of Ivory, into beds 15 of Ebony? David sweares unto thee, that hee will not goe up into his bed, till he had built thee a house. To go up into the bed, denotes strength, and promises ease; But when thou saiest, That thou wilt cast Jesubel into a bed, thou mak'st thine own comment upon that, Thou callest the 20 bed Tribulation, great Tribulation: How shal they come to thee, whom thou hast nayled to their bed? Thou art in the Congregation, and I in a solitude: when the Centurions servant lay sicke at home, his Master was faine to come to Christ; the sicke man could not. Their friend lay sicke of 25 the Palsey, and the four charitable men were faine to bring him to Christ; he could not come. Peters wives mother lay sicke of a fever, and Christ came to her; shee could not come to him. My friends may carrie mee home to thee, in their prayers in the Congregation; Thou must come home 30 to me in the visitation of thy Spirit, and in the seale of thy upon me; And, Lord, I have loved the habitation of thy house, and the place where thine honour dwelleth: I lye here, and say, Blessed are they, that dwell in thy house; but I cannot say, I will come into thy house; I may say, In thy feare will I worship towards thy holy Temple, but I cannot say, in thy holy Temple: and, Lord, the zeale of thy House, eats me up, as fast as my fever; It is not a Recusancie, for I would come, but it is an Excommunication, I must not. But Lord, thou art Lord of Hosts, and lovest Action; Why callest thou me from my calling? In the grave no man shall praise thee; In the doore of the grave, this sicke bed, no man shal heare me praise thee: Thou hast not opned my lips, that my mouth might shew thee thy praise, but that my mouth might shew foorth thy praise. But thine Apostles feare takes hold of mee, that when I have preached to others, I myselve should be a cast-way; and therefore I am cast downe, that I might not be cast away; Thou couldst take mee by the head, as thou didst Abacuc, and carrie mee so; By a Chariot, as thou didst Elijah, and carrie me so; but thou carriest me thine own private way, the way by which thou carryedst thy Sonne, who first lay upon the earth, and praid, and then had his Exaltation, as himselfe calls his Crucifying, and first descended into hell, and then had his Ascension. There is another Station (indeed neither are stations but prostrations) lower than this bed; To morrow I may be laid one Story lower, upon the Floore, the face of the earth, and next day another Story, in the grave, the wombe of the Earth: As yet God suspends mee betweene Heaven and Earth, as a Meteor; and I am not in Heaven, because an earthly bodie clogges me, and I am not in the Earth, because a Heavenly Soule sustaines mee. And it is thine owne Law, O God, that if a man bee smitten so by another, as that hee keepe his bed, though he dye not, hee that hurt him, must take care of his healing, and recompence him. Thy hand strikes mee into this bed; and therefore if I rise againe, thou wilt bee my 5 recompence, all the dayes of my life, in making the memory of this sicknes beneficiall to me, and if my body fall yet lower, thou wilt take my soule out of this bath, and present it to thy Father, washed againe, and againe, and againe, in thine own teares, in thine owne sweat, in thine 10 owne blood.

3. PRAYER.

O Most mightie and most merciful God, who though thou have taken me off of my feet, hast not taken me off of my foundation, which is thy selfe, who though thou have removed me from that upright forme, in which 15 I could stand, and see thy throne, the Heavens, yet hast not removed from mee that light, by which I can lie and see thy selfe, who, though thou have weakened my bodily knees, that they cannot bow to thee, hast yet left mee the knees of my heart, which are bowed unto thee evermore;
20 As thou hast made this bed, thine Altar, make me thy Sacrifice; and as thou makest thy Sonne Christ Jesus the Priest, so make me his Deacon, to minister to him in a chereful surrender of my body, and soule to thy pleasure, by his hands. I come unto thee, O God, my God, I come 25 unto thee (so as I can come, I come to thee, by imbracing thy comming to me) I come in the confidence, and in the application of thy servant Davids promise, That thou wilt make all my bed in my sicknesse; All my bed; That which way soever I turne, I may turne to thee; And as I feele thy from one, and the same, and all, from thy hand. As thou hast made these feathers, thornes, in the sharpnes of this sicknes, so, Lord, make these thornes, feathers, againe, feathers of thy Dove, in the peace of Conscience, and in a holy recourse to thine Arke, to the Instruments of true 5 comfort, in thy Institutions, and in the Ordinances of thy Church. Forget my bed, O Lord, as it hath beene a bedde of sloth, and worse then sloth, Take mee not, O Lord, at this advantage, to terrifie my soule, with saying, Now I have met thee there, where thou hast so often departed 10 from me; but having burnt up that bed, by these vehement heates, and washed that bed in these abundant sweats, make my bed againe, O Lord, and enable me according to thy command, to commune with mine owne heart upon my bed, and be still. To provide a bed for all my former sinnes, 15 whilst I lie upon this bed, and a grave for my sins, before I come to my grave; and when I have deposed them in the wounds of thy Sonn, to rest in that assurance, that my Conscience is discharged from further anxietie, and my soule from further danger, and my Memory from further 20 calumny. Doe this, O Lord, for his sake, who did, and suffered so much, that thou mightest, as well in thy Justice, as well as in thy Mercy, doe it for me, thy Sonne, our Saviour, Christ Jesus.

4. MEDITATION.

IT is too little to call Man a little World; Except God, 25
Man is a diminutive to nothing. Man consists of more pieces, more parts, then the world; then the world doeth, nay then the world is. And if those pieces were extended, and stretched out in Man, as they are in the world, Man would bee the Gyant, and the Worlde the 30

Dwarfe, the World but the Map, and the Man the World.
 If all the Veines in our bodies, were extended to Rivers, and all the Sinewes, to Vaines of Mines, and all the Muscles, that lye upon one another, to Hilles, and all the Bones to 5 Quarries of stones, and all the other pieces, to the proportion of those which correspond to them in the world, the Aire would be too litle for this Orbe of Man to move in, the firmament would bee but enough for this Starre; for,
 as the whole world hath nothing, to which something in 10 man doth not answere, so hath man many pieces, of which the whol world hath no representation. Inlarge this Meditation upon this great world, Man, so farr, as to consider the immensitie of the creatures this world produces; our creatures are our thoughts, creatures that are 15 borne Gyants; that reach from East to West, from Earth to Heaven, that doe not onely bestride all the Sea, and Land, but span the Sunn and Firmament at once; My thoughts reach all, comprehend all. Inexplicable mistery;
 I their Creator am in a close prison, in a sicke bed, any 20 where, and any one of my Creatures, my thoughts, is with the Sunne, and beyond the Sunne, overtakes the Sunne, and overgoes the Sunne in one pace, one steppe, everywhere. And then as the other world produces Serpents, and Vipers, malignant, and venomous creatures, and 25 Wormes, and Caterpillars, that endeavour to devoure that world which produces them, and Monsters compiled and complicated of divers parents, and kinds, so this world, our selves, produces all these in us, in producing diseases, and sicknesses, of all those sorts; venomous, and infectious 30 diseases, feeding and consuming diseases, and manifold and entangled diseases, made up of many several ones.
 And can the other world name so many venimous, so many consuming, so many monstrous creatures, as we can diseases, of all these kindes? O miserable abundance, O beggarly riches! how much doe wee lacke of having remedies for everie disease, when as yet we have not names for them? But wee have a Hercules against these Gyants, these Monsters; that is, the Phisician; hee musters up al the 5 forces of the other world, to succour this; all Nature to relieve Man. We have the Phisician, but we are not the Phisician. Heere we shrinke in our proportion, sink in our dignitie, in respect of verie meane creatures, who are Phisicians to themselves. The Hart that is pursued and 10 wounded, they say, knowes an Herbe, which being eaten, throwes off the arrow: A strange kind of vomit. The dog that pursues it, though hee bee subject to sicknes, even proverbially, knowes his grasse that recovers him. And it may be true, that the Drugger is as neere to Man, as to 15 other creatures, it may be that obvious and present Simples, easie to bee had, would cure him; but the Apothecary is not so neere him, nor the Phisician so neere him, as they two are to other creatures; Man hath not that innate instinct, to apply these naturall medicines to his present 20 danger, as those inferiour creatures have; he is not his owne Apothecary, his owne Phisician, as they are. Call back therefore thy Meditation again, and bring it downe; whats become of mans great extent and proportion, when himselfe shrinkes himselfe, and consumes himselfe to a 25 handfull of dust; whats become of his soaring thoughts, his compassing thoughts, when himselfe brings himselfe to the ignorance, to the thoughtlesnesse of the Grave? His diseases are his owne, but the Phisician is not; hee hath them at home, but hee must send for the Phisician. 30

4. EXPOSTULATION.

I Have not the righteousnesse of Job, but I have the desire of Job, I would speake to the Almighty and I would reason with God. My God, my God, how soone wouldest thou have me goe to the Phisician, and how farre wouldest 5 thou have me go with the Phisician? I know thou hast made the Matter, and the Man, and the Art, and I goe not from thee when I go to the Phisician. Thou didst not make clothes before there was a shame of the nakednes of the body; but thou didst make Phisick before there was any 10 grudging of any sicknes; for thou didst imprint a medicinall vertue in many Simples, even from the beginning; didst thou meane that wee should be sicke, when thou didst so?
 when thou madest them? No more then thou didst meane, that we should sinne, when thou madest us: thou fore-15 sawest both, but causedst neither. Thou, Lord, promisest heere trees, whose fruit shall bee for meat, and their leaves for Medicine. It is the voyce of thy Sonn, Wilt thou bee made whole? That drawes from the patient the confession that hee was ill, and could not make him selfe wel. And 20 it is thine owne voyce, Is there no Phisician? That inclines us, disposes us to accept thine Ordinance. And it is the voyce of the Wise man, both for the matter, Phisick it selfe,
The Lord hath created Medicines out of the Earth, and hee that is wise, shall not abhorre them, And for the Arte, and 25 the Person, The Phisician cutteth off a long disease. In all these voyces, thou sendest us to those helpes, which thou hast afforded us in that. But wilt not thou avowe that voyce too, Hee that hath sinned against his Maker, let him fall into the hands of the Phisician; and wilt not thou afford 30 me an understanding of those wordes? Thou who sendest us for a blessing to the Phisician, doest not make it a curse to us, to go, when thou sendest. Is not the curse rather in this, that onely hee falls into the hands of the Phisician, that casts himself wholly, intirely upon the Phisician, confides in him, relies upon him, attends all from him, and neglects that spirituall phisicke, which thou also hast 5 instituted in thy Church: so to fall into the hands of the Phisician, is a sinne, and a punishment of former sinnes; so, as Asa fell, who in his disease, sought not to the Lord, but to the Phisician. Reveale therefore to me thy Method, O Lord, and see, whether I have followed it; that thou mayest have 10 glory, if I have, and I pardon, if I have not, and helpe that I may. Thy Method is, In time of thy sicknesse, be not negligent: Wherein wilt thou have my diligence expressed? Pray unto the Lord, and hee will make thee whole. O Lord, I doe; I pray, and pray thy servant Dauids prayer, Have 15 mercy upon mee, O Lord, for I am weake; Heale mee, O Lord, for my bones are vexed: I knowe, that even my weakenesse is a reason, a motive, to induce thy mercie, and my sicknes an occasion of thy sending health. When art thou so readie, when is it so seasonable to thee, to commiserate, as 20 in miserie? But is Prayer for health in season, as soone as I am sicke? Thy Method goes further; Leave off from sinne, and order thy handes aright, and cleanse thy heart from all wickednesse; Have I, O Lord, done so? O Lord, I have; by thy Grace, I am come to a holy detestation of my former 25 sin; Is there any more? In thy Method there is more; Give a sweet savor, and a memoriall of fine flower, and make a fat offering, as not being. And, Lord, by thy grace, I have done that, sacrificed a little, of that litle which thou lentst me, to them, for whom thou lentst it: and now in thy 30 Method, and by thy steps, I am come to that, Then give

4. PRAYER.

O Most mightie, and most merciful God, who art so the God of health, and strength, as that without thee, all health is but the fuell, and all strength, but the bellows
 10 of sinne; Behold mee under the vehemence of two diseases, and under the necessity of two Phisicians, authorized by thee, the bodily, and the spiritual Phisician. I come to both, as to thine Ordinance, and blesse, and glorifie thy Name, that in both cases, thou hast afforded help to man by the 15 Ministry of man. Even in the new Jerusalem, in Heaven it selfe, it hath pleased thee to discover a Tree, which is a Tree of life there, but the leaves thereof are for the healing of the Nations; Life it selfe is with thee there, for thou art Life; and all kinds of Health, wrought upon us here, by 20 thine Instruments, descend from thence. Thou wouldest have healed Babylon, but she is not healed; Take from mee, O Lord, her perversenesse, her wilfulnesse, her refractarinesse, and heare thy Spirit saying in my Soule, Heale mee, O Lord, for I would bee healed. Ephraim saw his sicke-25 nesse, and Judah his wound; then went Ephraim to the Assyrian, and sent to King Jareb, yet could not hee heale you, nor cure you of your wound. Keepe me back, O Lord, from them who mis-professe artes of healing the Soule, or of the

Thou in thy selfe art Lord of both, and thou in thy Son art the Phisician, 5 the applyer of both. With his stripes wee are healed, sayes the Prophet there; there, before hee was scourged, wee were healed with his stripes; how much more shall I bee healed now, now, when that which he hath already suffred actually, is actually, and effectually applied to me? Is 10 there anything incurable, upon which that Balme drops? Any vaine so emptie, as that that blood cannot fil it? Thou promisest to heale the earth; but it is when the inhabitants of the earth pray that thou wouldest heale it. Thou promisest to heale their Waters, but their miery places, and standing 15 waters, thou sayest there, Thou wilt not heale: My returning to any sinne, if I should return to the abilitie of sinning over all my sins againe, thou wouldest not pardon. Heale this earth, O my God, by repentant tears, and heale these waters, these teares from all bitternes, from all diffidence, 20 from all direction, by establishing my irremovable assurance in thee. Thy Sonn went about healing all manner of sicknesses. 5. MEDITATION.

AS Sicknes is the greatest misery, so the greatest misery
 15 of sicknes, is solitude; when the infectiousnes of the disease deterrs them who should assist, from comming; even the Phisician dares scarce come. Solitude is a torment which is not threatned in hell it selfe. Meere vacuitie, the first Agent, God, the first instrument of God, Nature, will not admit; Nothing can be utterly emptie, but so neere a 20 degree towards Vacuitie, as Solitude, to bee but one, they love not. When I am dead, and my body might infect, they have a remedy, they may bury me; but when I am but sick, and might infect, they have no remedy, but their absence, and my solitude. It is an excuse to them that are 25 great, and pretend, and yet are loth to come; it is an inhibition to those who would truly come, because they may be made instruments, and pestiducts, to the infection of others, by their comming. And it is an Outlawry, an

2. should she not have bin ashamed 1626] should she not beene ashamed 1624 (1 & 2).

Excommunication upon the Patient, and seperats him from all offices not onely of Civilitie, but of working Charitie. A long sicknesse will weary friends at last, but a pestilentiall sicknes averts them from the beginning. God himself wold admit a figure of Society, as there is a 5 plurality of persons in God, though there bee but one God; and all his externall actions testifie a love of Societie, and communion. In Heaven there are Orders of Angels, and Armies of Martyrs, and in that house, many mansions; in 10 Earth, Families, Cities, Churches, Colleges, all plurall things; and lest either of these should not be company enough alone, there is an association of both, a Communion of Saints, which makes the Militant, and Triumphant Church, one Parish; So that Christ, was not out of his Dioces, when 15 hee was upon the Earth, nor out of his Temple, when he was in our flesh. God, who sawe that all that hee made, was good, came not so neer seeing a defect in any of his works, as when he saw that it was not good, for man to 20 bee alone, therefore hee made him a helper; and one that should helpe him so, as to increase the number, and give him her owne, and more societie. Angels, who do not propagate, nor multiply, were made at the first in an abundant number; and so were starres: But for the things of this world, their blessing was, Encrease; for I think, I 25 need not aske leave to think, that there is no Phenix; nothing singular, nothing alone: Men that inhere upon Nature only, are so far from thinking, that there is anything singular in this world, as that they will scarce thinke, that this world it selfe is singular, but that every Planet, and every Starre, is another world like this; They finde reason 30 to conceive, not onely a pluralitie in every Species in the world, but a pluralitie of worlds; so that the abhorrrers of

16. flesh. 1624 (2), 1626] flesh 1624 (1), corrected in Errata.

Solitude, are not solitary; for God, and Nature, and Reason concur against it. Now a man may counterfeyt the Plague in a vowe, and mistake a Disease for Religion; by such a retiring, and recluding of himselfe from all men, 5 as to doe good to no man, to converse with no man. God hath two Testaments, two Wils; but this is a Scedule, and not of his, a Codicill, and not of his, not in the body of his Testaments, but interlin'd, and postscrib'd by others, that the way to the Communion of Saints, should be by such 10 a solitude, as excludes all doing of good here. That is a disease of the mind; as the height of an infectious disease of the body, is solitude, to be left alone: for this makes an infectious bed, equall, nay worse then a grave, that thogh in both I be equally alone, in my bed I know it, and feelee 15 it, and shall not in my grave: and this too, that in my bedd, my soule is still in an infectious body, and shall not in my grave bee so.

5. EXPOSTULATION.

Jo. 11. 23. O God, my God, thy Son tooke it not ill at Marthaes handes, that when he said unto her, Thy brother 20 Lazarus shall rise againe, she expostulated it so far with him, as to reply, I know that he shal rise againe in the Resurrection, at the last day; for shee was miserable by wanting him then. Take it not ill, O my God, from me, that thogh thou have ordained it for a blessing, and for a 25 dignitie to thy people, That they should dwell alone, and not bee reckoned among the Nations, (because they should be above them) and that they should dwell in safetie alone (free from the infestation of enemies) yet I take thy leave to remember thee, that thou hast said to, Two are better then 30 one; And, Woe be unto him that is alone when he falleth; and so, when he is fallen, and laid in the bedde of sicknesse too. Righteousnesse is immortall; I know thy wisdome hath said so; but no Man, though covered with the righteousnes of thy Sonne, is immortall so, as not to die; for he who was righteousnes it selfe, did die. I know that the Son of 5 righteousnes, thy Son, refused not, nay affected solitarinesse, lonenesse, many, many times; but at all times, he was able to command more than twelve legions of Angels to his service; and when he did not so, he was farre from being alone; for, I am not alone, saies he, but I, and the Father that sent me. 10 Jo. 8. 16. I cannot feare, but that I shall alwaies be with thee, and him; but whether this disease may not alien, and remoove my friends, so that they stand aloofe from my sore, and my kinsmen stand afar off, I cannot tel. I cannot feare, but that thou wilt reckon with me from this minute, in which, 15 by thy grace, I see thee; whether this understanding, and this will, and this memory, may not decay, to the discouragement, and the ill interpretation of them, that see that heavy change in me, I cannot tell. It was for thy blessed, thy powerfull Sonne alone, to tread the wine-presse alone, 20 and none of the people with him; I am not able to passe this agony alone; not alone without thee; Thou art thy spirit; not alone without thine; spirituall and temporall Phisicians, are thine; not alone without mine; Those whom the bands of blood or friendship, hath made mine, are mine; And if 25 thou, or thine, or mine, abandon me, I am alone, and woe unto me, if I bee alone. Elias himselfe fainted under that apprehension, Loe, I am left alone; and Martha murmured at that, and said to Christ, Lord, doest not thou care, that my sister hath left me to serve alone? Neither could Jeremiah 30 enter into his Lamentations, from a higher ground, then to say, How doth the citie sit solitary, that was full of people. Lam. 1. 1.

5 them that should assist, that should comfort me? But comes not this Expostulation too neere a murmuring? Must I be concluded with that, that Moses was commaunded to come neere the Lord alone? That solitarines, and dereliction, and abandoning of others, disposes us best for God, who 10 accompanies us most alone? May I not remember, and apply to; that thogh God came not to Jacob, till he found him alone, yet when he found him alone, hee wrestled with him, and lamed him? That when in the dereliction and forsaking of friends and Phisicians, a man is left alone to

5. PRAYER.

25 O Eternall, and most gracious God, who calledst down fire from Heaven upon the sinfull Cities, but once, and openedst the Earth to swallow the Murmurers, but once, and threwst down the Tower of Siloe upon sinners, but once, but for thy workes of mercie repeatest them often, and still workest by thine owne paternes, as thou broghest so whether it bee thy will to continue mee long thus, or to dismissee me by death, be pleased to afford me the helps fit for both conditions, either for my weak stay here, or my finall transmigration from hence. And if thou mayest receive glory by that way (and, by all wayes thou maist 5 receive glory) glorifie thy selfe in preserving this body from such infections, as might withhold those, who would come, or indanger them who doe come; and preserve this soule

in the faculties therof, from all such distempers, as might shake the assurance which my selfe and others have had, 10 that because thou hast loved me, thou wouldst love me to my end, and at my end. Open none of my dores, not of my hart, not of mine eares, not of my house, to any sup- planter that would enter to undermine me in my Religion to thee, in the time of my weaknesse, or to defame me, 15 and magnifie himselfe, with false rumeurs of such a victory, and surprisall of me, after I am dead; Be my salvation, and plead my salvation; work it, and declare it; and as thy Triumphant shall be, so let the Militant Church bee assured, that thou wast my God, and I thy servant, to, and in my 20 consummation. Blesse thou the learning, and the labours of this Man, whom thou sendest to assist me; and since thou takest mee by the hand, and putttest me into his hands (for I come to him in thy name, who, in thy name comes to me) since I clog not my hopes in him, no nor my 25 prayers to thee, with any limited conditions, but inwrap all in those two petitions, Thy kingdome come, thy will be done, prosper him, and relieve me, in thy way, in thy time, and in thy measure. Amen.

6. Metuit.

The Phisician is afraid.

6. MEDITATION.

I Observe the Phisician, with the same diligence, as hee the disease; I see hee feares, and I feare with him:
 I overtake him, I overrun him in his feare, and I go the faster, because he makes his pace slow; I feare the more, 5 because he disguises his fear, and I see it with the more sharpnesse, because hee would not have me see it. He knows that his feare shall not disorder the practise, and exercise of his Art, but he knows that my fear may disorder the effect, and working of his practise. As the ill affections 10 of the spleene, complicate, and mingle themselves with every infirmitie of the body, so doth feare insinuat it self in every action, or passion of the mind; and as the wind in the body will counterfet any disease, and seem the stone, and seem the Gout, so feare will counterfet any disease of 15 the Mind; It shall seeme love, a love of having, and it is but a fear, a jealous, and suspitious feare of loosing; It shall seem valor in despising, and undervaluing danger, and it is but feare, in an overvaluing of opinion, and estimation, and a feare of loosing that, A man that is not 20 afraid of a Lion is afraid of a Cat; not afraid of starving, and yet is afraid of some joynt of meat at the table, presented to feed him; not afraid of the sound of Drummes, and Trumpets, and Shot, and those, which they seeke to drowne, the last cries of men, and is afraid of some particular 25 harmonious instrument; so much afraid, as that with any of these the enemy might drive this man, otherwise valiant enough, out of the field. I know not, what fear is, nor I know not what it is that I fear now; I feare not the hastening of my death, and yet I do fear the increase of 30 the disease; I should belie Nature, if I should deny that I feared this, and if I should say that I feared death, I should belye God; My weaknesse is from Nature, who hath but her Measure, my strength is from God, who possesses, and distributes infinitely. As then every cold ayre, is not a dampe, every shivering is not a stupefaction, so every feare, is not a fearefulness, every declination is not a running away, 5 every debating is not a resolving, every wish, that it were not thus, is not a murmuring, nor a dejection though it bee thus; but as my Phisicians fear puts not him from his practise, neither doth mine put me, from receiving from God, and Man, and my selfe, spirituall, and civill, and 10 morall assistances, and consolations.

6. EXPOSTULATION.

MY God, my God, I find in thy Booke, that feare is a stifling spirit, a spirit of suffocation; That Ishbosheth could not speak, not reply in his own defence to Abner, because hee was afraid. It was thy servant Jobs case too, who before 15 hee could say anything to thee, saies of thee, Let him take his rod away from me, and let not his feare terrise me, then would I speake with him, and not feare him; but it is not so with me. Shall a feare of thee take away my devotion to thee? Dost thou command me to speake to thee, and 20 command me to feare thee, and do these destroy one another? There is no perplexity in thee, my God; no inextricablnes in thee, my light, and my clearnes, my Sun, and my Moone, that directest me as wel in the night of adversity and fear, as in my day of prosperity and confi- 25 dence. I must then speake to thee, at all times, but when must I feare thee? At all times to. When didst thou rebuke any Petitioner, with the name of Importunate? Thou hast proposd to us a parable of a Judge that did Justice at last, because the client was importunate, and 30 troubled him; But thou hast told us plainly, that thy use in that parable, was not, that thou wast troubled with our importunities, but (as thou sayest there) That wee should alwayes pray. And to the same purpose thou proposest

 5 another, that If I presse my friend, when hee is in bed, at midnight, to lend mee bread, though hee will not rise because I am his friend, yet because of mine importunitie, he will. God will do this, whensoever thou askest, and never call it importunitie. Pray in thy bed at midnight, and God wil
 10 not say, I will heare the tomorrow upon thy knees, at thy bed side; pray upon thy knees there, then, and God will not say, I will heare thee on Sunday, at Church; God is no dilatatory God, no froward God; Praier is never unseasonable, God is never asleep nor absent. But, O my God, can I doe
 15 this, and feare thee; come to thee, in all places, at all houres, and feare thee? Dare I aske this question? There is more boldnesse in the question, then in the comming; I may doe it, though I feare thee; I cannot doe it, except I feare thee. So well hast thou provided, that we should 20 alwayes feare thee, as that thou hast provided, that we should feare no person but thee, nothing but thee; no men? No. Whom? The Lord is my helpe, and my salvation, whome shall I feare? Great enemies? not great enemies; for no enemies are great to them that feare thee; Feare not the 25 people of this land, for they are Bread to you; They shall not only eat us, not eat our bread, but they shall bee our Bread; Why should we feare them? But for all this Metaphoricall Bread, victory over enemies, that thought to devoure us, may we not feare, that we may lack bread

Lord, shall not want any good thing. Never? Though it bee well with them at one time, may they not feare, that it may be worse? Wherfore should I feare in the dayes of evill? saies thy servant David; Though his own sin had made them evill, he feared them not. No? not if this evill 5 determin in death? Not though in a death; not, though in a death inflicted by violence, by malice, by our own desert, feare not the sentence of death, if thou feare God. Thou art, O my God, so far from admitting us, that feare thee, to feare others, as that thou makest others to feare 10 us; As Herod feared John, because hee was a holy, and a just man, and observed him. How fully then O my abundant God, how gently, O my sweet, my easie God, doest thou unentangle mee, in any scruple arising out of the consideration of thy feare? Is not this that which thou intendest, when 15 thou sayst, The secret of the Lord is with them, that feare him; The secret, the mistery of the right use of feare. Dost thou not meane this, when thou sayest, Wee shall understand the feare of the Lord? Have it, and have benefit by it; have it, and stand under it; be directed by it, and not 20 be dejected with it. And dost thou not propose that Church for our example, when thou sayest, The Church of Judea, walked in the feare of God; they had it, but did not sit down lazily, nor fall downe weakly, nor sinke under it. There is a feare which weakens men in the service of God: Adam 25 was afrayde, because hee was naked. They who have put off thee, are a prey to all. They may feare, for thou wilt laugh, when their feare comes upon them, as thou hast tolde them, more then once; And thou wilt make them feare, where no cause of feare is, as thou hast told them more than once too. 30
There is a feare that is a punishment of former wicked-they ran upon those two legs, feare, and joy; and both was the right legg; they joy in thee, O Lord, that feare thee, and feare thee only, who feele this joy in thee. Nay, thy feare and thy love, are inseparable; still we are called upon, in 5 infinite places, to feare God; yet the Commandement, which is the roote of all, is, Thou shalt love the Lord thy God; Hee doeth neither, that doth not both; hee omits neither, that does one. Therefore when thy servant David had said, that 10 the feare of the Lord is the beginning of wisdome, And his Sonne had repeated it againe, Hee that collects both, calls this feare, the root of wisdome; And that it may embrace all, he calls it wisdome it selfe. A wise man therefore is never without it, never without the exercise of it: Therefore thou sentest Moses to thy people, That they might learne to 15 feare thee all the dayes of their lives: not in heavy, and calamitous, but in good, and cheerfull dayes too: for, Noah, who had assurance of his deliverance, yet mooved with feare, prepared an Arke, for the saving of his house. A wise man wil feare in every thing. And therefore though I pre-

 20 tend, to no other degree of wisdome, I am abundantly rich in this, that I lye heere possess with that feare, which is thy feare, both that this sicknesse is thy immediate correction, and not meerey a naturall accident; and therefore fearefull, because it is a fearefull thing to fall into thy hands, 25 and that this feare preserves me from all inordinate feare, arising out of the infirmitie of Nature, because thy hand being upon me, thou wilt never let me fall out of thy hand.

6. PRAYER.

O Most mightie God, and mercifull God, the God of all true sorrow, and true joy to, of all feare, and of al hope to, 30 as thou hast given me a repentance, not to be repented of, so give me, O Lord, a feare, of which I may not be afraid.

Give me tender, and supple, and conformable affections, that as I joy with them that joy, and mourne with them, that mourne, so I may feare with them that feare. And since thou hast vouchsafed to discover to me, in his feare
5 whom thou hast admitted to be my assistance in this sicknesse, that there is danger therein, let me not, O Lord, go about to overcome the sense of that fear, so far, as to pretermit the fitting, and preparing of my selfe, for the worst that may bee feard, the passage out of this life. Many 10 of thy blessed Martyrs, have passed out of this life, without any show of feare; but thy most blessed Sonne himselfe did not so. Thy Martyrs were known to be but men, and therefore it pleased thee, to fill them with thy Spirit, and thy power, in that they did more then men; Thy Son was 15 declard by thee, and by himselfe to be God; and it was requisite, that he should declare himselfe to be Man also, in the weaknesses of man. Let mee not therefore, O my God, bee ashamed of these feares, but let me feele them to determine, where his feare did, in a present submitting of 20 all to thy will. And when thou shalt have inflamd, and thawd my former coldnesses, and indevotions, with these heats, and quenched my former heates, with these sweats, and inundations, and rectified my former presumptions, and negligences with these fears, bee pleased, O Lord, as 25 one, made so by thee, to thinke me fit for thee; And whether it be thy pleasure, to dispose of this body, this garment so, as to put it to a farther wearing in this world, or to lay it up in the common wardrope, the grave, for the next, glorifie thy selfe in thy choyce now, and glorifie it 30 then, with that glory, which thy Son, our Saviour Christ Jesus hath purchased for them, whome thou makest partakers of his Resurrection. Amen.

7. Socios sibi jungier instat.

The Physician desires to have others joyned with him.

7. MEDITATION.

THere is more feare, therefore more cause. If the Physician desire help, the burden grows great: There is a growth of the Disease then; But there must bee an Autumne to; But whether an Autumne of the disease or mee, it is not my part to choose: but if it bee of mee, it is of both; 5
 My disease cannot survive mee, I may overlive it. Howsoever, his desiring of others, argues his candor, and his ingenuitie; if the danger be great, he justifies his proceedings, and he disguises nothing, that calls in witnesses; And if the danger bee not great, hee is not ambitious, that is so readie 10 to divide the thankes, and the honour of that work, which he begun alone, with others. It diminishes not the dignitie of a Monarch, that hee derive part of his care upon others; God hath not made many Suns, but he hath made many bodies, that receive, and give light. The Romanes began with 15
one King; they came to two Consuls; they returned in extremities, to one Dictator: whether in one, or many, the Soveraigntie is the same, in all States, and the danger is not the more, and the providence is the more, wher there are more Physicians; as the State is the happier, where busi- 20
 nesses are carried by more counsels, than can bee in one breast, how large soever. Diseases themselves hold Consultations, and conspire how they may multiply, and joyn with one another, and exalt one anothers force, so; and shal we not call Physicians, to consultations? Death is in an 25 olde mans dore, he appeares, and tels him so, and death is at a yong mans backe, and saies nothing; Age is a sicknesse, and Youth is an ambush; and we need so many Physicians, as may make up a Watch, and spie every inconvenience. There is scarce any thing, that hath not killed some body; 30 a haire, a feather hath done it; Nay, that which is our best Antidote against it, hath donn it; the best Cordiall hath bene deadly poyson; Men have dyed of Joy, and almost forbidden their friends to weepe for them, when they have 5 seen them dye laughing. Even that Tiran Dyonisius (I thinke the same, that suffered so much after) who could not die of that sorrow, of that high fal, from a King to a wretched private man, dyed of so poore a Joy, as to be declar'd by the people at a Theater, that hee was a good Poet.

 10 We say often that a Man may live of a litle; but, alas, of how much lesse may a Man dye? And therfore the more assistants, the better; who comes to a day of hearing, in a cause of any importance, with one Advocate? In our Funerals, we our selves have no interest; there wee cannot 15 advise, we cannot direct: And though some Nations, (the Egyptians in particular) built themselves better tombs, then houses, because they were to dwell longer in them; yet, amongst our selves, the greatest Man of Stile, whom we have had, The Conqueror, was left, as soone as his soule left
 20 him, not only without persons to assist at his grave, but without a grave. Who will keepe us then, we know not; As long as we can, let us admit as much helpe as wee can; Another, and another Phisician, is not another, and another Indication, and Symptom of death, but another, and another
 25 Assistant, and Proctor of life: Nor doe they so much feed the imagination with apprehension of danger, as the understanding with comfort; Let not one bring Learning, another Diligence, another Religion, but every one bring all, and, as many Ingredients enter into a Receit, so may many men 30 make the Receit. But why doe I exercise my Meditation so long upon this, of having plentifull helpe in time of need? Is not my Meditation rather to be enclined another way, to condole, and commiserate their distresse, who have none? How many are sicker (perchance) then I, and laid on their wofull straw at home (if that corner be a home) and have no more hope of helpe, though they die, then of preferment, though they live? Nor doe no more expect to see a Phisician then, then to bee an Officer after; of 5 whome, the first that takes knowledge, is the Sexten that buries them; who buries them in oblivion too? For they doe but fill up the number of the dead in the Bill, but we shall never heare their Names, till wee reade them in the Booke of life, with our owne. How many are sicker 10 (perchance) then I, and thrown into Hospitals, where, (as a fish left upon the Sand, must stay the tide) they must stay the Phisicians houre of visiting, and then can bee but visited? How many are sicker (perchance) then all we, and have not this Hospitall to cover them, not this straw, 15 to lie in, to die in, but have their Grave-stone under them, and breathe out the soules in the eares, and in the eies of passengers, harder then their bed, the flint of the street?

 That taste of no part of our Phisick, but a sparing dyet; to whom ordinary porridge would bee Julip enough, the 20 refuse of our servants, Bezar enough, and the off-scouring of our Kitchen tables, Cordiall enough. O my soule, when thou art not enough awake, to blesse thy God enough for his plentifull mercy, in affoording thee many Helpers, remember how many lacke them, and helpe them to them, 25 or to those other things, which they lacke as much as them.

7. EXPOSTULATION.

MY God, my God, thy blessed servant Augustine begg'd of thee, that Moses might come, and tell him what hee meant by some places of Genesis: May I have leave to aske of that Spirit, that writ that Booke, why when David 30

tolde him, that hee sawe a man running alone, David concluded out of that circumstance, That if hee came alone, hee brought good newes? I see the Grammar, the word signifies so, and is so ever accepted, Good newes; but I see not the 5 Logique, nor the Rhetorique, how David would proove, or perswade that his newes was good, because hee was alone, except a greater company might have made great impressions of danger, by imploring, and importuning present supplies: Howsoever that bee, I am sure, that that which 10 thy Apostle sayes to Timothy, Onely Luke is with me, Luke, and no body but Luke, hath a taste of complaint, and sorrow in it: Though Luke want no testimony of abilitie, of forwardnes, of constancie, and perseverance, in assisting that great building, which S. Paul laboured in, yet S. Paul 15 is affected with that, that ther was none but Luke, to assist. We take S. Luke to have bin a Phisician, and it admits the application the better, that in the presence of one good Phisician, we may bee glad of more. It was not only a civill spirit of policy, or order that moved Moses father in 20 law, to perswade him to divide the burden of Government, and Judicature, with others, and take others to his assistance, but it was also thy immediat spirit O my God, that mov'd Moses to present unto the 70 of the Elders of Israel, to receive of that spirit, which was upon Moses onely before, 25 such a portion as might ease him in the government of that people; though Moses alone had indowments above all, thou gavest him other assistants. I consider thy plentifull goodnesse, O my God, in employing Angels, more then one, in so many of thy remarkable workes. Of thy Sonne, Jo. 20. 22.

God, thou lovest to walk in thine own waies, for they are large) thy way from the beginning, is multiplication of thy helps; and therefore it were a degree of ingratitude, not to accept this mercy of affording me many helpes for my bodily 5 health, as a type and earnest of thy gracious purpose now, and ever, to affoord mee the same assistances. That for thy great Helpe, thy Word, I may seeke that, not from corners, nor Conventicles, nor schismatical singularities, but from the association, and communion of thy Catholique Church, and 10 those persons, whom thou hast alwayes furnished that Church withall: And that I may associate thy Word, with thy Sacrament, thy Seale, with thy Patent; and in that Sacrament associate the signe with the thing signified, the Bread with the Body of thy Sonne, so, as I may be sure to 15 have received both, and to bee made thereby, (as thy blessed servant Augustine sayes) the Arke, and the Monument, and the Tombe of thy most blessed Sonne, that hee, and all the merits of his death, may, by that receiving, bee buried in me, to my quickning in this world, and my 20 immortall establishing in the next.

7. PRAYER.

O Eternall, and most gracious God, who gavest to thy servants in the wildernes, thy Manna, bread so condition'd, qualified so, as that, to every man Manna tasted like that, which that man liked best, I humbly beseech thee,
 25 to make this correction, which I acknowledg to be part of my daily bread, to tast so to me, not as I would, but as thou wouldest have it taste, and to conform my tast, and make it agreeable to thy will. Thou wouldest have thy corrections tast of humiliation, but thou wouldest have them 30 tast of consolation too; taste of danger, but tast of assurance too. As therefore thou hast imprinted in all thine Elements, of which our bodies consist, two manifest qualities, so that, as thy fire dries, so it heats too; and as thy water moysts, so it cooles too, so O Lord, in these corrections, which are the elements of our regeneration, by which our soules are made thine, imprint thy two qualities, those two operations, that 5 as they scourge us, they may scourge us into the way to thee: that when they have shewed us, that we are nothing in our selves, they may also shew us, that thou art all things unto us. When therefore in this particular circumstance, O Lord (but none of thy Judgements are circum- 10 stances; they are all of the substance of thy good purpose upon us) when in this particular, that he, whom thou hast sent to assist me, desires assistants to him, thou hast let me see, in how few houres thou canst throw me beyond the helpe of man, let me by the same light see, that no 15 vehimence of sicknes, no tentation of Satan, no guiltines of sin, no prison of death, not this first, this sicke bed, not the other prison, the close and dark grave, can remoove me from the determind, and good purpose, which thou hast sealed concerning mee. Let me think no degree of 20 this thy correction, casuall, or without signification; but yet when I have read it in that language, as it is a correction, let me translate it into another, and read it as a mercy; and which of these is the Originall, and which is the Translation; whether thy Mercy, or thy Correction, were thy primary 25 and original intention in this sicknes, I cannot conclude, though death conclude me; for as it must necessarily appeare to bee a correction, so I can have no greater argument of thy mercy, then to die in thee, and by that death, to bee united to him, who died for me. 30

8. MEDITATION.

STil when we return to that Meditation, that Man is a World, we find new discoveries. Let him be a world, and him self will be the land, and misery the sea. His misery (for misery is his, his own; of the happinesses of this world
5 hee is but Tenant, but of misery the Free-holder; of happines he is but the farmer, but the usufructuary, but of misery, the Lord, the proprietary) his misery, as the sea, swells above all the hilles, and reaches to the remotest parts of this earth, Man; who of himselfe is but dust, and coagulated and 10 kneaded into earth, by teares; his matter is earth, his forme, misery. In this world, that is Mankinde, the highest ground, the eminentest hills, are Kings; and have they line, and lead enough to fadome this sea, and say, My misery is but this deepe? Scarce any misery equal to sickness; and they are 15 subject to that equally, with their lowest subject. A glasse is not the lesse brittle, because a Kings face is represented in it; nor a King the lesse brittle, because God is represented in him. They have Phisicians continually about them, and therefore sicknesses, or the worst of sicknesses, continuall 20 feare of it. Are they gods? He that calld them so, cannot flatter. They are Gods, but sicke gods; and God is presented to us under many human affections, as far as infirmities; God is called Angry, and Sorry, and Weary, and Heavy; but never a sicke God: for then hee might die like men, as our 25 gods do. The worst that they could say in reproch, and scorne of the gods of the Heathen, was, that perchance they were asleepe; but Gods that are so sicke, as that they cannot sleepe, are in an infirmer condition. A God, and need a Physician? A Jupiter and need an Æsculapius? that must have Rheubarbe to purge his choller, lest he be too angry, and Agarick to purge his flegme, lest he be too drowsie; that as Tertullian saies of the Ægyptian gods, plants and herbes, That God was beholden to Man, for growing in his 5 garden, so wee must say of these gods, Their eternity, (an eternity of three score and ten yeares) is in the Apothecaryes shop, and not in the Metaphoricall Deity. But their Deitye is better expressed in their humility, then in their heighth; when abounding and overflowing, as God, in means of 10 doing good, they descend, as God, to a communication of their abundances with men, according to their necessities, then they are Gods. No man is well, that understands not, that values not his being well; that hath not a cheerefulness, and a joy in it; and whosoever hath this Joy, 15 hath a desire to communicate, to propagate that, which occasions his happinesse, and his Joy, to others; for every man loves witnesses of his happinesse; and the best witnesses, are experimentall witnesses; they who have tasted of that in themselves, which makes us happie: It 20 consummates therefore, it perfits the happinesse of Kings, to confer, to transfer, honor, and riches, and (as they can) health, upon those that need them.

8. EXPOSTULATION.

M*Y God, my God*, I have a warning from the Wiseman, that when a rich man speaketh, every man holdeth his 25 tong; and looke what hee saith, they extoll it to the clouds; but if a poore man speake, they say, what fellowe is this? And if hee stumble, they will helpe to overthrow him. Therefore may my words be undervalued, and my errors aggravated, if I offer to speak of Kings; but not by thee, O my God, be- 30 cause I speak of them, as they are in thee, and of thee, as thou art in them. Certainly those men prepare a way of speaking negligently, or irreverently of thee, that give themselves that liberty, in speaking of thy Vice-gerents, Kings: for thou who gavest Augustus the Empire, gavest it to Nero to, and 5 as Vespasian had it from thee, so had Julian; Though Kings deface in themselves thy first image, in their owne soule, thou givest no man leave to deface thy second Image, imprinted indelibly in their Power. But thou knowest, O God, that if I should be slacke in celebrating thy mercies

 10 to mee exhibited by that royall Instrument, my Soveraigne, to many other faults, that touch upon Allegiance, I should add the worst of all, Ingratitude; which constitutes an ill man; and faults which are defects in any particular function, are not so great, as those that destroy our hu-
 15 manitie; It is not so ill, to bee an ill subject, as to be an ill man; for he hath an universall illnesse, ready to flow, and poure it selfe into any mold, any form, and to spend it selfe in any function. As therfore thy Son did upon the Coyne, I look upon the King, and I aske whose image, and 20 whose inscription hee hath; and he hath thine; And I give unto thee, that which is thine, I recommend his happines to thee, in all my sacrifices of thanks, for that which hee enjoyes, and in al my praiers, for the continuance and in-largement of them. But let me stop, my God, and consider;
 25 will not this look like a piece of art, and cunning, to convey into the world an opinion, that I were more particularly in his care, then other men? And that heerein, in a shew of humilitie, and thankfulnessse, I magnifie my selfe more then there is cause? But let not that jealousie stopp mee, O God, 30 but let me go forward in celebrating thy mercy exhibited by him. This which hee doth now, in assisting so my bodily health, I know is common to me with many: Many, many, have tasted of that expression of his graciousnes. Where hee can give health by his owne hands, hee doth; and to more then any of his Predecessors have done: Therefore 5 hath God reserved one disease for him, that hee onely might cure it, though perchance not onely by one Title, and Interest, nor only as one King. To those that need it not, in that kind, and so cannot have it by his owne hand, he sends a donative of health, in sending his Phisician. The 10 holy King S. Lewis in France, and our Maud is celebrated for that, that personally they visited Hospitals, and assisted in the Cure, even of loathsome Diseases. And when that religious Empress Placilla, the wife of Theodosius was told, that shee diminished her selfe to much in those personal 15 assistances, and might doe enough in sending reliefe, shee said, Shee would send in that capacitie, as Emperesse, but shee would go to, in that capacitie, as a Christian, as a fellow member of the body of thy Son, with them. So thy servant David applies him selfe to his people, so he incorporates 20 himselfe in his people, by calling them His brethren, his bones, his flesh; and when they fel under thy hand, even to the pretermitting of himselfe, he presses upon thee, by prayer for them; I have sinned, but these sheepe what have they donne? let thine hand I pray thee be against me and against 25 my fathers house. It is kingly to give; when Araunah gave that great, and free present to David, that place, those instruments for sacrifice, and the sacrifices themselves, it is said there, by thy Spirit, Al these things did Araunah give, as a King, to the King. To give is an approaching to the 30 Condition of Kings, but to give health, an approaching to the King, of Kings, to thee. But this his assisting to my bodily health, thou knowest, O God, and so doe some others of thine honorable servants know, is but the twy-light of that day, wherein thou, thorow him, hast shind upon 5 mee before; but the Eccho of that voyce, whereby thou, through him, hast spoke to mee before; Then, when he, first of any man conceiv'd a hope, that I might be of some use in thy Church, and descended to an intimation, to a perswasion, almost to a solicitation, that I would embrace

 10 that calling. And thou who hadst put that desire into his heart, didst also put into mine, an obedience to it; and I who was sicke before, of a vertiginous giddines, and irresolution, and almost spent all my time in consulting how I should spend it, was by this man of God, and God
 15 of men, put into the poole, and recoverd: when I asked, perchance, a stone, he gave me bread; when I asked, perchance, a Scorpion, he gave me a fish; when I asked a temporall office, he denied not, refused not that, but let mee see, that hee had rather I took this. These things, thou ever, all that can any way conduce to our happinesses, yet here also in this world, givest us such earnests of that full payment, as by the value of the earnest, we may give some estimat of the tresure, humbly, and thankfully I acknowledge, that thy blessed spirit instructs mee, to make a 5 difference of thy blessings in this world, by that difference of the Instruments, by which it hath pleased thee to derive them unto me. As we see thee heere in a glasse, so we receive from thee here by reflexion, and by instruments. Even casual things come from thee; and that which we call 10 Fortune here, hath another name above. Nature reaches out her hand, and gives us corne, and wine, and oyle, and milke, but thou fillest her hand before, and thou openest her hand, that she may rain down her showres upon us. Industry reaches out her hand to us, and gives us fruits of 15 our labor, for our selves, and our posteritie; but thy hand guides that hand, when it sowes, and when it waters, and the increase is from thee. Friends reach out their hands, and prefer us, but thy hand supports that hand, that supports us. Of all these thy instruments have I received 20 thy blessing, O God, but bless thy name most for the greatest; that as a member of the publike, and as a partaker of private favours too, by thy right hand, thy powerfull hand set over us, I have had my portion, not only in the hearing, but in the preaching of thy Gospel. Humbly 25 beseeching thee, that as thou continuest thy wonted goodnes upon the whol world, by the wonted meanes, and instruments, the same Sun, and Moon, the same Nature, and Industry, so to continue the same blessings upon this State, and this Church by the same hand, so long, as that 30 thy Son when he comes in the clouds, may find him, or his son, or his sonnes sonnes ready to give an account, and able to stand in that judgment, for their faithfull Stewardship, and dispensation of thy talents so abundantly committed to them; and be to him, O God, in all distempers of his body, in all anxieties of spirit, in all holy sadnesses of soule, such a Phisician in thy proportion, who art the greatest in 5 heaven, as hee hath bin in soule, and body to me, in his proportion, who is the greatest upon earth.

9. MEDITATION.

They have seene me, and heard mee, arraign'd mee in these fetters, and receiv'd the evidence; I have cut up mine Anatomy, dissected my selfe, and they are gon to 10 read upon me. O how manifold, and perplexed a thing, nay, how wanton and various a thing is ruine and destruction?
God presented to David three kinds, War, Famine, and Pestilence; Satan left out these, and brought in, fires from heaven, and windes from the wildernes. As if there 15 were no ruine but sicknes, wee see, the Masters of that Art, can scarce number, nor name all sicknesses; every thing that disorders a faculty, and the function of that is a sick-nesse: The names wil not serve them which are given from the place affected, the Plurisie is so; nor from the effect 20 which it works, the falling sicknes is so; they cannot have names ynow, from what it does, nor where it is, but they must extort names from what it is like, what it resembles, and but in some one thing, or els they would lack names;
 for the Wolf, and the Canker, and the Polypus are so; and 25 that question, whether there be more names or things, is as perplexd in sicknesses, as in any thing else; except it be easily resolvd upon that side, that there are more sicknesses

14. As if] all edd. (and Alford and Pickering) have "If," but this addition seems necessary for the sense.

then names: If ruine were reduc'd to that one way, that Man could perish noway but by sicknes, yet his danger were infinit; and if sicknes were reduc'd to that one way, that there were no sicknes but a fever, yet the way were infinite still; for it would overlode, and oppress any 5 naturall, disorder and discompose any artificiall Memory, to deliver the names of severall fevers; how intricate a worke then have they, who are gone to consult, which of these sicknesses mine is, and then which of these fevers, and then what it would do, and then how it may be counterminde. 10 But even in ill, it is a degree of good, when the evil will admit consultation. In many diseases, that which is but an accident, but a symptom of the main disease, is so violent, that the Phisician must attend the cure of that, though hee pretermit (so far as to intermit) the cure of the disease it 15 self. Is it not so in States too? sometimes the insolency of those that are great, puts the people into commotions; the great disease, and the greatest danger to the Head, is the insolency of the great ones; and yet, they execute Martial law, they come to present executions upon the people, whose 20 commotion was indeed but a symptom, but an accident of the maine disease; but this symptom, grown so violent, wold allow no time for a consultation. Is it not so in the accidents of the diseases of our mind too? Is it not evidently so in our affections, in our passions? If a cholerick man be ready 25 to strike, must I goe about to purge his choler, or to breake the blow? But where there is room for consultation, things are not desperate. They consult; so there is nothing rashly, inconsideratly done; and then they prescribe, they write, so there is nothing covertly, disguisedly, unavowedly done. In 30 bodily diseases it is not alwaies so; sometimes, assoon as the Phisicians foote is in the chamber, his knife is in the patients arme; the disease would not allow a minutes forbearing of blood, nor prescribing of other remedies. In States and matter of government it is so too; they are sometimes surprizd with such accidents, as that the Magistrat asks not 5 what may be done by law, but does that, which must necessarily be don in that case. But it is a degree of good, in evill, a degree that carries hope and comfort in it, when we may have recourse to that which is written, and that the proceedings may be apert, and ingenuous, and candid, 10 and avowable, for that gives satisfaction, and acquiescence.

 They who have received my Anatomy of my selfe, consult,
 and end their consultation in prescribing, and in prescribing Phisick; proper and convenient remedy: for if they shold come in again, and chide mee, for some disorder, that had 15 occasion'd, and inducd, or that had hastned and exalted this sicknes, or if they should begin to write now rules for my dyet, and exercise when I were well, this were to antidate, or to postdate their Consultation, not to give Phisicke. It were rather a vexation, then a reliefe, to tell a condemnd 20 prisoner, you might have liv'd if you had done this; and if you can get pardon, you shal do wel, to take this, or this course hereafter. I am glad they know (I have hid nothing from them) glad they consult, (they hide nothing from one another) glad they write (they hide nothing from 25 the world) glad that they write and prescribe Phisick, that there are remedies for the present case.

9. EXPOSTULATION.

M*Y* God, my God, allow me a just indignation, a holy detestation of the insolency of that man, who because he was of that high ranke, of whom thou hast said, 30 They are gods, thought himselfe more then equall to thee;
 that King of Aragon Alfonsus, so perfit in the motions of the heavenly bodies, as that hee adventured to say, That if he had bin of councell with thee, in the making of the heavens, the heavens should have bene disposed in a better order, then they are. The King Amasiah would not indure thy Prophet to reprehend him, but asked him in anger, 5 Art thou made of the kings councell? When thy Prophet Esaias asks that question, who hath directed the spirit of the Lord, or being his counsellor hath taught him? It is after hee had setled and determined that office, upon thy Son, and him onely, when he joyns with those great Titles, The 10 mighty God, and the prince of peace, this also, the Counsellor; and after he had setled upon him, the spirit of might, and of councell. So that then, thou O God, thogh thou have no councell from Man, yet doest nothing upon man, without councell; In the making of Man there was a consultation; 15 Let us make man. In the preserving of Man, O Thou great preserver of men, thou proceedest by councell; for all thy externall workes, are the workes of the whole Trinity, and their hand is to every action. How much more must I apprehend, that al you blessed, and glorious persons of the 20 Trinitie are in consultation now, what you wil do with this infirm body, with this leprous Soule, that attends, guiltily, but yet comfortably, your determination upon it. I offer not to counsell them, who meet in consultation for my body now, but I open my infirmities, I anatomise my body to 25 them. So I do my soule to thee, O my God, in an humble confession, That there is no veine in mee, that is not full of the bloud of thy Son, whom I have crucified, and Crucified againe, by multiplying many, and often repeating the same sinnes: that there is no Artery in me, that hath 30 not the spirit of error, the spirit of lust, the spirit of giddines in it; no bone in me that is not hardned with the custome of sin, and nourished, and soupled with the marrow of sinn; no sinews, no ligaments, that do not tie, and chain sin and sin together. Yet, O blessed and glorious Trinity, O holy, and whole Colledge, and yet but one Phisician, if you take 5 this confession into a consultation, my case is not desperate, my destruction is not decreed; If your consultation determine in writing, if you refer mee to that which is written, you intend my recovery: for al the way, O my God, (ever constant to thine owne wayes) thou hast proceeded openly,

 10 intelligibly, manifestly, by the book. From thy first book, the book of life, never shut to thee, but never throughly open to us; from thy second book, the booke of Nature, wher though subobscurely, and in shadowes, thou hast expressed thine own Image; from thy third booke, the Scriptures,
 15 where thou hadst written all in the Old, and then lightedst us a candle to read it by, in the New Testament; To these thou hast added the booke of just, and usefull Lawes, established by them, to whom thou hast committed thy people; To those, the Manualls, the pocket, the bosome
 20 books of our owne Consciencs; To those thy particular books of all our particular sins; and to those, the Booke with seven seals, which only the Lamb which was slaine, was found worthy to open; which, I hope, it shall not disagree with the meaning of thy blessed Spirit, to interpret, the 25 promulgation of their pardon, and righteousnes, who are washed in the blood of that Lambe; And if thou refer me to these bookes, to a new reading, a new triall by these bookes, this fever may be but a burning in the hand, and I may be saved, thogh not by my book, mine own conscience, nor 30 by thy other books, yet by thy first, the book of life, thy decree for my election, and by thy last, the booke of the

Lamb, and the shedding of his blood upon me; If I be stil under consultation, I am not condemned yet; if I be sent to these books I shall not be condemn'd at all: for, though there be something written in some of those books (particularly in the Scriptures) which some men turne to 5 poyson, yet upon these consultations (these confessions, these takings of our particular cases, into thy consideration) thou intendest all for phisick, and even from those Sentences, from which a too-late Repenter will sucke desperation, he that seeks thee early, shall receive thy morning dew, thy 10 seasonable mercy, thy forward consolation.

O Eternall and most gracious God, who art of so pure eyes, as that thou canst not look upon sinn, and we of so unpure constitutions, as that wee can present no object but sin, and therefore might justly feare, that thou 15 wouldst turn thine eyes for ever from us, as, though we cannot indure afflictions in our selves, yet in thee we can; so thogh thou canst not indure sinne in us, yet in thy Sonn thou canst, and he hath taken upon him selfe, and presented to thee, al those sins, which might displease thee in us. 20 There is an Eye in Nature, that kills, as soon as it sees, the eye of a Serpent; no eye in Nature, that nourishes us by looking upon us; But thine Eye, O Lord, does so. Looke therefore upon me, O Lord, in this distresse, and that will recall mee from the borders of this bodily death; Look 25 upon me, and that wil raise me again from that spirituall death, in which my parents buried me, when they begot mee in sinne, and in which I have pierced even to the jawes of hell, by multiplying such heaps of actuall sins, upon that foundation, that root of originall sinn. Yet take me 30 again, into your Consultation, O blessed and glorious

Trinitie; and thogh the Father know, that I have defaced his Image received in my Creation; though the Son know, I have neglected mine interest in the Redemption, yet, O blessed spirit, as thou art to my Conscience, so be to them
 5 a witnes, that at this minute, I accept that which I have so often, so often, so rebelliously refused, thy blessed inspirations; be thou my witnes to them, that at more poores then this slacke body sweates teares, this sad soule weeps blood; and more for the displeasure of my God, then for the stripes
 10 of his displeasure. Take me then, O blessed, and glorious Trinitie, into a Reconsultation, and prescribe me any phisick; If it bee a long, and painful holding of this soule in sicknes, it is phisick, if I may discern thy hand to give it, and it is phisick, if it be a speedy departing of this Soule, if I may 15 discerne thy hand to receive it.

IO. MEDITATION.

THis is Natures nest of Boxes; The Heavens containe the Earth, the Earth, Cities, Cities, Men. And all these are Concentrique; the common center to them all, is decay, ruine; only that is Eccentrique, which was never made;
 20 only that place, or garment rather, which we can imagine, but not demonstrate, That light, which is the very emanation of the light of God, in which the Saints shall dwell, with which the Saints shall be appareld, only that bends not to this Center, to Ruine; that which was not made of 25 Nothing, is not threatned with this annihilation. All other things are; even Angels, even our soules; they move upon the same poles, they bend to the same Center; and if they were not made immortall by preservation, their Nature could not keep them from sinking to this center, Annihilation. In all these (the frame of the heavens, the States upon earth, and Men in them, comprehend all) Those are the greatest mischifs, which are least discerned; the most insensible in their wayes come to bee the most sensible in 5 their ends. The Heavens have had their Dropsie, they drownd the world, and they shall have their Fever, and burn the world. Of the dropsie, the flood, the world had a foreknowledge 120 yeares before it came; and so some made provision against it, and were saved; the fever shall 10 break out in an instant, and consume all; The dropsie did no harm to the heavens, from whence it fell, it did not put out those lights, it did not quench those heates; but the fever, the fire shall burne the furnace it selfe, annihilate those heavens, that breath it out; Though the Dog-Starre 15 have a pestilent breath, an infectious exhalation, yet because we know when it wil rise, we clothe our selves, and wee diet our selves, and we shadow our selves to a sufficient prevention; but Comets and blazing starres, whose effects, or significations no man can interpret or frustrat, no man 20 foresaw: no Almanack tells us, when a blazing starre will break out, the matter is carried up in secret; no Astrologer tels us when the effects will be accomplished, for thats a secret of a higher spheare, then the other; and that which is most secret, is most dangerous. It is so also here in the 25 societies of men, in States, and Commonwealths. Twentie rebellious drums make not so dangerous a noise, as a few whisperers, and secret plotters in corners. The Canon doth not so much hurt against a wal, as a Myne under the wall; nor a thousand enemies that threaten, so much as a few 30 that take an oath to say nothing. God knew many heavy sins of the people, in the wildernes and after, but still he charges them with that one, with Murmuring, murmuring in their hearts, secret disobediences, secret repugnances against his declar'd wil; and these are the most deadly, the most pernicious. And it is so to, with the diseases of the 5 body; and that is my case. The pulse, the urine, the sweat, all have sworn to say nothing, to give no Indication, of any dangerous sickness. My forces are not enfeebled, I find no decay in my strength; my provisions are not cut off, I find no abhorring in mine appetite; my counsels are not 10 corrupted or infatuated, I find no false apprehensions, to work upon mine understanding; and yet they see, that invisibly, and I feele, that insensibly the disease prevales. The disease hath established a Kingdome, an Empire in mee, and will have certaine Arcana Imperii, secrets of State, by 15 which it will proceed, and not be bound to declare them. But yet against those secret conspiracies in the State, the Magistrate hath the rack; and against the insensible diseases, Phisicians have their examiners; and those these employ now.

IO. EXPOSTULATION.

20 MY God, my God, I have bin told, and told by relation, by her own brother, that did it, by thy servant Nazianzen, that his Sister in the vehemency of her prayer, did use to threaten thee, with a holy importunitie, with a pious impudencie. I dare not doe so, O God; but as thy 25 servant Augustin, wisht that Adam had not sinned, therefore that Christ might not have died, may I not to this one purpose wish, That if the Serpent before the tentation of Eve, did 30 goe upright, and speake, that he did so still, because I should the sooner heare him, if he spoke, the sooner see him, if he

but bruise that; yet he, and Death in him is come into our windowes; into our Eyes, and Eares, the entrances, and inlets of our soule. He works upon us in secret, and we doe not discern him; And one great work of his upon us, is to make us so like himselfe, as to sin in secret, that others 5 may not see us; But his Master-piece is, to make us sin in secret so, as that we may not see our selves sin. For the first, the hiding of our sins from other men, hee hath induc'd that, which was his off-spring from the beginning, A lye: for man is, in Nature, yet, in possession of some such 10 sparkes of ingenuitie, and noblenesse, as that, but to disguise Evill, hee would not lye. The bodie, the sinne, is the Serpents, and the garment that covers it, the lye, is his too. These are his; but the hiding of sinne from our selves, is Hee himselfe: when we have the sting of the Serpent in us, 15 and doe not sting our selves, the venom of sin, and no remorse for sinn, then, as thy blessed sonne said of Judas, Hee is a devill, not that he had one, but was one, so we are become devils to our selves, and we have not only a Serpent in our bosome, but we our selves, are to our selves 20 that Serpent. How farre did thy servant David presse upon thy pardon, in that petition, Clense thou me from my secret sins? can any sin bee secret? for a great part of our sinnes, though, sayes thy Prophet, we conceive them in the darke, upon our bed, yet sayes he, we doe them in the light; there 25 are many sins, which we glorie in doing, and would not doe, if no body should know them. Thy blessed servant August. confesses, that hee was ashamed of his shamefastnes, and tenderesse of Conscience, and that he often belied himself with sinnes, which he never did, lest he should be unacceptable 30 to his sinfull companions. But if we would conceale them, (thy Prophet found such a desire, and such a practise in some, when he said, Thou hast trusted in thy wickednes, and thou hast sayd, None shall see me) yet can we conceale them? Thou O God, canst heare of them by others; The voice of Abels blood, will tell thee of Cains murder; the Heavens themselves will tell thee, Heaven shall reveale his iniquity; a smal creature alone, shall doe it, A bird of the ayre shall carry the voice, and tell the matter: Thou wilt trouble no Informer, thou thyselfe revealedst Adams sin, to thy selfe; And the manifestation of sin is so ful to thee, as that thou shalt reveale all to all, Thou shalt bring every worke to Judgement, with every secret thing, and, there is nothing covered, that shall not bee revealed: But, O my God, there is another way of knowing my sins, which thou lovest better then any of these; To know them by my Confession. As Phisicke works so, it drawes the peccant humour to it selfe, that when it is gathered together, the weight of it selfe may carry the humour away, so thy Spirit returns to my Memory my former sinnes, that being so recollected, they may poure out them selves by Confession. When I kept silence, sayes thy servant David, day, and night, thy hand was heavy upon mee, But when I said, I wil confesse my transgressions unto the Lord, thou forgavest the iniquitie of my sinne. Thou interpretest the very purpose of Confession so well, as that thou scarce leavest any new Mercy for the action itselfe. This Mercy thou leavest, that thou arimest us thereupon, against relapses into the sinnes which wee have confessed. And that mercy which thy servant Augustine apprehends, when he sayes to thee, Thou hast forgiven me those sinnes which I have done, and those sinnes which only by thy grace I have not done: they were done in our inclination to them, and even that inclination needs thy mercy, and that Mercy he calls a Pardon. And these are most truly secret sinnes, because they were never done, and because no other man, nor I my selfe, but only thou knowest, how many and how great sinnes I have scaped by thy grace, which without that, I should have multiplied against thee. 5

IO. PRAYER.

O Eternal, and most gracious God, who as thy Sonne Christ Jesus, though hee knew all things, yet said hee knew not the day of Judgment, because he knew it not so, as that he might tell it us; so though thou knowest all my sins, yet thou knowest them not to my comfort, except 10 thou know them by my telling them to thee, how shall I bring to thy knowledg, by that way, those sinns, which I my selfe know not? If I accuse my self of originall sin, wilt thou ask me if I know what originall sin is? I know not enough of it to satisfie others, but I know enough to 15 condemne my self, and to solicit thee. If I confess to thee the sinnes of my youth, wilt thou ask me, if I know what those sins were? I know them not so well, as to name them all, nor am sure to live houres enough to name them al, (for I did them then, faster then I can speak them now, 20 when every thing that I did, conduc'd to some sinne) but I know them so well, as to know, that nothing but thy mercy is so infinite as they. If the naming of sins of Thought, Word, and Deed, of sinns of Omission and of Action, of sins against thee, against my neighbour, and against my self, of 25 sinns unrepented, and sinnes relapsed into after Repentance, of sins of Ignorance, and sinnes against the testimonie of my Conscience, of sinnes against thy Commandments, sins against thy Sonnes Prayer, and sinnes against our own Creed, of sins against the laws of that Church, and sinnes 30 against the lawes of that State, in which thou hast given me my station. If the naming of these sinnes reach not home to all mine, I know what will; O Lord, pardon me, me, all those sinnes which thy Sonne Christ Jesus suffered for, who suffered for all the sinnes of all the world; for 5 there is no sinne amongst all those which had not been my sinne, if thou hadst not beene my God, and antidated me a pardon in thy preventing grace. And since sin in the nature of it, retaines still so much of the author of it, that it is a Serpent, insensibly insinuating it selfe into my Soule,

 10 let thy brazen Serpent (the contemplation of thy Sonne crucified for me) be evermore present to me, for my recovery against the sting of the first Serpent; That so, as I have a Lyon against a Lyon, the Lyon of the Tribe of Judah against that Lyon, that seekes whom he may devoure, so I may 15 have a Serpent against a Serpent, the Wisedome of the Serpent against the Malice of the Serpent, And both against that Lyon, and Serpent, forcible, and subtill tentations, thy Dove with thy Olive, in thy Arke, Humilitie, and Peace, and Reconciliation to thee, by the ordinances of thy Church. Amen.

II. MEDITATION.

20 WHence can wee take a better argument, a clearer demonstration, that all the Greainnes of this world, is built upon opinion of others, and hath in itself no reall being, nor power of subsistence, then from the heart of man? It is always in action, and motion, still busie, still pretending 25 to doe all, to furnish all the powers, and faculties with all that they have; But if an enemy dare rise up against it, it is the soonest endangered, the soonest defeated of any part. The Braine will hold out longer then it, and the Liver longer then that; They will endure a Siege; but an unnatural heat, a rebellious heat, will blow up the heart, like a Myne, in a minute. But howsoever, since the Heart hath the birthright and Primogeniture, and that it is Natures eldest Sonne in us, the part which is first borne to life in 5 man, and that the other parts, as younger brethren, and servants in this family, have a dependance upon it, it is reason that the principall care bee had of it, though it bee not the strongest part; as the eldest is oftentimes not the strongest of the family. And since the Braine, and Liver, 10 and Heart, hold not a Triumvirate in Man, a Soveraigntie equally shed upon them all, for his well-being, as the four Elements doe, for his very being, but the Heart alone is in the Principalitie, and in the Throne, as King, the rest as Subjects, though in eminent Place and Office, must con- 15 tribute to that, as Children to their Parents, as all persons to all kinds of Superiours, though oftentimes, those Parents, or those Superiours, bee not of stronger parts, then them selves, that serve and obey them that are weaker; Neither doth this Obligation fall upon us, by second Dictates of 20 Nature, by Consequences and Conclusions arising out of Nature, or deriv'd from Nature, by Discourse, (as many things binde us even by the Law of Nature, and yet not by the primarie Law of Nature; as all Lawes of Proprietie in that which we possesse, are of the Law of Nature, which 25 law is, To give every one his owne, and yet in the primarie law of Nature there was no Proprietie, no Meum & Tuum, but an universall Communitie over all; So the obedience of Superiours, is of the law of Nature, and yet in the primarie law of Nature, there was no Superioritie, no Magistracie;) 30 but this contribution of assistance of all to the Soveraigne, of all parts to the Heart, is from the very first dictates of

7. this 1624 (1)] his 1624 (2), 1626, followed by Alford and Pickering.

Nature; which is, in the first place, to have care of our owne Preservation, to look first to ourselves; for therefore doth the Physician intermit the present care of Braine, or Liver, because there is a possibilitie that they may subsist, 5 though there bee not a present and a particular care had of them, but there is no possibilitie that they can subsist, if the Heart perish: and so, when we seem to begin with others, in such assistances, indeed wee doe beginne with ourselves, and wee ourselves are principally in our con-10 templation; and so all these officious, and mutuall assistances are but complements towards others, and our true end is ourselves. And this is the reward of the paines of Kings; sometimes they neede the power of law, to be obey'd; and when they seeme to be obey'd voluntarily, they who doe 15 it, doe it for their owne sakes. O how little a thing is all the greatnes of man, and through how false glasses doth he make shift to multiply it, and magnifie it to himselfe? And yet this is also another misery of this King of man, the Heart, which is also applyable to the Kings of this world, 20 great men, that the venime and poyson of every pestilentiall disease directs itself to the Heart, affects that (pernicious affection,) and the malignity of ill men, is also directed upon the greatest, and the best; and not only greatnesse, but goodnesse looses the vigour of beeing an Antidote, or Cordiall 25 against it. And as the noblest, and most generous Cordialls that Nature or Art afford, or can prepare, if they be often taken, and made familiar, become no Cordialls, nor have any extraordinary operation, so the greatest Cordiall of the Heart, patience, if it bee much exercis'd, exalts the venim 30 and the malignity of the Enemy, and the more we suffer, the more wee are insulted upon. When God had made this Earth of nothing, it was but a little helpe, that he had, to make other things of this Earth: nothing can be neerer nothing, then this Earth; and yet how little of this Earth is the greatest Man? Hee thinkes he treads upon the Earth, that all is under his feete, and the Braine that thinkes so, is but Earth; his highest Region, the flesh that covers that, is but earth; and even the toppe of that, that, wherein so 5 many Absolons take so much pride, is but a bush growing upon that Turfe of Earth. How litle of the world is the Earth? And yet that is all that Man hath, or is. How little of a Man is the Heart, and yet it is all, by which he is; and this continually subject, not only to forraine poysons, 10 conveyed by others, but to intestine poysons, bred in ourselves by pestilentiall sicknesses. O who, if before hee had a beeing, he could have sense of this miserie, would buy a being here upon these conditions?

II. EXPOSTULATION.

MY God, my God, all that thou askest of mee, is my 15 Heart, My Sonne, give mee thy heart; Am I thy sonne, as long as I have but my heart? Wilt thou give mee an Inheritance, a Filiation, any thing for my heart? O thou, who saydst to Satan, Hast thou considered my servant Job, that there is none like him upon the earth, shall my feare, shall 20 my zeale, shall my jealousy, have leave to say to thee, Hast thou considered my Heart, that there is not so perverse a Heart upon earth; and wouldst thou have that, and shall I be thy Sonne, thy eternal Sonne's Cohaire, for giving that? The Heart is deceitful above all things, and desperately wicked; who can 25 know it? Hee that askes that question, makes the answer, I the Lord search the Heart. When didst thou search mine? Dost thou thinke to finde it, as thou madest it in Adam? Thou hast searched since, and found all these gradations in the ill of our Hearts, That every imagination, of the 30 thoughts of our hearts, is only evill continually. Doest thou remember this, and wouldest thou have my Heart? O God of all light, I know thou knowest all; and it is Thou, that declarest unto man, what is his Heart. Without thee, O soveraigne goodnesse, I could not know, how ill my heart 5 were. Thou hast declared unto mee, in thy Word, that for all this deluge of evill, that hath surrounded all Hearts, yet thou soughtest and foundest a man after thine owne heart;

That thou couldest and wouldest give thy people Pastours according to thine owne heart; And I can gather out of thy 10 Word so good testimony of the hearts of men, as to find single hearts, docile and apprehensive hearts; Hearts that can, Hearts that have learnt; wise hearts, in one place, and in another, in a great degree, wise, perfit hearts; straight hearts,
no perversnesse without, and cleane hearts, no foulnesse 15 within; such hearts I can find in thy Word; and if my heart were such a heart, I would give thee my Heart. But I find stonie hearts too, and I have made mine such: I have found Hearts, that are snares; and I have conversed with such; hearts that burne like Ovens; and the fuell of Lust, and 20 Envie, and Ambition, hath inflamed mine; Hearts in which their Masters trust, And hee that trusteth in his owne heart, is a foole; His confidence in his owne morall Constancie and civill Fortitude, will betray him, when thou shalt cast a spirituall dampe, a heavinesse, and dejection of spirit 25 upon him. I have found these Hearts, and a worse then these, a Heart into the which the Devill himselfe is entered, Judas heart. The first kind of heart, alas, my God, I have not; the last are not Hearts to be given to thee; What shall I do? Without that present I cannot bee thy Sonne, and 30 I have it not. To those of the first kinde thou givest joyfulness of heart, and I have not that; To those of the other kinde, thou givest faintnesse of heart: And blessed bee thou,

Ref. Amos 4. 13.] all edd. have Amos 4. 14.

O God, for that forbearance, I have not that yet. There is then a middle kinde of Hearts, not so perfit as to bee given, but that the very giving mends them; Not so desperate, as not to bee accepted, but that the very accepting dignifies them. This is a melting heart, and a troubled heart; and a wounded heart, and a broken heart, and a contrite heart; and by the powerfull working of thy piercing Spirit, such a Heart I have; Thy Samuel spake unto all the house of thy Israel, and sayd, If you returne to the Lord with all your hearts, prepare your hearts unto the Lord. If my heart bee prepared, it is a returning heart; And if thou see it upon the way, thou wilt carrie it home; Nay, the preparation is thine too; this melting, this wounding, this breaking, this contrition, which I have now, is thy Waye, to thy Ende; And those discomforts, are for all that, the earnest of thy Spirit in my heart; and where thou givest earnest, thou wilt performe the bargaine. Naball was confident upon his wine, but in the morning his heart dyed within him; Thou, O Lord, hast given mee Wormewood, and I have had some diffidence upon that; and thou hast cleared a Morning to mee againe, and my heart is alive. Dauids heart smote him, when he cut off the skirt from Saul; and his heart smote him when he had numbred his people: My heart hath stricke mee, when I come to number my sinnes; but that blowe is not to death, because those sinnes are not to death, but my heart lives in thee. But yet as long as I remaine in this great Hospitall, this sicke, this diseasefull world, as long as I remaine in this leprous house, this flesh of mine, this Heart, though thus prepared for thee, prepared by thee, will still be subject to the invasion of maligne and pestilent vapours. But I have my Cordialls in thy promise; when I shall know the plague of my heart, and pray unto thee in thy house, thou

II. PRAYER.

5 O Eternall and most gracious God, who in thy upper house, the Heavens, though there be many Mansions, yet art alike, and equally in every Mansion; but heere in thy lower house, though thou fillest all, yet art otherwise in some roomes thereof, than in others; otherwise in thy Church, then in my Chamber, and otherwise in thy Sacra-

When thy blessed Sonne cryed out to thee, My God, my God, why hast thou forsaken mee? thou diddest reach out thy hand to him; but not to deliver his sad soule, but to receive his holy soule: Neither did hee longer desire to hold it of thee, but to recommend it to thee. I see thine hand upon me now, O Lord, and I aske not why it comes, what it intends; whether thou wilt bidde it stay still in this Body for some time, or bidd it meet thee this day in Paradise, I aske not, not in a wish, not in a thought: Infirmities of Nature, Curiosities of Minde, are tentations that offer; but a silent, and absolute obedience, to thy will, even before I know it, is my Cordiall. Preserve that to mee, O my God, and that will preserve mee to thee; that when thou hast catechised mee with affliction here, I may take a greater degree, and serve thee in a higher place, in thy kingdom of Joy and Glory. What will not kill a man if a vapor will? How great an Elephant, how small a Mouse destroys! To dye by a bullet is the Souldiers dayly bread; but few men dye by haile-shot: A man is more worth, then to bee sold for single money; a life to be valued above a trifle. If this were a violent shaking of the Ayre by Thunder, or by Canon, in that case the Ayre is condensed above the thickness of water, of water baked into Ice, almost petrified, almost made stone, and no wonder that kills; but that that which is but a vapor, and a vapor not forced, but breathed, should kill, that our Nourse should overlay us, and Ayre that nourishes us, should destroy us, but that it is a halfe 5 Atheisme to murmure against Nature, who is Gods immediate commissioner, who would not think himselfe miserable to bee put into the hands of Nature, who does not only set him up for a marke for others to shoote at, but delights herselfe to blow him up like a glasse, till shee see

 10 him breake, even with her owne breath? nay, if this infectious vapor were sought for, or travail'd to, as Plinie hunted after the vapor of Ætna, and dard and challenged Death, in the forme of a vapor, to doe his worst, and felt the worst, he dyed; or if this vapor were met withall in 15 an ambush, and we surprized with it, out of a long shutt Well, or out of a new opened Myne, who would lament, who would accuse, when we had nothing to accuse, none to lament against but Fortune, who is lesse than a vapor: But when our selves are the Well, that breaths out this 20 exhalation, the Oven that spits out this fiery smoke, the Myne that spues out this suffocating, and strangling dampe, who can ever after this, aggravate his sorrow, by this Circumstance, That it was his Neighbor, his familiar Friend, his Brother, that destroyed him, and destroyed him with a 25 whispering, and a calumniating breath, when wee our selves doe it to our selves by the same meanes, kill our selves with our owne vapors? Or if these occasions of this selfe-destruction, had any contribution from our owne Wils, any assistance from our owne intentions, nay from our own 30 errors, we might divide the rebuke, and chide our selves as much as them. Fevers upon wilful distempers of drinke, and surfets, Consumptions upon intemperances, and licentiousnes, Madnes upon misplacing, or overbending our naturall faculties, proceed from our selves, and so, as that our selves are in the plot, and wee are not onely passive, but active too, to our owne destruction; But what have I done, either to breed, or to breath these vapors? They tell me it is my Melancholy; Did I infuse, did I drinke in 5 Melancholly into my selfe? It is my thoughtfulnesse; was I not made to thinke? It is my study; doth not my Calling call for that? I have don nothing, wilfully, perversely toward it, yet must suffer in it, die by it; There are too many Examples of men, that have bin their own executioners, and 10 that have made hard shift to bee so; some have alwayes had poyson about them, in a hollow ring upon their finger, and some in their Pen that they used to write with: some have beat out their braines at the wal of their prison, and some have eate the fire out of their chimneys: and one is 15 said to have come neerer our case then so, to have strangled himself, though his hands were bound, by crushing his throat between his knees; But I doe nothing upon my selfe, and yet am mine owne Executioner. And we have heard of death upon small occasions, and by scornfull instruments: 20 a pinne, a combe, a haire, pulled, hath gangred, and killd;

 But when I have said, a vapour, if I were asked again, what is a vapour, I could not tell, it is so insensible a thing; so neere nothing is that that reduces us to nothing. But extend this vapour, rarifie it; from so narrow a roome, as our 25 Naturall bodies, to any Politike body, to a State. That which is fume in us, is in a State, Rumor, and these vapours in us, which wee consider here pestilent and infectious fumes, are in a State infectious rumors, detracting and dishonourable Calumnies, Libels. The Heart in that body is the King; and 30 the Braine, his Councell; and the whole Magistracie, that ties all together, is the Sinewes, which proceed from thence;
 and the life of all is Honour, and just respect, and due reverence; and therefore, when these vapors, these venomous rumors, are directed against these Noble parts, the whole body suffers. But yet for all their priviledges, they are not priviledged from our misery; that as the vapours most 5 pernicious to us, arise in our owne bodies, so do the most dishonorable rumours, and those that wound a State most, arise at home. What ill ayre, that I could have met in the street, what Channell, what Shambles, what Dunghill, what vault, could have hurt mee so much, as these home-bredd

 10 vapours? What Fugitive, what Almes-man of any forraine State, can doe so much harme as a Detracter, a Libeller, a scornfull Jester at home? For, as they that write of poysons, and of creatures naturally disposed to the ruine of Man, do as well mention the Flea, as the Viper, because 15 the Flea, though hee kill none, hee does all the harme hee can; so even these libellous and licentious Jesters utter the venom they have, though sometimes vertue, and alwaies power, be a good Pigeon to draw this vapor from the Head, and from doing any deadly harme there.

I2. EXPOSTULATION.

20 MY God, my God, as thy servant James, when he asks that question, what is your life, provides me this answer, It is even a vapor, that appeareth for a little time, and then vanisheth away, so if he did aske me what is your death, I am provided of my answer, It is a vapour too;
 25 And why should it not be all one to mee, whether I live, or die, if life, and death be all one, both a vapor. Thou hast made vapor so indifferent a thing, as that thy Blessings, and thy Judgements are equally expressed by it, and is made by thee the Hieroglyphique of both. Why should not that

bee alwaies good, by which thou hast declared thy plentifull goodnes to us? A vapor went up from the Earth, and watred the whole face of the ground, And that by which thou hast imputed a goodnes to us, and wherein thou hast accepted our service to thee, Sacrifices; for Sacrifices, were 5 vapors, And in them it is said, that a thicke cloude of Incence went up to thee. So it is of that, wherein thou comst to us, the dew of Heaven, And of that wherein we come to thee, both are vapors; And hee, in whom we have, and are all that we are or have, temporally, or spiritually, thy blessed 10 Son, in the person of Wisedome, is called so to; she is (that is, he is) the vapor of the power of God, and the pure influence from the glory of the Almighty. Hast thou, Thou, O my God, perfumed vapor, with thine own breath, with so many sweet acceptations, in thine own Word, and shall this 15 vapor receive an ill, and infectious sense? It must; for, since we have displeased thee, with that which is but vapor, (for what is sinne, but a vapor, but a smoke, though such a smoke, as takes away our sight, and disables us from seeing our danger) it is just, that thou punish us with 20 vapors too. For so thou dost, as the Wiseman tels us, Thou canst punish us by those things, wherein wee offend thee; as he hath expressed it there, By beasts newly created, breathing vapors. Therefore that Commination of thine, by thy Prophet, I will shew wonders in the Heaven, and in the 25 Earth, bloud and fire, and pillars of smoke; thine Apostle, who knewe thy meaning best, calls vapors of smoke. One Prophet presents thee in thy terriblesse, so, There went out a smoke at his nostrils, and another, the effect of thine anger, so, The house was filled with smoake; And hee that 30 continues his Prophesie, as long as the world can continue, describes the miseries of the latter times so, Out of the bottomlesse pit arose a smoke, that darkened the Sunne, and out of that smoke came Locusts, who had the power of Scorpions. Now all smokes begin in fire, and all these will end so too:

 5 The smoke of sin, and of thy wrath, will end in the fire of hell. But hast thou afforded us no means to evaporate these smokes, to withdraw these vapors? When thine Angels fell from heaven, thou tookst into thy care, the reparation of that place, and didst it, by assuming, by drawing us
 10 thither; when we fel from thee here, in this world, thou tookst into thy care the reparation of this place too, and didst it by assuming us another way, by descending down to assume our nature, in thy Son. So that though our last act be an ascending to glory, (we shall ascend to the place 15 of Angels) yet our first act is to goe the way of thy Sonn, descending, and the way of thy blessed Spirit too, who descended in the dove. Therefore hast thou bin pleased to afford us this remedy in Nature, by this application of a 20 Dove, to our lower parts, to make these vapors in our Bodies, to descend, and to make that a Type to us, that by the visitation of thy Spirit, the vapors of sin shall descend, and we tread them under our feet. At the Baptisme of thy

I 2. PRAYER.

30 O Eternall and most gracious God, who though thou have suffred us to destroy ourselves, and hast not given us the power of reparation in ourselves, hast yet afforded us such meanes of reparation as may easily, and familiarly be compassed by us, prosper I humbly beseech thee, this means of bodily assistance in this thy ordinary creature, and prosper thy meanes of spirituall assistance in thy holy Ordinances. And as thou hast caried this thy 5 creature, the Dove, through all thy wayes, through Nature, and made it naturally proper to conduce medicinally to our bodily health, through the Law, and made it a sacrifice for sinne there, and through the Gospel, and made it, and thy spirit in it, a witnes of thy Sonns baptisme there, so 10 carry it, and the qualities of it home to my Soule, and imprint there that simplicity, that mildnesse, that harmellessnesse, which thou hast imprinted by Nature in this Creature. That so all vapours of all disobedience to thee, being subdued under my feet, I may in the power, and 15 triumphe of thy Sonne, treade victoriously upon my grave, and trample upon the Lyon, and Dragon, that lye under it, to devoure me. Thou O Lord, by the Prophet, callest the Dove, the Dove of the Valleys, but promisest that the Dove of the Valleyes shall bee upon the Mountain: As thou 20 hast layed mee low, in this Valley of sicknesse, so low, as that I am made fit for that question, asked in the field of bones, Sonne of Man, can these bones live, so, in thy good time, carry me up to these Mountaynes, of which, even in this Valley, thou affordest mee a prospect, the Mountain 25 where thou dwellest, the holy Hill, unto which none can ascend but he that hath cleane hands, which none can have, but by that one and that strong way, of making them cleane, in the blood of thy Sonne Christ Jesus. I 3. M E D I T A T I O N.

WEe ſay, that the world is made of ſea, and land, as though they were equal; but we know that ther is more ſea in the Western, then in the Eastern Hemisphere: We ſay that the Firmament is full of ſtarres, as though it
5 were equally full; but we know, that there are more ſtars under the Northerne, then under the Southern Pole. We ſay, the Elements of man are miſery, and happineſſe, as though he had an equal proportion of both, and the dayes of man viciffitudinary, as though he had as many good 10 daies, as ill, and that he liv'd under a perpetuall Equinoctial, night, and day equal, good and ill fortune in the ſame meaſure. But it is far from that; hee drinckes miſery, and hee tatteſt happineſſe; hee mowes miſery, and hee gleanes happineſſe; hee journeys in miſery, hee does but walkes in happineſſe;
15 and which is worſt, his miſery is poſitive, and dogmaticall, his happineſſe is but diſputable, and problematicall; All men call Miſery, Miſery, but Happineſſe changes the name, by the taſte of man. In this accident that befalls mee now, that this ſickneſſe declares itſelf by Spots, to be a malignant, 20 and peſtilentiall diſeaſe, if there be a comfort in the declaration, that therby the Phyſicians ſee more cleerely what to doe, there may bee as much diſcomfort in this, That the malignitie may bee ſo great, as that all that they can doe, ſhall doe nothing; That an enemy declares himſelfe, 25 then, when he is able to ſubſiſt, and to purſue, and to atchive his ends, is no great comfort. In intetine Conſpiracies, voluntary Confessions doe more good, then Confessions upon the Rack; in theſe Infections, when Nature her self confesses, and cries out by these outward declarations, which she is able to put forth of her selfe, they minister comfort; but when all is by the strength of Cordials, it is but a Confession upon the Racke, by which though wee come to knowe the malice of that man, yet wee doe not 5 knowe whether there bee not as much malice in his heart then, as before his confession; we are sure of his Treason, but not of his Repentance; sure of him, but not of his Complices. It is a faint comfort to know the worst, when the worst is remediesse; and a weaker then that, to know 10 much ill, and not to know, that that is the worst. A woman is comforted with the birth of her Son, her body is eased of a burthen; but if shee could prophetically read his History, how ill a man, perchance how ill a sonne, he would prove, shee should receive a greater burthen into her Mind. 15 Scarce any purchase that is not clogg'd with secret encumbrances; scarce any happines that hath not in it so much of the nature of false and base money, as that the Allay is more then the Metall. Nay, is it not so, (at least much towards it) even in the exercise of Vertues? I must bee 20 poore, and want, before I can exercise the vertue of Gratitude; miserable, and in torment, before I can exercise the vertue of patience; How deepe do we dig, and for how course gold? And what other Touchstone have we of our gold, but comparison? Whether we be as happy, as others, or 25 as ourselves at other times; O poore stepp toward being well, when these spots do only tell us, that we are worse, then we were sure of before.

13. EXPOSTULATION.

MY God, my God, thou hast made this sick bed thine Altar, and I have no other Sacrifice to offer, but 30 my self; and wilt thou accept no spotted sacrifice? Doeth thy

Son dwel bodily in this flesh, that thou shouldst looke for an unspottednes here? Or is the Holy Ghost, the soule of this body, as he is of thy Spouse, who is therfore all faire, and no spot in her? or hath thy Son himself no spots, who 5 hath al our stains, and deformities in him? Or hath thy Spouse, thy Church, no spots, when every particular limbe of that faire, and spotless body, every particular soule in that Church is full of staines, and spots? Thou bidst us hate the garment, that is spotted with the flesh. The flesh 10 it selfe is the garment, and it spotteth it selfe, with it self. And if I wash my selfe with snow water; mine own clothes shall make me abominable; and yet no man yet ever hated his own flesh: Lord, if thou looke for a spotlessnesse, whom wilt thou looke upon? Thy mercy may goe a great way in my 15 Soule, and yet not leave me without spots; Thy corrections may go far, and burn deepe, and yet not leave me spotles: thy children apprehended that, when they said, From our former iniquitie wee are not cleansed, untill this day, though there was a plague in the Congregation of the Lord; Thou 20 rainest upon us, and yet doest not alwaies mollifie all our hardnesse; Thou kindlest thy fires in us, and yet doest not alwayes burne up all our drosse; Thou healest our wounds, and yet leavest scarres; Thou purgest the blood, and yet leavest spots. But the spots that thou hatest, are the spotts
25 that we hide. The Carvers of Images cover spots, sayes the Wise man; When we hide our spotts, wee become Idolatrers of our own staines, of our own foulnesses. But if my spots come forth, by what meanes soever, whether by the strength of Nature, by voluntary confession, (for Grace is the 30 nature of a regenerate man, and the power of Grace is the strength of Nature) or by the vertue of Cordials, (for even thy Corrections are Cordials) if they come forth either way, thou receivest that Confession with a gracious interpretation.

O Eternall, and most gracious God, who as thou givest all for nothing, if we consider any precedent Merit in us, so givest nothing, for nothing, if we consider the acknowledgment, and thankfulnes, which thou lookest for, 25

14. MEDITATION.

I Would not make Man worse then hee is, Nor his Condition more miserable then it is. But could I though I would? As a man cannot flatter God, nor over prayse him, so a man cannot injure Man, nor undervalue him. Thus 20 much must necessarily be presented to his remembrance, that those false Happinesses, which he hath in this World,
 have their times, and their seasons, and their critical dayes, and they are Judged, and Denominated according to the times, when they befall us. What poore Elements are our 25 happinesses made of, if Tyme, Tyme which wee can scarce consider to be any thing, be an essential part of our happines? All things are done in some place; but if we

25. of] all edd. have off

consider Place to be no more, but the next hollow Superficies of the Ayre, Alas, how thinne, and fluid a thing is Ayre, and how thinne a filme is a Superficies, and a Superficies of Ayre? All things are done in time too; but if we consider Tyme to be but the Measure of Motion, and how- 5 soever it may seeme to have three stations, past, present, and future, yet the first and last of these are not (one is not, now, and the other is not yet) and that which you call present, is not now the same that it was, when you began to call it so in this Line, (before you sound that word, 10 present, or that Monosyllable, now, the present, and the Now is past). if this Imaginary halfe-nothing, Tyme, be of the Essence of our Happinesses, how can they be thought durable? Tyme is not so; How can they bee thought to be? Tyme is not so; not so, considered in any of the parts 15 thereof. If we consider Eternity, into that, Tyme never entred; Eternity is not an everlasting flux of Tyme; but Tyme is a short parenthesis in a longe period; and Eternity had been the same, as it is, though time had never beene; If we consider, not Eternity, but Perpetuity, not that which 20 had no Tyme to beginne in, but which shall outlive Tyme and be, when Tyme shall bee no more, what A Minute is the life of the Durablest Creature, compared to that? And what a Minute is Mans life in respect of the Sunnes, or of a Tree? and yet how little of our life is Occasion, oppor- 25
tunity to receyve good in; and how litle of that occasion, doe wee apprehend, and lay hold of? How busie and perplexed a Cobweb, is the Happinesse of Man here, that must bee made up with a Watchfulnessse, to lay hold upon Occasion, which is but a little peece of that, which is Nothing, Tyme? 30

12. this Imaginary halfe-nothing, Tyme,] this Imaginary halfe-nothing, Tyme 1624 (1); this Imaginary, halfe-nothing, Tyme 1624 (2), 1626 (as though halfe-nothing were an adjective).

And yet the best things are Nothing without that. Honors, Pleasures, Possessions, presented to us, out of time, in our decrepit, and distasted, and unapprehensive Age, loose their Office, and loose their Name; They are not Honors to 5 us, that shall never appeare, nor come abroad into the Eyes of the people, to receive Honor, from them who give it: Nor pleasures to us, who have lost our sense to taste them; nor possessions to us, who are departing from the possession of them. Youth is their Criticall Day; that 10 Judges them, that Denominates them, that inanimates, and informs them, and makes them Honors, and Pleasures, and Possessions; and when they come in an unapprehensive
Age, they come as a Cordiall when the bell rings out, as a Pardon, when the Head is off. We rejoyce in the Comfort 15 of fire, but does any man cleave to it at Midsomer; Wee are glad of the freshnesse, and coolenes of a Vault; but does any man keepe his Christmas there; or are the pleasures of the Spring acceptable in Autumne? If happinesse be in the season, or in the Clymate, how much happier then are 20 Birdes then Men, who can change the Climate, and accompanie, and enjoy the same season ever.

 fix ourselves, at certaine periodicall and stationary times, upon the consideration of those things, which thou hast done for us, and the Crisis, the Trial, the Judgment, how those things have wrought upon us, and disposed us to a spirituall recovery, and convalescence. For there is to 15
 every man a day of salvation, Now is the accepted time, now is the day of salvation, And there is a great day of thy wrath, which no man shall be able to stand in; And there are evill days before, and therefore thou warnest us, and arimest us, Take unto you the whole armor of God, that you may be able 20 periodical yeres, for the life of States and Kingdoms, and never consider these in our long life, and our interest in the everlasting kingdom? We have exercisd our curiosity in observing that Adam, the eldest of the eldest world, died 5 in his climactericall yere, and Sem the eldest son of the next world, in his; Abraham the father of the faithfull, in his, and the blessed Virgin Mary, the garden, where the root of faith grew, in hers. But they whose Climacteriques we observe, imployd their observation upon their critical

 10 dayes, the working of thy promise of a Messias upon them. And shall we, O my God, make lesse use of those dayes, who have more of them? We, who have not only the day of the Prophets, the first dayes, but the last daies, in which thou hast spoken unto us, by thy Son? We are the children
 15 of the day, for thou hast shind in as ful a Noone, upon us, as upon the Thessalonians; They who were of the night, (a Night, which they had superinduc'd upon themselves) the Pharises, pretended, That if they had bin in their Fathers daies, (those indicatory, and judicatory, those Criticall dayes)
 20 they would not have been partakers of the bloud of the Prophets; And shall we who are in the day, these Daies, not of the Prophets, but of the Son, stone those Prophets againe, and crucifie that Son againe, for all those evident Indications, and critical Judicatures which are afforded us? Those 25 opposd adversaries of thy Son, the Pharises with the Herodians, watch'd a Critical day; Then when the State was incensd against him, they came to tempt him in the dangerous question of Tribute. They left him; and that day was the Critical day to the Saduces, The same day, saies thy Spirit, 30 in thy word, the Saduces came to him to question him about the Resurrection; and them hee silenc'd; They left him; and this was the Criticall day for the Scribe, expert in the Law, who thought himselfe learnede then the Herodian, the Pharise or Saduce; and he tempted him about the great Commande- ment; and him Christ left without power of replying. When all was done, and that they went about to begin their circle of vexation, and tentation again, Christ silences them so, 5 that, as they had taken their Criticall dayes, to come, in that, and in that day, so Christ imposes a Criticall day upon them, From that day forth, saies thy Spirit, no man durst aske him any more questions. This, O my God, my most blessed God, is a fearefull Crisis, a fearefull Indication, when 10 we will study, and seeke, and finde, what dayes are fittest to forsake thee in; To say, Now, Religion is in a Neutralitie in the world, and this is my day, the day of libertie; Now I may make new friends by changing my old religion, and this is my day, the day of advancement. But, O my God, 15 with thy servant Jacobs holy boldnes, who though thou lamedst him, would not let thee goe, till thou hadst given him a blessing, Though thou have laid me upon my hearse, yet thou shalt not depart from mee, from this bed, till thou have given me a Crisis, a Judgment upon my selfe this day. 20 Since a day is as a thousand yeres with thee, Let, O Lord, a day, be as a weeke to me; and in this one, let me consider seven daies, seven critical daies, and judge my selfe, that I be not judged by thee. First, this is the day of thy visitation, thy comming to me; and would I looke to be welcome to 25 thee, and not entertaine thee in thy comming to me? We measure not the visitations of great persons, by their apparel, by their equipage, by the solemnity of their comming, but by their very comming; and therefore, howsoever thou come, it is a Crisis to me, that thou wouldest not loose me, 30 who seekst me by any means. This leads me from my first day, thy visitation by sicknes, to a second, to the light, and testimony of my Conscience. There I have an evening, and a morning; a sad guiltinesse in my soule, but yet a cheerfull rising of thy Son to; Thy Evenings and Mornings made dayes in the Creation, and there is no mention of Nights; My sadnesses for sins are evenings, but they determin not 5 in night, but deliver me over to the day, the day of a Conscience dejected, but then rectified, accused, but then acquitted, by thee, by him, who speaks thy word, and who is thy word, thy Son. From this day, the Crisis and examination of my Conscience, breaks out my third day, my 10 day of preparing, and fitting my selfe for a more especial receiving of thy Sonne in his institution of the Sacrament: In which day though there be many dark passages, and slippry steps, to them who will entangle, and endanger themselves in unnecessary disputations, yet there are light

 15 houres inough, for any man, to goe his whole journey intended by thee; to know, that that Bread and Wine, is not more really assimilated to my body, and to my blood, than the Body and Blood of thy Sonne, is communicated to me in that action, and participation of that bread, and that 20 wine. And having, O my God, walkd with thee these three dayes, The day of thy visitation, the day of my Conscience, the day of preparing for this seale of Reconciliation, I am the lesse afraid of the clouds or storms of my fourth day, the day of my dissolution, and transmigration from hence.
 25 Nothing deserves the name of happines, that makes the remembrance of death bitter; And, O death, how bitter is the remembrance of thee, to a man that lives at rest, in his possessions, the man that hath nothing to vex him, yea unto him that is able to receive meat? Therefore hast thou, O my 30 God, made this sicknes, in which I am not able to receive meate, my fasting day, my Eve, to this great festival, my dissolution. And this day of death shall deliver me over to my fift day, the day of my Resurrection; for how long a day soever thou make that day in the grave, yet there is no day between that, and the Resurrection. Then wee shall all bee invested, reapparell'd in our owne bodies; but they who have made just use of their former dayes, be superinvested with glorie, whereas the others, condemned to their olde 5 clothes, their sinfull bodies, shall have nothing added, but immortalitie to torment. And this day of awaking me, and reinvesting my Soule in my Body, and my body in the body of Christ, shall present me, Bodie and Soule, to my sixt day, The day of Judgement; which is truly, and most literally, 10 the Critical, the Decretory day; both because all Judgement shall bee manifested to me then, and I shall assist in judging the world then, and because then, that Judgement shall declare to me, and possesse mee of my Seventh day, my Everlasting Saboth in thy rest, thy glory, thy joy, thy sight, 15 thy selfe; and where I shall live as long, without reckning any more Dayes after, as thy Sonne, and thy Holy Spirit lived with thee, before you three made any Dayes in the Creation.

I4. PRAYER.

O Eternall and most gracious God, who though thou 20 didst permit darknesse to be before light in the Creation, yet in the making of light, didst so multiplie that light, as that it enlightned not the day only, but the night too, though thou have suffered some dimnesse, some clouds of sadnesse, and disconsolateness to shed themselves upon my soule, I humbly 25 blesse, and thankfully glorifie thy holy name, that thou hast afforded mee the light of thy spirit, against which the prince of darknesse cannot prevaile, nor hinder his illumination of our darkest nights, of our saddest thoughts. Even the visitation of thy most blessed Spirit, upon the blessed 30 Virgin, is called an overshadowing: There was the presence of the Holy Ghost, the fountaine of all light, and yet an overshadowing; Nay except there were some light, there could bee no shadow. Let thy mercifull providence so governe all in this sickness, that I never fall into utter 5 darknesse, ignorance of thee, or inconsideration of my selfe; and let those shadowes which doe fall upon mee, faintnesses of Spirit, and condemnations of my selfe, bee overcome by the power of thine irresistible light, the God of consolation; that when those shadowes have done their office upon mee, to 10 let me see, that of my selfe I should fall into irrecoverable darknesse, thy spirit may doe his office upon those shadowes, and disperse them, and establish mee in so bright a day here, as may bee a Criticall day to me, a day wherein, and whereby I may give thy Judgement upon my selfe, and that

I 5. MEDITATION.

NAturall men have conceived a twofold use of sleepe;
 That it is a refreshing of the body in this life; That 20 it is a preparing of the soule for the next; That it is a feast, and it is the grace at that feast; That it is our recreation, and cheeres us, and it is our Catechisme and instructs us;
 wee lie downe in a hope, that wee shall rise the stronger;
 and we lie downe in a knowledge, that wee may rise no 25 more. Sleepe is an Opiate which gives us rest, but such an Opiate, as perchance, being under it, we shall wake no more. But though naturall men, who have induced secondary and figurative considerations, have found out this second, this emblematicall use of sleepe, that it should be a representation of death, God, who wrought and perfected his worke, before Nature began, (for Nature was but his Apprentice, to learne in the first seven daies, and now is his foreman, and works next under him) God, I say, intended sleepe onely for the refreshing of man by bodily 5 rest, and not for a figure of death, for he intended not death it selfe then. But Man having induced death upon himselfe, God hath taken Mans Creature, death, into his hand, and mended it; and whereas it hath in itselfe a fearefull forme and aspect, so that Man is afraid of his own Creature, God 10 presents it to him, in a familiar, in an assiduous, in an agreeable and acceptable forme, in sleepe, that so when hee awakes from sleepe, and saies to himselfe, shall I bee no otherwise when I am dead, than I was even now, when I was asleep, hee may bee ashamed of his waking dreames, 15 and of his Melancholique fancying out a horrid and an affrightfull figure of that death which is so like sleepe. As then wee need sleepe to live out our threescore and ten yeeres, so we need death, to live that life which we cannot out-live. And as death being our emie, God allowes us to defend 20 ourselves against it (for wee virtuall ourselves against death, twice every day, as often as we eat) so God having so sweetned death unto us as hee hath in sleepe, wee put ourselves into our emies hands once every day; so farre, as sleepe is death; and sleepe is as much death, as meat is 25 life. This then is the misery of my sicknesse, That death as it is produced from mee, and is mine owne Creature, is now before mine Eyes, but in that forme, in which God hath mollified it to us, and made it acceptable, in sleepe, I cannot see it: how many prisoners, who have even 30 hollowed themselves their graves upon that Earth, on which they have lien long under heavie fetters, yet at this houre are asleepe, though they bee yet working upon their owne graves by their owne waight? Hee that hath seene his friend die to day, or knowes hee shall see it to morrow, yet will sinke into a sleepe betweene. I cannot; and oh, if I be entring now into Éternitie, where there shall bee no 5 more distinction of houres, why is it al my businesse now to tell Clocks? why is none of the heavinesse of my heart, dispensed into mine Eie-lids, that they might fall as my heart doth? And why, since I have lost my delight in all 10 objects, cannot I discontinue the facultie of seeing them, by closing mine eies in sleepe? But why rather being entring into that presence, where I shall wake continually and never sleepe more, doe I not interpret my continuall waking here, to bee a parasceve; and a preparation to that?

shall I not bee well, in their sense? Let me not, O my God, take this too precisely, too literally: There is that neither day nor night seeth sleepe with his eies, saies thy wise servant Solomon; and whether hee speake that of worldly men, or of men that seeke wisdome, whether in justification or 5 condemnation of their watchfulnesse, we cannot tell: we can tell, That there are men, that cannot sleepe, till they have done mischief, and then they can; and wee can tell that the rich man cannot sleepe, because his abundance will not let him. The tares were sowed when the husbandmen were asleepe; And 10 the elders thought it a probable excuse, a credible lie, that the watchmen which kept the Sepulchre, should say, that the bodie of thy Son was stolne away, when they were asleepe: Since thy blessed Sonne rebuked his Disciples for sleeping, shall I murmure because I doe not sleepe? If Samson had 15 slept any longer in Gaza, he had beene taken; And when he did sleepe longer with Delilah, he was taken. Sleepe is as often taken for naturall death in thy Scriptures, as for naturall rest. Nay sometimes sleepe hath so heavy a sense, as to bee taken for sinne it selfe, as well as for the punishment 20 of sinne, Death. Much comfort is not in much sleepe, when the most fearefull and most irrevocable Malediction is presented by thee, in a perpetuall sleepe. I will make their feasts, and I will make them drunke, and they shall sleepe a perpetuall sleepe, and not wake. I must therefore, 25 O my God, looke farther, than into the very act of sleeping, before I mis-interpret my waking: for since I finde thy whole hand light, shall any finger of that hand seeme heavy? since the whole sicknesse is thy Physicke, shall any accident in it, bee my poison, by my murmuring? The 30 name of Watchmen belongs to our Profession; thy Prophets are not onely Seers, indued with a power of seeing, able to see, but Watchmen evermore in the Act of seeing. And therefore give me leave, O my blessed God, to invert the words of thy Sonnes Spouse; she said, I sleepe, but my heart waketh; I say, I wake, but my heart sleepeth; My body is in 5 a sicke wearinesse, but my soule in a peacefull rest with thee; and as our Eies, in our health, see not the Aire, that is next them, nor the fire, nor the spheares, nor stop upon any thing, till they come to starres, so my Eies, that are 10 open, see nothing of this world, but passe through all that, and fix themselves upon thy Peace, and Joy, and Glory above. Almost as soone as thy Apostle had said, Let us not sleepe, lest we should bee too much discomforted, if we 15 did, he saies againe, Whether we wake or sleepe, let us live together with Christ. Though then this absence of sleepe, may argue the presence of death (the Originall may exclude the Copie, the life, the picture) yet this gentle sleepe and rest of my soule betroths mee to thee, to whom I shall bee married

I 5. PRAYER.

20 O Eternall and most gracious God, who art able to make, and dost make the sicke bed of thy servants Chappels of ease to them, and the dreames of thy servants, Prayers, and Meditations upon thee, let not this continuall watchfulnes of mine, this inabilityie to sleepe, which thou 25 hast laid upon mee, be any disquiet or discomfort to me, but rather an argument, that thou wouldest not have me sleepe in thy presence. What it may indicate or signifie, concerning the state of my body, let them consider to whom that consideration belongs; doe thou, who onely art the thee, and yet ever leepe in thee; and that, through all this sicknesse, thou wilt either preserve mine understanding from all decaies and distractions, which these watchings might occasion, or that thou wilt reckon, and account with me, from before those violencies, and not call any peece 5 of my sicknesse a sinne. It is a heavy, and indelible sinne, that I brought into the world with me; It is a heavy and innumerable multitude of sins, which I have heaped up since; I have sinned behind thy backe (if that can be done) by wilfull abstaining from thy Congregations, and omitting 10 thy service, and I have sinned before thy face, in my hypocrisies in Prayer, in my ostentation, and the mingling a respect of my selfe in preaching thy Word; I have sinned in my fasting by repining, when a penurious fortune hath kept mee low; and I have sinned even in that fulnesse, 15 when I have been at thy table, by a negligent examination, by a wilfull prevarication, in receiving that heavenly food and Physicke. But, as I know, O my gracious God, that for all those sinnes committed since, yet thou wilt consider me, as I was in thy purpose, when thou wrotest my name 20 in the Booke of Life, in mine Election: so into what deviations soever I stray, and wander, by occasion of this sicknes, O God, returne thou to that Minute, wherein thou wast pleased with me, and consider me in that condition.

From the Bells of the Church adjoining, I am daily remembred of my buriall in the funeralls of others.

16. MEDITATION.

WE have a Convenient Author, who writ a Discourse 25 of Bells, when hee was prisoner in Turky. How would hee have enlarged himselfe if he had beene my fellow-prisoner in this sicke bed, so neere to that Steeple, which never ceases, no more than the harmony of the spheres, but is more heard. When the Turkes took Constantinople, they melted the Bells into Ordnance; I have 5 heard both Bells and Ordnance, but never been so much affected with those, as with these Bells. I have lien near a Steeple, in which there are said to be more than thirty Bels; And neere another, where there is one so bigge, as that the Clapper is said to weigh more than six hundred pound, 10 yet never so affected as here. Here the Bells can scarce solemnise the funerall of any person, but that I knew him, or knew that he was my Neighbour: we dwelt in houses neere to one another before, but now hee is gone into that house, into which I must follow him. There is a way of 15 correcting the Children of great persons, that other Children are corrected in their *behalf*e, and in their names, and this workes upon them, who indeed had more deserved it. And when these Bells tell me, that now one, and now another is buried, must not I acknowledge, that 20 they have the correction due to me, and paid the debt that I owe? There is a story of a Bell in a Monastery which, when any of the house was sicke to death, rung alwaies voluntarily, and they knew the inevitableness of the danger by that. It rung once, when no man was sick; but the 25 next day one of the house, fell from the steeple, and died, and the Bell held the reputation of a Prophet still. If these Bells that warne to a Funerall now, were appropriated to none, may not I, by the houre of the Funerall, supply? How many men that stand at an execution, if they would 30 aske, for what dies that man, should heare their owne faults condemned, and see themselves executed, by Attorney? We scarce heare of any man preferred, but wee thinke of our selves, that wee might very well have bene that Man; Why might not I have beene that Man, that is carried to his grave now? Could I fit my selfe, to stand, or sit in any mans place, and not to lie in any mans grave? I may lacke much of the good parts of the meanest, but I lacke nothing of the mortality of the weakest; They may 5 have acquired better abilities than I, but I was borne to as many infirmities as they. To be an Incumbent by lying down in a grave, to be a Doctor by teaching Mortification by Example, by dying, though I may have seniors, others may be elder than I, yet I have proceeded apace in a good 10 University, and gone a great way in a little time, by the furtherance of a vehement Fever; and whomsoever these Bells bring to the ground to day, if hee and I had beene compared yesterday, perchance I should have been thought likelier to come to this preferment, then, than he. God 15 hath kept the power of death in his owne hands, lest any man should bribe death. If man knew the gaine of death, the ease of death, he would sollicite, he would provoke death to assist him, by any hand, which he might use. But as when men see many of their owne professions preferd, it ministers 20 a hope that that may light upon them; so when these hourelly Bells tell me of so many funerals of men like me, it presents, if not a desire that it may, yet a comfort whensoever mine shall come.

MY God, my God, I doe not expostulate with thee, 25 but with them, who dare doe that; Who dare expostulate with thee, when in the voice of thy Church, thou givest allowance to this Ceremony of Bells at Funerals. Is it enough to refuse it, because it was in use among the Gentiles? so were funerals too. Is it because some abuses 30 may have crept in, amongst Christians? Is that enough, that their ringing hath been said to drive away evill spirits? Truly, that is so farre true, as that the evill spirit is vehemently vexed in their ringing, therefore, because that action brings the Congregation together, and unites God 5 and his people, to the destruction of that Kingdome, which the evill spirit usurps. In the first institution of thy Church, in this world, in the foundation of thy Militant Church amongst the Jewes, thou didst appoint the calling of the assembly in, to bee by Trumpet, and when they were in, then 10 thou gavest them the sound of Bells in the garment of thy Priest. In the Triumphant Church, thou imploiest both too, but in an inverted Order, we enter into the Triumphant Church by the sound of Bells, (for we enter when we die;) And then we receive our further edification, or consumma- 15 tion, by the sound of Trumpets, at the Resurrection. The sound of thy Trumpets thou didst impart to secular and civill uses too, but the sound of Bells onely to sacred; Lord, let not us breake the Communion of Saints, in that which was intended for the advancement of it; let not that pull 20 us asunder from one another, which was intended for the assembling of us, in the Militant, and associating of us to the Triumphant Church. But he for whose funerall these Bells ring now, was at home, at his journies end, yesterday; why ring they now? A Man, that is a world, is all the 25 things in the world; Hee is an Army, and when an Army marches, the Vaunt may lodge to night, where the Reare comes not till to morrow. A man extends to his act and to his example; to that which he does, and that which he teaches; so doe those things that concerne him, so doe these 30 Bells; That which rung yesterday, was to convey him out of the world, in his vaunt, in his soule: that which rung to day was to bring him in his reare, in his body, to the Church;

And this continuing of ringing after his entring, is to bring him to mee in the application. Where I lie, I could hear the Psalme, and did joine with the Congregation in it; but I could not heare the Sermon, and these latter Bells are a repetition Sermon to mee. But, O my God, my God, doe I, 5 that have this Fever, need other remembrances of my Mortalitie? Is not mine owne hollow voice, voice enough to pronounce that to me? Need I looke upon a Deaths-head in a Ring, that have one in my face? or goe for Death to my Neighbours house, that have him in my bosome? We 10 cannot, wee cannot, O my God, take in too many helps for religious duties; I know I cannot have any better Image of thee, than thy Sonne, nor any better Image of him, than his Gospell: yet must not I, with thanks confesse to thee, that some historicall pictures of his, have sometimes put mee 15 upon better Meditations than otherwise I should have fallen upon? I know thy Church needed not to have taken in from Jew or Gentile, any supplies for the exaltation of thy glory, or our devotion; of absolute necessitie I know shee needed not; But yet wee owe thee our thanks, that thou 20 hast given her leave to doe so, and that as in making us Christians, thou diddest not destroy that which wee were before, naturall men, so, in the exalting of our religious devotions now we are Christians, thou hast beene pleased to continue to us those assistances which did worke upon the 25 affections of naturall men before: for thou lovest a good man, as thou lovest a good Christian: and though grace bee meereyly from thee, yet thou doest not plant Grace but in good natures.

16. PRAYER.

O Eternall and most gracious God, who having consecrated our living bodies to thine owne Spirit, and 30 made us Temples of the holy Ghost, doest also require a respect to bee given to these Temples, even when the Priest is gone out of them; To these bodies, when the soule is departed from them; I blesse, and glorifie thy Name, that as thou takest care in our life, of every haire of our 5 head, so doest thou also of every graine of ashes after our death. Neither doest thou only doe good to us all, in life and death, but also wouldest have us doe good to one another, as in a holy life, so in those things which accom-

 10 panie our death: In that Contemplation I make account that I heare this dead brother of ours, who is now carried out to his buriall, to speake to mee, and to preach my Funerall Sermon, in the voice of these Bells. In him, O God, thou hast accomplished to mee, even the request of Dives to Abraham; Thou hast sent one from the dead to speake
 15 unto mee. He speakes to mee aloud from that Steeple; hee whispers to mee at these Curtaines, and hee speaks thy words; Blessed are the dead which die in the Lord, from henceforth. Let this Prayer therefore, O my God, be as my last gaspe, my expiring, my dying in thee; That if this bee 20 the houre of my Transmigration, I may die the death of a sinner, drowned in my sinnes, in the bloud of thy Sonne; And if I live longer, yet I may now die the death of the righteous, die to sinne; which death is a resurrection to a new life: Thou killest and thou givest life: which soever comes, it comes from 25 thee; which way soever it comes, let mee come to thee.

17. Nunc lento sonitu dicunt, Moriens.

Now, this Bell tolling softly for another,
saies to me, Thou must die.

17. MEDITATION.

PErchance hee for whom this Bell tolls, may be so ill, as that he knowes not it tolls for him; And perchance I may thinke my selfe so much better than I am, as that they who are about mee, and see my state, may have caused it to toll for mee, and I know not that. The Church is Catholike, universall, so are all her Actions; All that she does, belongs to all. When she baptizes a child, that action ² concernes mee; for that child is thereby connected to that Head which is my Head too, and engrafted into that body, ⁵ whereof I am a member. And when she buries a Man, that ³ action concernes me: ⁴ All mankinde is of one Author, and is one volume; when one Man dies, one Chapter is not torne out of the booke, but translated into a better language; and every Chapter must be so translated; God emploies several ¹⁰ translators; some peeces are translated by age, some by sicknesse, some by warre, some by justice; but Gods hand is in every translation; and his hand shall binde up all our scattered leaves againe, for that Librarie where every booke shall lie open to one another: As therefore the Bell that ¹⁵ rings to a Sermon, calls not upon the Preacher onely, but upon the Congregation to come; so this Bell calls us all: but how much more mee, who am brought so neere the doore by this sicknesse. There was a contention as farre as a suite, (in which both pietie and dignitie, religion, and esti- ²⁰ mation, were mingled) which of the religious Orders should ring to praiers first in the Morning; and it was determined, that they should ring first that rose earliest. If we understand aright the dignitie of this Bell that tolls for our evening prayer, we would bee glad to make it ours, by rising early, ²⁵ in that application, that it might bee ours, as wel as his, whose indeed it is. The Bell doth toll for him that thinkes it doth; and though it intermit againe, yet from that minute, that that occasion wrought upon him, hee is united to God. Who casts not up his Eie to the Sunne when it ³⁰ rises? but who takes off his Eie from a Comet when that breakes out? Who bends not his eare to any bell, which upon any occasion rings? but who can remove it from that bell, which is passing a peece of himselfe out of this world? No man is an Iland, intire of it selfe; every man is a peece of the Continent, a part of the maine; if a Clod bee washed away by the Sea, Europe is the lesse, as well as if a Pro-montorie were, as well as if a Mannor of thy friends or of thine owne were; any mans death diminishes me, because I am involved in Mankinde; And therefore never send to know for whom the bell tolls; It tolls for thee. Neither can we call this a bagging of Miserie or a borrowing of Miserie, 10 as though we were not miserable enough of our selves, but must fetch in more from the next house, in taking upon us the Miserie of our Neighbours. Truly it were an excusable covetousnesse if wee did; for affliction is a treasure, and scarce any man hath enough of it. No man hath affliction enough 15 that is not matured, and ripened by it, and made fit for God by that affliction. If a man carry treasure in bullion, or in a wedge of gold, and have none coined into currant Monies, his treasure will not defray him as he travells. Tribulation is Treasure in the nature of it, but it is not 20 currant money in the use of it, except wee get nearer and nearer our home, Heaven, by it. Another man may be sicke too, and sick to death, and this affliction may lie in his bowels, as gold in a Mine, and be of no use to him; but this

30 MY God, my God, is this one of thy waies, of drawing light out of darknesse, to make him for whom this bell tolls, now in this dimnesse of his sight, to become a superintendent, an overseer, a Bishop, to as many as heare his voice, in this bell, and to give us a confirmation in this action? Is this one of thy waies to raise strength out of weaknesse, to make him who cannot rise from his bed, nor stirre in his bed, come home to me, and in this sound, give 5 mee the strength of healthy and vigorous instructions? O my God, my God, what Thunder is not a well-tuned Cymball, what hoarsenesse, what harshnesse is not a cleare Organ, if thou bee pleased to set thy voice to it? and what Organ is not well plaied on, if thy hand bee upon it? Thy voice, 10 thy hand is in this sound, and in this one sound, I heare this whole consort. I heare thy Jaacob call unto his sonnes, and say; Gather your selves together, that I may tell you what shall befall you in the last daies: He saies, That which I am now, you must bee then. I heare thy Moses telling mee, and 15 all within the compasse of this sound, This is the blessing wherewith I blesse you before my death; This, that before your death, you would consider your owne in mine. I heare thy Prophet saying to Ezechias, Set thy house in order, for thou shalt die, and not live; Hee makes us of his familie, and 20 calls this a setting of his house in order, to compose us to the meditation of death. I heare thy Apostle saying, I thinke it meet to put you in remembrance, knowing that shortly I must goe out of this Tabernacle. This is the publishing of his will, and this Bell is our legacie, the applying of his present 25 condition to our use. I heare that which makes al sounds musique, and all musique perfit; I heare thy Sonne himselfe saying, Let not your hearts be troubled; Only I heare this change, that whereas thy Sonne saies there, I goe to prepare a place for you, this man in this sound saies, I send to prepare 30 you for a place, for a grave. But, O my God, my God, since heaven is glory and joy, why doe not glorious and joyfull

 15 world, to set it off? Is the joy of heaven no perfecter in it selfe, but that it needs the sourenesse of this life to give it a taste? Is that joy and that glory but a comparative glory and a comparative joy? not such in it selfe, but such in comparison of the joilessnesse and the ingloriousnesse of this 20 world? I know, my God, it is farre, farre otherwise. 17. PRAYER.

O Eternall and most gracious God, who hast beene pleased to speake to us, not onely in the voice of Nature, who speakes in our hearts, and of thy word, which speakes to our eaes, but in the speech of speechlesse Creatures, in Balaams Asse, in the speech of unbeleeving 5 men, in the confession of Pilate, in the speech of the Devill himselfe, in the recognition and attestation of thy Sonne, I humbly accept thy voice in the sound of this sad and funerall bell. And first, I blesse thy glorious name, that in this sound and voice I can heare thy instructions, in another 10 mans to consider mine owne condition; and to know, that this Bell which tolls for another, before it come to ring out, may take in me too. As death is the wages of sinne, it is due to mee; as death is the end of sicknesse, it belongs to mee; And though so disobedient a servant as I, may be 15 afraid to die, yet to so mercifull a Master as thou, I cannot be afraid to come; And therefore, into thy hands, O my God, I commend my spirit; A surrender, which I know thou wilt accept, whether I live or die; for thy servant David made it, when he put himselfe into thy protection for his life; 20 and thy blessed Sonne made it, when hee delivered up his soule at his death; declare thou thy will upon mee, O Lord, for life or death, in thy time; receive my surrender of my selfe, now, Into thy hands, O Lord, I commend my spirit. And being thus, O my God, prepared by thy correction, 25 mellowed by thy chastisement, and conformed to thy will, by thy Spirit, having received thy pardon for my Soule, and asking no reprieve for my Body, I am bold, O Lord, to bend my prayers to thee, for his assistance, the voice of whose bell hath called mee to this devotion. account, and how few minutes soever it have to remaine in that body, let the power of thy Spirit recompence the shortnesse of time, and perfect his account, before he passe away: present his sinnes so to him, as that he may know
 5 what thou forgivest, and not doubt of thy forgiveness; let him stop upon the infiniteness of those sinnes, but dwell upon the infiniteness of thy Mercy: let him discerne his owne demerits, but wrap himselfe up in the merits of thy Sonne, Christ Jesus: Breath inward comforts to his heart, and 10 afford him the power of giving such outward testimonies thereof, as all that are about him may derive comforts from thence, and have this edification, even in this dissolution, that though the body be going the way of all flesh, yet that soule is going the way of all Saints. When thy Sonne cried
 15 out upon the Crosse, My God, my God, Why hast thou forsaken me? he spake not so much in his owne Person, as in the person of the Church, and of his afflicted members, who in deep distresses might feare thy forsaking. This patient, O most blessed God, is one of them; in his behalfe, 20 and in his name, heare thy Sonne crying to thee, My God, my God, why hast thou forsaken me? and forsake him not; but with thy left hand lay his body in the grave, (if that bee thy determination upon him) and with thy right hand receive his soule into thy Kingdome, and unite him and us 25 in one Communion of Saints. Amen.

The Bell rings out, and tells me in him, that I am dead.

18. MEDITATION.

THE Bell rings out; the pulse thereof is changed; the tolling was a faint, and intermitting pulse, upon one side; this stronger, and argues more and better life. His soule is gone out; and as a Man, who had a lease of 1000. yeeres after the expiration of a short one, or an inheritance after the life of a man in a consumption, he is now entred into the possession of his better estate. His soule is gone; whither? Who saw it come in, or who saw it goe out? 5 No body; yet every body is sure, he had one, and hath none. If I will aske meere Philosophers, what the soule is, I shall finde amongst them, that will tell me, it is nothing, but the temperament and harmony, and just and equall composition of the Elements in the body, which produces all those 10 faculties which we ascribe to the soule; and so, in it selfe is nothing, no seperable substance, that overlives the body. They see the soule is nothing else in other Creatures, and they affect an impious humilitie, to think as low of Man. But if my soule were no more than the soul of a beast, I could 15 not thinke so; that soule that can reflect upon it selfe, consider it selfe, is more than so. If I will aske, not meere Philosophers, but mixt men, Philosophicall Divines, how the soule, being a separate substance, enters into Man, I shall finde some that will tell me, that it is by generation, and 20 procreation from parents, because they thinke it hard, to charge the soule with the guiltiness of originall sinne, if the soule were infused into a body, in which it must necessarily grow foule, and contract originall sinne, whether it will or no; and I shall finde some that will tell mee, that it is by 25 immediate infusion from God, because they think it hard, to maintaine an immortality in such a soule, as should be begotten, and derived with the body from mortall parents. If I will aske, not a few men, but almost whole bodies, whole Churches, what becomes of the soules of the righteous, at the 30 departing thereof from the body, I shall bee told by some, That they attend an expiation, a purification in a place of torment; By some, that they attend the fruition of the sight of God, in a place of rest; but yet, but of expectation; By some, that they passe to an immediate possession of the presence of God. S. Augustine studied the nature of the soule, as much as any thing, but the salvation of the soule; and he sent an 5 expresse Messenger to Saint Hierome, to consult of some things concerning the soule: But he satisfies himselfe with this: Let the departure of my soule to salvation be evident to my faith, and I care the lesse, how darke the entrance of my soule, into my body, bee to my reason. It is the going out, more

 10 than the comming in, that concernes us. This soule, this Bell tells me, is gone out; Whither? Who shall tell mee that? I know not who it is; much less what he was; The condition of the man, and the course of his life, which should tell mee whither hee is gone, I know not. I was not there in 15 his sicknesse, nor at his death; I saw not his way, nor his end, nor can aske them, who did, thereby to conclude, or argue, whither he is gone. But yet I have one neerer mee than all these; mine owne Charity; I aske that; and that tels me, He is gone to everlasting rest, and joy, and glory:
 20 I owe him a good opinion; it is but thankfull charity in mee, because I received benefit and instruction from him when his Bell told: and I, being made the fitter to pray, by that disposition, wherein I was assisted by his occasion, did pray for him; and I pray not without faith; so I doe
 25 charitably, so I do faithfully beleeve, that that soule is gone to everlasting rest, and joy, and glory. But for the body, how poore a wretched thing is that? wee cannot expresse it so fast, as it growes worse and worse. That body which scarce three minutes since was such a house, as that that 30 soule, which made but one step from thence to Heaven, was scarce thorowly content, to leave that for Heaven: that body hath lost the name of a dwelling house, because none

11. tells me,] all edd. omit the necessary comma.

dwells in it, and is making haste to lose the name of a body, and dissolve to putrefaction. Who would not bee affected, to see a cleere and sweet River in the Morning, grow a kennell of muddy land water by noone, and condemned to the saltnesse of the Sea by night? And how 5 lame a picture, how faint a representation is that, of the precipitation of mans body to dissolution? Now all the parts built up, and knit by a lovely soule, now but a statue of clay, and now, these limbs melted off, as if that clay were but snow; and now, the whole house is but a handfull of sand, 10 so much dust, and but a pecke of rubidge, so much bone. If he, who, as this Bell tells mee, is gone now, were some excellent Artificer, who comes to him for a clocke, or for a garment now? or for counsaile, if hee were a Lawyer? If a Magistrate, for Justice? Man, before hee hath his im- 15 mortall soule, hath a soule of sense, and a soule of vegetation before that: This immortall soule did not forbid other soules, to be in us before, but when this soule departs, it carries all with it; no more vegetation, no more sense: such a Mother in law is the Earth, in respect of our naturall 20
mother; in her wombe we grew; and when she was delivered of us, wee were planted in some place, in some calling in the world; In the wombe of the earth, wee diminish, and when shee is deliverd of us, our grave opened for another, wee are not transplanted, but transported, our dust blowne 25

to bee magnified, as men mistake, since God will not suffer his holy Officers, so much as to touch them, not to see them. But those dangers being removed, thou, O my God, dost certainly allow, that we should doe offices of piety to the dead, and that we should draw instructions to piety, from the 5 dead. Is not this, O my God, a holy kinde of raising up seed to my dead brother, if I, by the meditation of his death, produce a better life in my selfe? It is the blessing upon Reuben, Let Reuben live, and not die, and let not his men be few; let him propagate many. And it is a Malediction, That 10 that dieth, let it die; let it doe no good in dying: for Trees without fruit, thou by thy Apostle callst, twice dead. It is a second death, if none live the better, by me, after my death, by the manner of my death. Therefore may I justly thinke, that thou madest that a way to convey to the 15 Ægyptians a feare of thee, and a feare of death, that there was not a house, where there was not one dead; for therupon the Ægyptians said, We are all dead men; the death of others, should catechise us to death. Thy Sonne Christ Jesus is the first begotten of the dead; he rises first, the eldest brother, and 20 he is my Master in this Science of death: but yet, for mee, I am a younger brother too, to this Man, who died now, and to every man whom I see, or heare to die before mee, and all they are ushers to mee in this Schoole of Death. I take therefore that which thy servant Davids wife said to him, 25 to be said to mee; If thou save not thy life to night, to morrow thou shalt be slaine. If the death of this man worke not upon mee now, I shall die worse, than if thou hadst not afforded me this helpe: for thou hast sent him in this Bell to mee, as thou didst send to the Angell of Sardis, with 30 commission to strengthen the things that remaine, and that are ready to die; that in this weaknes of body, I might receive spiritual strength, by these occasions. May not the neglecting of this sound ministred to mee in this mans death, bring mee to that miserie, as that I, whom the Lord of life loved so, as to die for me, shall die, and a Creature of mine owne

18. PRAYER.

O Eternal and most gracious God, I have a new occasion of thanks, and a new occasion of prayer to thee, from the ringing of this Bell. Thou toldst me in the other voice, that I was mortall, and approaching to death; in this I may heare thee say, that I am dead, in an irre- 5 mediable, in an irrecoverable state for bodily health. If that be thy language in this voice, how infinitely am I bound to thy heavenly Majestie, for speaking so plainly unto mee? for even that voice, that I must die now, is not the voice of a Judge, that speaks by way of condemnation, but of a 10 Physitian, that presents health in that: Thou presentest mee death as the cure of my disease, not as the exaltation of it; if I mistake thy voice herein, if I over-runne thy pace, and prevent thy hand, and imagine death more instant upon mee than thou hast bid him bee, yet the voice belongs 15 to me; I am dead, I was borne dead, and from the first laying of these mud-walls in my conception, they have moldred away, and the whole course of life is but an active death. Whether this voice instruct mee, that I am a dead man now, or remember me, that I have been a dead man all 20 this while, I humbly thanke thee for speaking in this voice to my soule, and I humbly beseech thee also, to accept my prayers in his behalfe, by whose occasion this voice, this sound is come to mee. For though hee bee by death transplanted to thee, and so in possession of inexpressible 25 happinesse there, yet here upon earth thou hast given us such a portion of heaven, as that though men dispute, whether thy Saints in heaven doe know what we in earth in particular doe stand in need of, yet without all disputation, wee upon earth doe know what thy Saints in heaven lacke 30 yet, for the consummation of their happinesse; and therefore thou hast afforded us the dignitie, that we may pray for them. That therefore this soule, now newly departed to thy Kingdome, may quickly returne to a joifull reunion to that body which it hath left, and that wee with it, may soone 5 enjoy the full consummation of all, in body and soule, I humbly beg at thy hand, O our most mercifull God, for thy Sonne Christ Jesus sake. That that blessed Sonne of thine, may have the consummation of his dignitie, by entring into his last office, the office of a Judge, and may have 10 societie of humane bodies in heaven, as well as he hath had ever of soules; And that as thou hatest sinne it selfe, thy hate to sinne may bee expressed in the abolishing of all instruments of sin, The allurements of this world, and the world it selfe; and all the temporarie revenges of sinne, the 15 stings of sickness and of death; and all the castles, and prisons, and monuments of sinne, in the grave. That time may bee swallowed up in Eternitie, and hope swallowed in possession, and ends swallowed in infnitenesse, and all men ordained to salvation, in body and soule be one intire and 20 everlasting sacrifice to thee, where thou mayest receive delight from them, and they glorie from thee, for evermore.

Amen.

At last, the Physitians, after a long and stormie voyage, see land; They have so good signes of the concoction of the disease, as that they may safely proceed to purge.

19. MEDITATION.

All this while the Physitians themselves have beene patients, patiently attending when they should see any 25 land in this Sea, any earth, any cloud, any indication of concoction in these waters. Any disorder of mine, any pre- termission of theirs, exalts the disease, accelerates the rages of it; no diligence accelerates the concoction, the maturitie of the disease; they must stay till the season of the sicknesse come, and till it be ripened of it selfe, and then they may put to their hand, to gather it before it fall off, but they cannot hasten the ripening. Why should wee looke for it 5 in a disease, which is the disorder, the discord, the irregularitie, the commotion, and rebellion of the body? It were scarce a disease, if it could bee ordered, and made obedient to our times. Why should wee looke for that in disorder, in a disease, when we cannot have it in Nature, who is so 10 regular, and so pregnant, so forward to bring her worke to perfection, and to light? Yet we cannot awake the July-flowers in January, nor retard the flowers of the spring to autumne. We cannot bid the fruits come in May, nor the leaves to sticke on in December. A woman that is weake 15 cannot put off her ninth moneth to a tenth, for her deliverie, and say shee will stay till shee bee stronger; nor a Queene cannot hasten it to a seventh, that shee may bee ready for some other pleasure. Nature (if we looke for durable and vigorous effects) will not admit preventions, nor anticipations, 20 nor obligations upon her; for they are precontracts, and she will bee left to her libertie. Nature would not be spurred, nor forced to mend her pace; nor power, the power of man; greatnesse loves not that kinde of violence neither. There are of them that will give, that will do justice, that will 25 pardon, but they have their owne seasons for al these, and he that knowes not them, shall starve before that gift come, and ruine, before the Justice, and dye before the pardon save him: some tree beares no fruit, except much dung be laid about it; and Justice comes not from some, till they 30 bee richly manured: some trees require much visiting, much watring, much labour; and some men give not their fruits but upon importunitie; some trees require incision, and pruning, and lopping; some men must bee intimidated and syndicated with Commissions, before they will deliver the fruits of Justice; some trees require the early and the often accesse of the Sunne; some men open not, but upon the 5 favours and letters of Court mediation; some trees must bee housd and kept within doores; some men locke up, not onely their liberalitie, but their Justice, and their compassion, till the sollicitation of a wife, or a sonne, or a friend, or a servant turne the key. Reward is the season of one man, 10 and importunitie of another; feare the season of one man, and favour of another; friendship the season of one man, and naturall affection of another; and hee that knowes not their seasons, nor cannot stay them, must lose the fruits;

As Nature will not, so power and greatnesse will not bee
15 put to change their seasons; and shall wee looke for this Indulgence in a disease, or thinke to shake it off before it bee ripe? All this while, therefore, we are but upon a defensive warre, and that is but a doubtfull state; especially where they who are besieged doe know the best of their 20 defences, and doe not know the worst of their enemies power; when they cannot mend their works within, and the enemie can increase his numbers without. O how many farre more miserable, and farre more worthy to be lesse miserable than I, are besieged with this sicknesse, and lacke 25 their Sentinels, their Physitians to watch, and lacke their munition, their cordials to defend, and perish before the enemies weaknesse might invite them to sally, before the disease shew any declination, or admit any way of working upon it selfe? In me the siege is so farre slackned, as that 30 we may come to fight, and so die in the field, if I die, and not in a prison.

19. EXPOSTULATION.

MY God, my God, Thou art a direct God, may I not say a literall God, a God that wouldest bee understood literally, and according to the plaine sense of all that thou saiest? But thou art also (Lord I intend it to thy glory, and let no prophane misinterpreter abuse it to thy diminution) thou art a figurative, a metaphoricall God too: A God in whose words there is such a height of figures, such voyages, such peregrinations to fetch remote and precious metaphors, such extentions, such spreadings, such Curtaines of Allegories, such third Heavens of Hyperboles, so harmonious eloquitions, so retired and so reserved expressions, so commanding perswasions, so perswading commandements, such sinewes even in thy milke, and such things in thy words, as all prophane Authors, seeme of the seed of the Serpent, that creepes, thou art the Dove, that flies. O, what words but thine, can expresse the inexpressible texture, and composition of thy word; in which, to one man, that argument that binds his faith to beleve that to bee the Word of God, is the reverent simplicity of the Word, and to another, the majesty of the Word; and in which two men, equally pious, may meet, and one wonder, that all should not understand it, and the other, as much, that any man should. So, Lord, thou givest us the same earth, to labour on and to lie in; a house, and a grave, of the same earth; so Lord, thou givest us the same Word for our satisfaction, and for our Inquisition, for our instruction, and for our Admiration too; for there are places, that thy servants Hierom and Augustine would scarce beleve (when they grew warm by mutual letters) of one another, that they understood them, and yet both Hierome and Augustine call upon persons, whom they knew to bee farre weaker, than they thought one another (old women and young maids) to read thy Scriptures, without confining them, to these or those places. Neither art thou thus a figurative, a metaphoricall God in thy word only, but in thy workes too. The 5 stile of thy works, the phrase of thine actions, is metaphoricall. The institution of thy whole worship in the old Law, was a continuall Allegory; types and figures overspread all; and figures flowed into figures, and powred themselves out into farther figures; Circumcision carried a figure of Baptisme, and 10 Baptisme carries a figure of that purity, which we shall have in perfection in the new Jerusalem. Neither didst thou speake and worke in this language, onely in the time of thy Prophets; but since thou spokest in thy Son, it is so too. How often, how much more often doth thy Sonne call himselfe a way, and 15 a light, and a gate, and a Vine, and bread, than the Sonne of God, or of Man? How much oftner doth he exhibit a Metaphoricall Christ, than a reall, a literall? This hath occasioned thine ancient servants, whose delight it was to write after thy Copie, to proceede the same way in their expositions of 20 the Scriptures, and in their composing both of publike liturgies, and of private prayers to thee, to make their accesses to thee in such a kind of language, as thou wast pleased to speake to them, in a figurative, in a Metaphoricall language; in which manner I am bold to call the comfort

 25 which I receive now in this sicknesse, in the indication of the concoction and maturity thereof, in certaine clouds, and recidences, which the Physitians observe, a discovering of land from Sea, after a long, and tempestuous voyage. But wherefore, O my God, hast thou presented to us the 30 afflictions and calamities of this life, in the name of waters? so often in the name of waters, and deepe waters, and Seas

of waters? must we looke to bee drowned? are they bottomlesse, are they boundles? Thats not the dialect of thy language; thou hast given a Remedy against the deepest water, by water; against the inundation of sinne, by Baptisme; and the first life, that thou gavest to any 5 Creatures, was in waters; therefore thou dost not threaten us, with an irremediableness, when our affliction is a Sea. It is so, if we consider our selves; so thou callest Gennezareth, which was but a lake, and not salt, a Sea; so thou callest the Mediterranean Sea, still the great Sea, because the 10 inhabitants saw no other Sea; they that dwelt there, thought a Lake, a Sea, and the others thought a little Sea, the greatest, and wee that know not the afflictions of others, call our owne the heaviest. But, O my God, that is truly great, that overflows the channell; that is really a great affliction, 15 which is above my strength, but thou, O God, art my strength, and then what can bee above it? Mountaines shake with the swelling of thy Sea, secular mountaines, men strong in power, spirituall mountaines, men strong in grace, are shaken with afflictions; but thou laiest up thy sea in storehouses; 20 even thy corrections are of thy treasure, and thou wilt not waste thy corrections; when they have done their service, to humble thy patient, thou wilt call them in againe, for thou givest the Sea thy decree, that the waters should not passe thy Commandement. All our waters shal run into Jordan, and thy servants 25 passed Jordan dry foot; they shall run into the red Sea (the Sea of thy Sons blood) and the red Sea, that red Sea, drownes none of thine. But, they that saile in the Sea, tell of the danger thereof; I that am yet in this affliction, owe thee the glory of speaking of it; But, as the Wise man bids me, I say, 30 I may speak much, and come short; wherefore in sum thou art all. Since thou art so, O my God, and affliction is a Sea, too deepe for us, what is our refuge? thine Arke, thy ship. In all other Seas, in all other afflictions, those meanes which thou hast ordained; In this Sea, in Sickness, thy Ship is thy Physitian. Thou hast made a way in the Sea, and a safe

Thy Sonne needed no use of meanes; yet there wee apprehend the

But as they are Ships to us in those Seas, so is there a Ship to them too, in which they are to stay. is theirs, and our ship, the truth, and the sincere and religious worship of thee, and thy Gospell, we cannot promise our selves, so good safety; for though we have our ship, the Physitian, he hath not his ship, Religion; And meanes are not meanes, but in their concatenation, as they depend, and 5 are chained together. The ships are great, saies thy Apostle, but a helme turns them; the men are learned, but their Religion turnes their labours to good: And therefore it was a heavy curse, when the third part of the ships perished: It is a heavy case, where either all Religion, or true Religion 10 should forsake many of these ships, whom thou hast sent to convey us over these Seas. But, O my God, my God, since I have my ship, and they theirs, I have them, and they have thee, why are we yet no neerer land? As soone as thy Sonnes disciple had taken him into the ship, immediatly 15 the ship was at the land, whither they went. Why have not they and I this dispatch? Every thing is immediatly done, which is done when thou wouldst have it done. Thy purpose terminates every action, and what was done before that, is undone yet. Shall that slacken my hope? Thy 20 Prophet from thee, hath forbid it. It is good that a man should both hope, and quietly wait for the salvation of the Lord. Thou putttest off many judgements, till the last day, and many passe this life without any; and shall not I endure the putting off thy mercy for a day? and yet, O my God, thou 25 putttest me not to that; for, the assurance of future mercy, is present mercy. But what is my assurance now? What is my seale? It is but a cloud; that which my Physitians call a cloud, is that, which gives them their Indication. But a cloud? guided the church, and the glory of God, not only was, but appeared in a cloud. Let me returne, O my God, to the consideration of thy servant Eliahs proceeding, in a time of desperate drought; he bids them look towards the Sea; 5 They looke, and see nothing. He bids them again and again, seven times: and at the seventh time, they saw a little cloud rising out of the Sea; and presently they had their desire of raine. Seven dayes, O my God, have we looked for this cloud, and now we have it; none of thy Indications 10 are frivolous; thou makest thy signes, seales; and thy seales, effects; and thy effects, consolation, and restitution, wheresoever thou maiest receive glory by that way.

19. PRAYER.

O Eternall and most gracious God, who though thou passedst over infinite millions of generations, before 15 thou camest to a Creation of this world, yet when thou beganst, didst never intermit that worke, but continuedst day to day, till thou hadst perfited all the worke, and deposed it in the hands and rest of a Sabbath, though thou have beene pleased to glorifie thy selfe in a long exercise of my 20 patience, with an expectation of thy declaration of thy selfe in this my sickness, yet since thou hast now of thy goodness afforded that, which affords us some hope, if that bee still the way of thy glory, proceed in that way, and perfit that worke, and establish me in a Sabbath, and rest in thee, 25 by this thy seale of bodily restitution. Thy Priests came up to thee, by steps in the Temple; Thy Angels came downe to Jaacob, by steps upon the ladder; we finde no staire, by which thou thy selfe camest to Adam in Paradise, nor to Sodome in thine anger; for thou, and thou onely art able to 30 doe all at once. But, O Lord, I am not wearie of thy pace,

Ref. 1 Reg. 18. 43.] all edd. have 1 Reg. 19. 43.

nor wearie of mine owne patience. I provoke thee not with a praier, not with a wish, not with a hope, to more haste than consists with thy purpose, nor looke that any other thing should have entred into thy purpose, but thy glory. To heare thy steps comming towards mee is the same 5 comfort, as to see thy face present with mee; whether thou doe the worke of a thousand yeeres in a day, or extend the worke of a day, to a thousand yeeres, as long as thou workest, it is light, and comfort. Heaven it selfe is but an extention of the same joy; and an extention of this mercie, to proceed 10 at thy leisure, in the way of restitution, is a manifestation of heaven to me here upon earth. From that people, to whom thou appearedst in signes and in Types, the Jewes, thou art departed, because they trusted in them; but from thy Church, to whom thou hast appeared in thy selfe, in thy 15 Sonne, thou wilt never depart; because we cannot trust too much in him. Though thou have afforded me these signes of restitution, yet if I confide in them, and beginne to say, all was but a naturall accident, and nature begins to discharge her selfe, and shee will perfit the whole worke, my 20 hope shall vanish because it is not in thee. If thou shouldest take thy hand utterly from me, and have nothing to doe with me, nature alone were able to destroy me; but if thou withdraw thy helping hand, alas how frivolous are the helps of Nature, how impotent the assistances of Art? As there- 25 fore the morning dew, is a pawne of the evening fatnesse, so, O Lord, let this daies comfort be the earnest of to morrowes, so far as may conforme me entirely to thee, to what end, and by what way soever thy mercie have appointed mee.

Upon these Indications of digested matter, they proceed to purge.

20. MEDITATION.

THough counsel seeme rather to consist of spirituall parts, than action, yet action is the spirit and the soule of counsell. Counsels are not alwaies determined in Resolutions; wee cannot alwaies say, this was concluded; actions are 5 alwaies determined in effects; wee can say this was done. Then have Lawes their reverence, and their majestie, when we see the Judge upon the Bench executing them. Then have counsels of warre their impressions, and their operations, when we see the seale of an Armie set to them. It was an 10 ancient way of celebrating the memorie of such as deserved well of the State, to afford them that kinde of statuarie representation, which was then called Hermes; which was, the head and shoulders of a man, standing upon a Cube, but those shoulders without armes and hands. All together it
 15 figured a constant supporter of the State, by his counsell: But in this Hieroglyphique, which they made without hands, they passe their consideration no farther, but that the Counsellor should bee without hands, so farre as not to reach out his hand to forraigne tentations of bribes, in matters of Counsell, 20 and that it was not necessary, that the head should employ his owne hand; that the same men should serve in the execution, which assisted in the Counsell; but that there should not belong hands to every head, action to every counsell, was never intended, so much as in figure, and 25 representation. For, as Matrimonie is scarce to bee called Matrimonie, where there is a resolution against the fruits of matrimonie, against the having of Children, so counsels are not counsels, but illusions, where there is from the beginning no purpose to execute the determinations of those counsels. The arts and sciences are most properly referred to the head; that is their proper Element and Spheare; but yet the art of proving, Logique, and the art of perswading, Rhetorique, are deduced to the hand, and that expressed by a hand 5 contracted into a fist, and this by a hand enlarged, and expanded; and evermore the power of man, and the power of God himselfe is expressed so, All things are in his hand; neither is God so often presented to us, by names that carry our consideration upon counsell, as upon execution of 10 counsell; he is oftner called the Lord of Hosts, than by all other names, that may be referred to the other signification. Hereby therefore wee take into our meditation, the slipperie condition of man, whose happinesse, in any kinde, the defect of any one thing, conducing to that happinesse, may ruine; 15 but it must have all the peeces to make it up. Without counsell, I had not got thus farre; without action and practise, I should goe no farther towards health. But what is the present necessary action? purging: A withdrawing, a violating of Nature, a farther weakening: O deare price, 20 and O strange way of addition, to doe it by substraction; of restoring Nature, to violate Nature; of providing strength, by increasing weaknesse. Was I not sicke before? And is it a question of comfort to be asked now, Did your Physicke make you sicke? Was that it that my Physicke promised, to make 25 me sicke? This is another step, upon which we may stand, and see farther into the miserie of man, the time, the season of his Miserie; It must bee done now: O over-cunning, over-watchfull, over-diligent, and over-sociable misery of man, that seldome comes alone, but then when it may accompanie 30 other miseries, and so put one another into the higher

 is to take place, faith or repentance, and which, when we 10 consider faith, and works? The head and the hand too, are required to a perfit naturall man; Counsell and action too, to a perfit civill man; faith and works too, to him that is perfily spirituall. But because it is easily said, I beleeve, and because it doth not easily lie in prooffe, nor is easily 15 demonstrable by any evidence taken from my heart, (for who sees that, who searches those Rolls?) whether I doe beleeve, or no, is it not therefore, O my God, that thou dost so frequently, so earnestly, referre us to the hand, to the observation of actions? There is a little suspition, a little 20 imputation laid upon over-tedious and dilatorie counsels.
 Many good occasions slip away in long consultations; and it may be a degree of sloth, to be too long in mending nets, though that must bee done. He that observeth the wind, shall not sow, and he that regardeth the clouds, shall not reape; 25 that is, he that is too dilatorie, too superstitious in these observations, and studies but the excuse of his owne idlenesse in them; But, that which the same wise and royall servant
 of thine, saies in another place, all accept, and aske no comment upon it, He becommeth poore, that dealeth with a of the hand. I know, my God, (and I blesse thy Name for knowing it, for all good knowledge is from thee) that thou considerest the heart; but thou takest not off thine eye, till thou come to the hand. Nay, my God, doth not thy Spirit intimate that thou beginnest where we beginne, (at least, that 5 thou allowest us to beginne there) when thou orderest thine owne answer to thine owne question, Who shall ascend into the hill of the Lord? Thus, he that hath cleane hands, and a pure heart? Doest thou not (at least) send us, first to the hand? And is not the worke of their hands, that declaration 10 of their holy zeale, in the present execution of manifest Idolatrers, called a consecration of themselves, by thy Holy Spirit? Their hands are called all themselves: for, even counsell it selfe goes under that name, in thy Word, who knowest best how to give right names: because the counsell 15 of the Priests assisted David, Saul saies, the hand of the Priest is with David: And that which is often said by Moses, is very often repeated by thy other Prophets, These and these things, the Lord spake, and the Lord said, and the Lord commanded, not by the counsels, not by the voice, 20 but by the hand of Moses, and by the hand of the Prophets: Evermore we are referred for our Evidence, of others, and of our selves, to the hand, to action, to works. There is something before it, beleaving; and there is something after it, suffering; but in the most eminent, and obvious, and con- 25 spicuous place, stands doing. Why then, O my God, my blessed God, in the waies of my spirituall strength, come I so slow to action? I was whipped by thy rod, before I came to consultation, to consider my state; and shall I goe no farther? As hee that would describe a circle in paper, if 30 hee have brought that circle within one inch of finishing, proceeding to action therefore, is a returning to thee, and a working upon my selfe by thy Physicke, by thy purgative physicke, a free and entire evacuation of my soule by confession. The working of purgative physicke, is violent and dangerous. O Lord, I decline not that method in this physicke, in things that burthen my conscience, to make my can certainly doe no harme; and the Church hath alwaies thought that it might, and, doubtlesse, many humble soules have found, that it hath done them good. I will

20. PRAYER.

O Eternall and most gracious God, who having married Man, and Woman together, and made them one flesh, wouldest have them also, to become one soule, so, as that they might maintaine a simpathy in their affections, and have a conformity to one another in the accidents of this 15 world, good or bad, so having married this soule and this body in me, I humbly beseech thee, that my soule may looke, and make her use of thy mercifull proceedings towards my bodily restitution, and goe the same way to a spirituall. I am come by thy goodnesse, to the use of 20 thine ordinary meanes for my body, to wash away those peccant humors, that endangered it. I have, O Lord, a River in my body, but a Sea in my soule, and a Sea swoln into the depth of a Deluge, above the Sea. Thou hast raised up certaine hills in me heretofore, by which I might have stood 25 safe, from these inundations of sin. Even our Naturall faculties are a hill; and might preserve us from some sinne. Education, study, observation, example, are hills too, and might preserve us from some. Thy Church, and thy Word, and thy Sacraments, and thine Ordinances, are hills, above 30

these; thy Spirit of remorse, and compunction, and repentance for former sin, are hills too; and to the top of all these hills, thou hast brought mee heretofore; but this Deluge, this inundation, is got above all my Hills; and I have sinned
 5 and sinned, and multiplied sinne to sinne, after all these thy assistances against sinne, and where is there water enough to wash away this Deluge? There is a red Sea, greater than this Ocean; and there is a little Spring, through which this Ocean may powre itselfe into that red Sea. Let thy Spirit
 10 of true contrition, and sorrow passe all my sinnes, through these eies, into the wounds of thy Sonne, and I shall be cleane, and my soule so much better purged than my body, as it is ordained for a better, and a longer life.

IF man had beene left alone in this world, at first, shall 15 I thinke, that he would not have fallen? If there had beene no Woman, would not man have served, to have beene his own Tempter? When I see him now, subject to infinite weakenesses, fall into infinite sinne, without any forraine tentations, shall I thinke, hee would have had none, 20 if hee had beene alone? God saw that Man needed a Helper, if hee should bee well; but to make Woman ill, the Devill saw, that there needed no third. When God, and wee were alone, in Adam, that was not enough; when the Devill and wee were alone, in Eve, it was enough. O what 25 a Giant is Man, when he fights against himselfe, and what a *Dwarf*e when hee needs, or exercises his owne assistance

for himselfe? I cannot rise out of my bed, till the Physitian enable mee, nay I cannot tel, that I am able to rise, till hee tell me so. I doe nothing, I know nothing of myselfe: how little, and how impotent a peece of the world, is any Man alone? and how much lesse a peece of himselfe is that Man? 5
So little, as that when it falls out, (as it falls out in some cases) that more misery, and more oppression, would be an ease to a man, he cannot give himselfe that miserable addition, of more misery; a man that is pressed to death, and might be eased by more weights, cannot lay those more 10 weights upon himselfe: Hee can sinne alone, and suffer alone, but not repent, not bee absolved, without another. Another tels mee, I may rise; and I doe so. But is every raising a preferment? or is every present preferment a station? I am readier to fall to the Earth, now I am up, 15 than I was when I lay in the bed: O perverse way, irregular motion of Man; even rising it selfe is the way to Ruine. How many men are raised, and then doe not fill the place they are raised to? No corner of any place can bee empty; there can be no vacuity; If that Man doe not fill the place, other 20 men will; complaints of his insufficiency will fill it; Nay, such an abhorring is there in Nature, of vacuity, that if there be but an imagination of not filling, in any man, that which is but imagination neither, will fill it, that is, rumor and voice, and it will be given out, (upon no ground, but Imagination, 25 and no man knowes whose imagination) that hee is corrupt in his place, or insufficient in his place, and another prepared to succeed him in his place. A man rises, sometimes, and stands not, because hee doth not, or is not beleaved to fill his place; and sometimes he stands not, because hee 30 overfills his place: Hee may bring so much vertue, so much Justice, so much integrity to the place, as shall spoil the place, burthen the place; his integrity may bee a Libell upon his Predecessor, and cast an infamy upon him, and a burthen upon his successor, to proceede by example, and to bring the place itselſe to an under-value, and the market to an uncertainty. I am up, and I ſeeme to stand, and I goe round;

 5 and I am a new Argument of the new Philosophie, That the Earth moves round; why may I not beleeeve, that the whole earth moves in a round motion, though that ſeeme to mee to stand, when as I ſeeme to stand to my Company, and yet am carried, in a giddy, and circular motion, as I stand?
 10 Man hath no center but misery; there and onely there, hee is fixt, and ſure to finde himſelſe. How little ſoever hee bee raised, he moves, and moves in a circle, giddily; and as in the Heavens, there are but a few Circles, that goe about the whole world, but many Epicircles, and other lesser 15 Circles, but yet Circles, ſo of thoſe men, which are raised, and put into Circles, few of them move from place to place, and paſſe through many and beneficiall places, but fall into little Circles, and, within a ſtep or two, are at their end, and not ſo well, as they were in the Center, from which 20 they were raised. Every thing ſerves to exempliſe, to illustrate mans misery. But I need goe no farther, than my ſelſe: for a long time, I was not able to riſe; At laſt, I muſt bee raised by others; and now I am up, I am ready to ſinke lower than before.

21. EXPOSTULATION.

25 MY God, my God, how large a glasse of the next World is this? As we have an Art, to caſt from one glasse to another, and ſo to carry the Species a great way off, ſo haſt thou that way, much more; wee ſhall have a Resurrection in Heaven; the knowledge of that thou caſteſt 30 by another glasse upon us here; we *fee*le that wee have a Resurrection from ſinne; and that by another glasse too; wee see wee have a Resurrection of the body, from the miseries and calamities of this life. This Resurrection of my body, shewes me the Resurrection of my soule; and both here severally, of both together hereafter. Since thy Martyrs under the Altar, presse thee with their solicitation for the Resurrection of the body to glory, thou wouldest pardon mee, if I should presse thee by Prayer, for the accomplishing of this Resurrection, which thou hast begunne in me to health. But, O my God, I do not aske, where I might aske amisse, nor begge that which perchance might bee worse for mee. 10 I have a Bed of sinne; delight in sinne, is a Bed; I have a grave of sinne; senselessness of sinne is a grave; and where Lazarus had benee four daies, I have benee fifty yeeres, in this putrifaction; Why dost thou not call mee, as thou diddest him, with a loud voice, since my Soule is as dead 15 as his Body was? I need thy thunder, O my God; thy musicke will not serve me. Thou hast called thy servants, who are to worke upon us, in thine Ordinance, by all these loud Names, Winds, and Chariots, and falls of waters; where thou wouldest be heard, thou wilt bee heard. When 20 thy Sonne concurred with thee, to the making of Man, there it is but a speaking, but a saying; There, O blessed and glorious Trinity, was none to heare but you three, and you easily heare one another, because you say the same things. But when thy Sonne came to the worke of Redemption, thou 25 spokest, and they that heard it, tooke it for Thunder; and thy Sonne himselve cried with a loud voice, upon the Crosse twice, as hee, who was to prepare his comming, John Baptist, was the voice of a cryer, and not of a Whisperer. Still, if it be thy voice, it is a loud voice; These words, saies 30 thy Moses, thou spokest with a great voice, and thou addedst no more, saies hee there; That which thou hast said, is evident, and it is evident, that none can speake so loud; none can bind us to heare him, as wee must thee. The most high uttered his voice: what was his voice? The Lord thundred from heaven, it might bee heard; But this voice, thy voice, is also a mightie voice; not only mightie in power, it may be heard, nor mightie in obligation, it should be heard, but mightie in operation, it will bee heard; and therefore hast thou bestowed a whole Psalme upon us, to lead us to the consideration of thy voice. It is such a voice, as that thy Sonne saies, the dead shall heare it; and thats my state; And why, O God, dost thou not speake to me, in that effectuall loudnesse? Saint John heard a voice, and hee turned about to see the voice: sometimes we are too curious of the instrument, by what man God speakes; but thou speakest loudest, when thou speakest to the heart. There was silence, and I heard a voice, saies one, to thy servant Job. I hearken after thy voice, in thine Ordinances, and I seeke not a whispering in Conventicles; but yet, O my God, speake louder, that so, though I doe heare thee now, then I may heare nothing but thee. My sinnes crie aloud; Cains murther did so: my afflictions crie aloud; The flouds have lifted up their voice, (and waters are afflictions) but thou, O Lord, art mightier than the voice of many waters; than many temporall, many spirituall afflictions; than any of either kinde; and why doest thou not speak to me in that voice? What is man, and whereto serveth he? What is his good, and what is his evill? My bed of sinne is not evill, not desperatly evill, for thou doest call mee out of it; but my rising out of it is not good, (not perfity good) if thou call not louder, and hold me now I am up. O my God, I am afraid of a fearefull application of those words, when a man hath done, then hee beginneth; when this body is unable to sinne, his sinfull memory sinnes over his old sinnes againe; and that which thou wouldest have us to remember for compunction, we remember with delight.

Bring him to me in his bed, that I may kill him, saies Saul of hast not suffered that, that my servants should so much as 5 neglect mee, or be wearie of mee, in my sicknesse. Thou threatnest, that as a shepheard takes out of the mouth of the Lion two legs, or a peece of an eare, so shall the children of Israel, that dwell in Samaria, in the corner of a bed, and in Damascus, in a couch, bee taken away: That even they that 10 are secure from danger, shall perish; How much more might I, who was in the bed of death, die? But thou hast not so dealt with mee. As they brought out sicke persons in beds, that thy servant Peters shadow might over-shadow them;

 Thou hast, O my God, over-shadowed mee, refreshed mee: 15
 But when wilt thou doe more? when wilt thou doe all?
 when wilt thou speake in thy loud voice? when wilt thou bid mee take up my bed and walke? As my bed is my affections, when shall I beare them so as to subdue them?
 As my bed is my afflictions, when shall I beare them so, as 20 not to murmure at them? When shall I take up my bed and walke? not lie downe upon it, as it is my pleasure, not sinke under it, as it is my correction? But O my God, my God, the God of all flesh, and of all spirit too, let me bee content with that in my fainting spirit, which thou declarest 25 in this decaied flesh, that as this body is content to sit still, that it may learne to stand, and to learne by standing to walke, and by walking to travell, so my soule, by obeying this thy voice of rising, may by a farther and farther growth of thy grace, proceed so, and bee so established, as may 30 remove all suspitions, all jealousies betweene thee and mee, and may speake and heare in such a voice, as that still I may

21. PRAYER.

O Eternall and most gracious God, who hast made little things to signifie great, and convoid the infinite merits of thy Sonne in the water of Baptisme, and in the Bread and Wine of thy other Sacrament, unto us, receive 5 the sacrifice of my humble thanks, that thou hast not onely afforded mee, the abilitie to rise out of this bed of wearinesse and discomfort, but hast also made this bodily rising, by thy grace, an earnest of a second resurrection from sinne, and of a third, to everlasting glory. Thy Sonne himselfe, alwaies 10 infinite in himselfe and incapable of addition, was yet pleased to grow in the Virgins wombe, and to grow in stature, in the sight of men. Thy good purposes upon mee, I know, have their determination and perfection, in thy holy will upon mee; there thy grace is, and there I am altogether; 15 but manifest them so unto me, in thy seasons, and in thy measures and degrees, that I may not onely have that comfort of knowing thee to be infinitely good, but that also of finding thee to be every day better and better to mee: and that as thou gavest Saint Paul, the Messenger of Satan, to humble 20 him, so for my humiliation, thou maiest give me thy selfe, in this knowledge, that what grace soever thou afford mee to day, yet I should perish to morrow, if I had not had to morrowes grace too. Therefore I begge of thee, my daily bread; and as thou gavest mee the bread of sorrow for 25 many daies, and since the bread of hope for some, and this day the bread of possessing, in rising by that strength, which thou the God of all strength, hast infused into me, so, O Lord, continue to mee the bread of life; the spirituall bread of life, in a faithfull assurance in thee; the sacramentall 30 bread of life, in a worthy receiving of thee; and the more reall bread of life, in an everlasting union to thee. I know,

O Lord, that when thou hadst created Angels, and they saw thee produce fowle, and fish, and beasts, and wormes, they did not importune thee, and say, shall wee have no better Creatures than these, no better companions than these; but staid thy leisure, and then had man delivered over to them, 5 not much inferiour in nature to themselves. No more doe I, O God, now that by thy first mercie, I am able to rise, importune thee for present confirmation of health; nor now, that by thy mercie, I am brought to see, that thy correction hath wrought medicinally upon me, presume I 10 upon that spirituall strength I have; but as I acknowledge, that my bodily strength is subject to every puffe of wind, so is my spirituall strength to every blast of vanitie. Keepe me therefore still, O my gracious God, in such a proportion of both strengths, as I may still have something to thanke thee 15 for, which I have received, and still something to pray for, and aske at thy hand.

What medicines, besides his diet? and what Inmates he is faine to take in, besides his owne familie, what infectious

Adam might have had Paradise for drassing and keeping it; and then his rent was not improved to such a labour, as would have made his brow sweat; and yet he gave it over; how farre greater a rent doe wee pay for this farme, this body, who pay our selves,

In the distempers and diseases of soiles, sourenesse, drinesse, weeping, any kinde of barrennesse, the remedy and the physicke, is, for a great part, sometimes in themselves; sometimes the very

situation releevs them; the hanger of a hill, will purge and vent his owne malignant moisture; and the burning of the upper turfe of some ground (as health from cauterizing) puts a new and a vigorous youth into that soile, and there rises a kinde of Phenix out of the ashes, a fruitfulnesse out 5 of that which was barren before, and by that, which is the barrenest of all, ashes. And where the ground cannot give it selfe Physicke, yet it receives Physicke from other grounds, from other soiles, which are not the worse, for having contributed that helpe to them, from Marle in other hils, 10 or from slimie sand in other shoares: grounds helpe themselves, or hurt not other grounds, from whence they receive helpe. But I have taken a farme at this hard rent, and upon those heavie covenants, that it can afford it selfe no helpe; (no part of my body, if it were cut off, would cure another 15 part; in some cases it might preserve a sound part, but in no case recover an infected) and, if my body may have any Physicke, any Medicine from another body, one Man from the flesh of another Man (as by Mummy, or any such composition,) it must bee from a man that is dead, and not, 20 as in other soiles, which are never the worse for contributing their Marle, or their fat slime to my ground. There is nothing in the same man, to helpe man, nothing in mankind to helpe one another (in this sort, by way of Physicke) but that hee who ministers the helpe, is in as ill 25 case, as he that receives it would have beene, if he had not had it; for hee from whose body the Physicke comes, is dead. When therefore I tooke this farme, undertooke this body, I undertooke to draine, not a marish, but a moat, where there was, not water mingled to offend, but all was 30 water; I undertooke to perfume dung, where no one part, but all was equally unsavory; I undertooke to make such a thing wholsome, as was not poison by any manifest quality, intense heat, or cold, but poison in the whole substance, and in the specifiqu forme of it. To cure the sharpe accidents of diseases, is a great worke; to cure the disease it selfe is a greater; but to cure the body, the root, the occasion of 5 diseases, is a worke reserved for the great Phisitian, which he doth never any other way, but by glorifying these bodies in the next world.

22. EXPOSTULATION.

MY God, my God, what am I put to, when I am put 10 to consider, and put off, the root, the fuell, the occasion of my sicknesse? What Hypocrates, what Galen, could shew mee that in my body? It lies deeper than so; it lies in my soule: and deeper than so; for we may wel consider the body, before the soule came, before inanimation, to bee without sinne; and the soule, before it come to the 15 body, before that infection, to be without sinne; sinne is the root, and the fuell of all sicknesse, and yet that which destroies body and soule is in neither, but in both together; It is in the union of the body and soule; and, O my God, could I prevent that, or can I dissolve that? The root, and the fuell of my 20 sicknesse, is my sinne, my actuall sinne; but even that sinne hath another root, another fuell, originall sinne; and can I deuest that? Wilt thou bid me to separate the leven, that a lumpe of Dowe hath received, or the salt, that the water hath contracted, from the Sea? Dost thou looke, that I 25 should so looke to the fuell or embers of sinne, that I never take fire? The whole world is a pile of fagots, upon which wee are laid, and (as though there were no other) we are the bellowes. Ignorance blowes the fire, He that touched any uncleane thing, though he knew it not, became uncleane, and

were done in ignorance. Ignorance blowes this Coale; but then knowledge much more; for, there are that know thy judgements, and yet not onely doe, but have pleasure in others, that doe against them. Nature blowes this Coale; By nature wee are the children of wrath: And the Law blows it; thy 5 Apostle, Saint Paul, found, That sinne tooke occasion by the Law, that therefore because it is forbidden, we do some things. If wee breake the Law, wee sinne; Sinne is the transgression of the Law; And sinne itselfe becomes a Law in our members. Our fathers have imprinted the seed, infused 10 a spring of sinne in us: As a fountaine casteth out her waters, wee cast out our wickednesse, but we have done worse than our fathers. We are open to infinite tentations, and yet, as though we lacked, we are tempted of our owne lusts. And not satisfied with that, as though we were not powerfull 15 enough, or cunning enough, to demolish, or undermine our selves, when wee our selves have no pleasure in the sinne, we sinne for others sakes. When Adam sinned for Eves sake, and Salomon to gratifie his wives, it was an uxorious sinne: When the Iudges sinned for Jezabels sake, 20 and Joab to obey David, it was an ambitious sinne: When Pilat sinned to humor the people, and Herod to give farther contentment to the Jewes, it was a popular sinne: Any thing serves, to occasion sin, at home, in my bosome, or abroad, in my mark, and aime; that which I am, and that which I am 25 not, that which I would be, proves coales, and embers, and fuell, and bellowes to sin; and dost thou put me, O my God, to discharge my self, of my selfe, before I can be well? When thou bidst me to put off the old Man, doest thou meane, not onely my old habits of actuall sin, but the 30 oldest of all, originall sinne? When thou biddest me purge out the leaven, dost thou meane not only the sowrenesse of mine owne ill contracted customes, but the innate tincture of sin, imprinted by Nature? How shall I doe that which thou requirest, and not falsifie that which thou hast said, that sin is gone over all? But, O my God, I presse thee not,

 5 with thine owne text, without thine owne comment; I know that in the state of my body, which is more discernible, than that of my soule, thou dost effigiate my Soule to me. And though no Anatomist can say, in dissecting a body, here lay the coale, the fuell, the occasion of all bodily diseases, but 10 yet a man may have such a knowledge of his owne constitution, and bodily inclination to diseases, as that he may prevent his danger in a great part: so though wee cannot assigne the place of originall sinne, nor the Nature of it, so exactly, as of actuell, or by any diligence devest it, yet, having

22. PRAYER.

20 O Eternall and most gracious God, the God of securitie, and the emie of securitie too, who wouldest have us alwaies sure of thy love, and yet wouldest have us alwaies doing something for it, let mee alwaies so apprehend thee, as present with me, and yet so follow after thee, as though 25 I had not apprehended thee. Thou enlargedst Ezechias lease for fifteene yeeres; Thou renewedst Lazarus his lease, for a time, which we know not: But thou didst never so put out any of these fires, as that thou didst not rake up the embers, and wrap up a future mortalitie in that body, which 30 thou hadst then so reprieved. Thou proceedest no otherwise in our soules, O our good, but fearefull God: Thou pardonest no sinne so, as that that sinner can sinne no more; thou makest no man so acceptable, as that thou makest him impeccable. Though therefore it were a diminution of the largenesse, and derogatorie to the fulnesse of thy mercie, to looke backe upon those sinnes which in a true 5 repentance, I have buried in the wounds of thy Sonne, with a jealous or suspicious eie, as though they were now my sinnes, when I had so transferred them upon thy Sonne, as though they could now bee raised to life againe, to condemne mee to death, when they are dead in him, who is 10 the fountaine of life, yet were it an irregular anticipation, and an insolent presumption, to thinke that thy present mercie extended to all my future sinnes, or that there were no embers, no coales of future sinnes left in mee. Temper therefore thy mercie so to my soule, O my God, that I may 15 neither decline to any faintnesse of spirit, in suspecting thy mercie now, to bee lesse heartie, lesse sincere, than it uses to be, to those who are perfitly reconciled to thee, nor presume so of it, as either to thinke this present mercie an antidote against all poisons, and so expose my self to tentations, 20 upon confidence that this thy mercie shall preserve mee, or that when I doe cast my selfe into new sinnes, I may have new mercie at any time, because thou didst so easily afford mee this.

23. Metusque, relabi.

23. MEDITATION.

IT is not in mans body, as it is in the Citie, that when the 25 Bell hath rung, to cover your fire, and rake up the embers, you may lie downe and sleepe without feare. Though you have by physicke and diet, raked up the embers of your disease, stil there is a feare of a relapse; and the greater danger is in that. Even in pleasures, and in paines, there is a propriety, a Meum & Tuum; and a man is most affected with that pleasure which is his, his by former enjoying and experience, and most intimidated with those 5 paines which are his, his by a wofull sense of them, in former afflictions. A covetous person, who hath preoccupied all his senses, filled all his capacities, with the delight of gathering, wonders how any man can have any taste of any pleasure in any opennesse, or liberalitie; So also in bodily

 10 paines, in a fit of the stone, the Patient wonders why any man should call the Gout a paine: And hee that hath felt neither, but the tooth-ach, is as much afraid of a fit of that, as either of the other, of either of the other. Diseases, which we never felt in our selves, come but to a compassion
 15 of others that have endured them; Nay, compassion it selfe comes to no great degree, if wee have not felt in some proportion, in our selves, that which wee lament and condole in another. But when wee have had those torments in their exaltation, our selves, wee tremble at a relapse. When wee
 20 must pant through all those fierie heats, and saile thorow all those overflowing sweats, when wee must watch through all those long nights, and mourne through all those long daies, (daies and nights, so long, as that Nature her selfe shall seeme to be perverted, and to have put the longest day, and the 25 longest night, which should bee six moneths asunder, into one naturall, unnaturall day) when wee must stand at the same barre, expect the returne of Physitians from their consultations, and not bee sure of the same verdict, in any good Indications, when we must goe the same way over againe, and not see the same issue, this is a state, a condition, a calamitie, in respect of which, any other sicknesse, were a convalescence, and any greater, lesse. It addes to the affliction, that relapses are, (and for the most part justly) imputed to our selves, as occasioned by some disorder in us; 5 and so we are not onely passive, but active, in our owne ruine; we doe not onely stand under a falling house, but pull it downe upon us; and wee are not onely executed, (that implies guiltinesse) but wee are executioners, (that implies dishonor) and executioners of our selves, (and that 10 implies impietie.) And wee fall from that comfort which wee might have in our first sicknesse, from that meditation, Alas, how generally miserable is Man, and how subject to diseases, (for in that it is some degree of comfort, that wee are but in the state common to all) we fall, I say, to this discomfort, 15 and selfe accusing, and selfe condemning; Alas, how unprovi- dent, and in that, how unthankfull to God and his instruments am I, in making so ill use of so great benefits, in destroying so soone, so long a worke, in relapsing, by my disorder, to that from which they had delivered mee; and so my meditation is 20 fearefully transferred from the body to the minde, and from the consideration of the sicknesse to that sinne, that sinful carelessnes, by which I have occasioned my relapse. And amongst the many weights that aggravate a relapse, this also is one, that a relapse proceeds with a more violent 25 dispatch, and more irremediably, because it finds the Countrie weakned, and depopulated before. Upon a sick- nesse, which as yet appeares not, wee can scarce fix a feare, because wee know not what to feare; but as feare is the busiest, and irksomest affection, so is a relapse (which is still 30 ready to come) into that, which is but newly gone, the nearest object, the most immediate exercise of that affection of feare.

23. EXPOSTULATION.

MY God, my God, my God, thou mightie Father, who hast beene my Physitian; Thou glorious Sonne, who hast beene my physicke; Thou blessed Spirit, who hast prepared and applied all to mee, shall I alone bee able to 5 overthrow the worke of all you, and relapse into those spirituall sicknesses, from which your infinite mercies have withdrawne me? Though thou, O my God, have filled my measure with mercie, yet my measure was not so large, as that of thy whole people, the Nation, the numerous and 10 glorious nation of Israel; and yet how often, how often did they fall into relapses? And then, where is my assurance?
 How easily thou passedst over many other sinnes in them, and how vehemently thou insistedst in those, into which they so often relapsed; Those were their murmurings 15 against thee, in thine Instruments, and Ministers, and their turnings upon other gods, and embracing the Idolatries of their neighbours. O my God, how slipperie a way, to how irrecoverable a bottome, is murmuring; and how neere thy selfe hee comes, that murmures at him, who comes from 20 thee? The Magistrate is the garment in which thou apparel-lest thy selfe, and hee that shoots at the cloathes, cannot say, hee meant no ill to the man: Thy people were feareful examples of that; for, how often did their murmuring against thy Ministers, end in a departing from thee? when they would 25 have other officers, they would have other gods; and still to daies murmuring, was to morrowes Idolatrie; As their mur- muring induced Idolatrie, and they relapsed often into both,
 I have found in my selfe, O my God, (O my God, thou hast found it in me, and thy finding it, hast shewed it to me)

6. your infinite mercies 1624 (1) 1624 (2), 1626, Alford, and Pickering omit your

such a transmigration of sinne, as makes mee afraid of relapsing too. The soule of sinne (for wee have made sinne immortall, and it must have a soule) the soule of sinne, is disobedience to thee; and when one sinne hath beene dead in mee, that soule hath passed into another sinne. Our 5 youth dies, and the sinnes of our youth with it; some sinnes die a violent death, and some a naturall; povertie, penurie, imprisonment, banishment, kill some sinnes in us, and some die of age; many waies wee become unable to doe that sinne; but still the soule lives, and passes into another sinne; 10 and that, that was licentiousnesse, growes ambition, and that comes to indevotion, and spirituall coldnesse; wee have three lives, in our state of sinne, and where the sinnes of youth expire, those of our middle yeeres enter; and those of our age after them. This transmigration of sinne found in 15 my selfe, makes me afraid, O my God, of a Relapse: but the occasion of my feare is more pregnant than so; for, I have had, I have multiplied Relapses already. Why, O my God, is a relapse so odious to thee? Not so much their murmuring, and their Idolatry, as their relapsing into those 20 sinnes, seemes to affect thee, in thy disobedient people. They limited the holy One of Israel, as thou complainest of them: That was a murmuring; but before thou chargest them with the fault it selfe, in the same place, thou chargest them, with the iterating, the redoubling of that fault, before 25 the fault was named; How oft did they provoke mee in the Wildernesse; and grieve me in the Desert? That which brings thee to that exasperation against them, as to say, that thou wouldest breake thine owne oath, rather than leave them unpunished, (They shall not see the land, which I sware 30 unto their fathers) was because they had tempted thee ten times, infinitely; upon that, thou threatnest with that vehemencie, if ye do in anywise goe backe, know for a certainty,

Num. 14.

Jos. 23. 12.

God will no more drive out any of these Nations from before you; but they shall be snares, and traps unto you, and scourges in your sides, and thornes in your eies, till ye perish. No tongue, but thine owne, O my God, can expresse thine indignation, against a Nation relapsing to Idolatry. Idolatry in any Nation is deadly; but when the disease is complicated with a relapse (a knowledge and a profession of a former recoverie) it is desperate: And thine anger workes, not onely where the evidence is pregnant, and without exception, (so thou saiest, when it is said, That certaine men in a Citie have withdrawne others to Idolatrie, and that inquirie is made, and it is found true, the Citie, and the inhabitants, and the Cattell are to be destroyed) but where there is but a suspicion, a rumor, of such a relapse to Idolatrie, thine anger is awakened, and thine indignation stirred. In the government of thy servant Josua, there was a voice, that Reuben and Gad, with those of Manasseh, had built a new Altar. Israel doth not send one to enquire; but the whole Congregation gathered to goe up to warre against them; and there went a Prince of every Tribe: And they object to them, not so much their present declination to Idolatry, as their Relapse; is the iniquity of Peor too little for us? An idolatry formerly committed, and punished with the slaughter of twenty foure thousand delinquents. At last Reuben, and Gad satisfie them, that their Altar was not built for Idolatry, but built as a patterne of theirs, that they might thereby professe themselves to bee of the same profession, that they were; and so the Army returned without bloud. Even where it comes not so farre, as to an actuall Relapse into Idolatry, Thou, O my God, becommest sensible of it; though thou, who seest the heart all the way, preventest all dangerous effects, where there was no ill meaning, however there were occasion of suspicious rumours, given to thine Israel, of relapsing. So odious to thee, and so aggravating a weight upon sinne, is a relapse. But, O my God, why is it so? so odious? It must bee so, because hee that hath sinned, and then repented, hath weighed God and the Devill in a ballance; 5 hee hath heard God and the Devill plead; and after hearing, given Judgement on that side, to which he adheres, by his subsequent practice; if he returne to his sinne, hee decrees for Satan; he prefers sinne before grace, and Satan before God; and in contempt of God, declares the precedency for his 10 adversary: And a contempt wounds deeper than an injury; a relapse deeper, than a blasphemy. And when thou hast told me, that a relapse is more odious to thee, neede I aske why it is more dangerous, more pernicious to me? Is there any other measure of the greatnesse of my danger, than the 15 greatnesse of thy displeasure? How fitly, and how fearefully hast thou expressed my case, in a storm at Sea, if I relapse? (They mount up to Heaven, and they goe downe againe to the depth:) My sicknesse brought mee to thee in repentance, and my relapse hath cast mee farther from thee: 20 The end of that man shall be worse than the beginning, saies thy Word, thy Sonne; My beginning was sicknesse, punishment for sinne; but a worse thing may follow, saies he also, if I sin againe: not onely death, which is an end, worse than sicknesse, which was the beginning, but Hell, which is a 25 beginning worse than that end. Thy great servant denied thy Sonne, and he denied him againe; but all before Repentance; here was no relapse. O, if thou haddest ever readmitted Adam into Paradise, how abstinently would hee have walked by that tree? And would not the Angels, that 30 fell, have fixed themselves upon thee, if thou hadst once readmitted them to thy sight? They never relapsed; If I doe, must not my case be as desperate? Not so desperate, for, as thy Majestie, so is thy Mercie, both infinite: and thou who hast commanded me to pardon my brother seventy seven times, hast limited thy selfe to no number. If death were ill 5 in it selfe, thou wouldest never have raised any dead Man, to life againe, because that man must necessarily die againe. If thy Mercy, in pardoning, did so farre aggravate a Relapse, as that there were no more mercy after it, our case were the worse for that former Mercy; for who is not under, even a 10 necessity of sinning, whilst hee is here, if wee place this necessity in our own infirmity, and not in thy Decree? But I speak not this, O my God, as preparing a way to my Relapse out of presumption, but to preclude all accesses of desperation, though out of infirmity, I should Relapse.

23. PRAYER.

15 O Eternall and most gracious God, who, though thou beest ever infinite, yet enlargest thy selfe by the number of our prayers, and takest our often petitions to thee, to be an addition to thy glory, and thy greatnesse, as ever upon all occasions, so now, O my God, I come to thy Majestie with

I have meditated upon the Jelouzie, which thou hast of thine owne honour; and considered, that nothing can come neerer a violating of that honor, neerer to the nature of a scorne to thee, then to sue out thy Pardon, and receive the Seales of Reconciliation to

I know that this comes to neare, to a making thy holy Ordinances, thy Word, thy Sacraments, thy Seales, thy Grace, instruments of my Spirituell Fornications. NOTES

- It was at the instigation of James I that Donne took orders in 1615: see p. 46. For a letter concerning the dedication of this book to James' second son, a year later to be Charles I, see Gosse, ii, p. 189.
- "Ezechiah with the Meditations of his Sicknesse." See Isaiah 38. 9-20. p. xxxv, l. 5.
- "Atq; Malum Genium," changed on p. 74 to "Ingeniumq; malum," which seems in every way better. 15.
- "Criticis, . . . evenisse diebus." The fourth, fifth, seventh, ninth, eleventh, thirteenth, fourteenth, seventeenth, and twenty-first were supposed to be the "critical days," on which changes in a sick man's condition took place. p. xxxvii, l. 10.
- "Morieris; . . . Mortuus es." Cf. p. 3, l. 21: "not...Thou mayst die, no nor Thou must die, but Thou art dead." 12.
- "The first alteration, The first grudging of the sicknesse." Alford (iii, p. 396) makes the meaningless emendation of "altercation" for "alteration." "Alteration" is in fact used four lines lower, with its common 17th century meaning of "disease"; for another instance see Fifty Sermons, xx, p. 167: "Every alteration is in a degree a passion." "Grudging" has the contemporary meaning of "an access or slight symptom of an approaching disease" (see N.E.D.), and is thus used again on p. 18. 16.
- "a coale, . . . which we might have blowen into a flame." Cf. Fifty Sermons, xxxvi, p. 326: "Kneell downe, and blow that coale with thy devout Prayers," and Devotions, p. 137. p. 1, Heading.
- "the Temple of the H. Ghost." See 1 Corinthians 6. 19; one of Donne's habitual phrases, cf. 80 Sermons, pp. 196, 824; Death's Duell, p. 20; Grierson, i, pp. 261, 322 and 338; Devotions, p. 95, l. 31, and elsewhere. p. 1, l. 15.
- "Infuse his first grace, and not second it with more, without which we can no more use his first grace, when we have it, then wee could dispose our selves by Nature, to have it?" Cf. 26 Sermons, xiii, p. 183 (preached in 1618): "we are so far from being able to begin without Grace, as that where we have the first Grace, we cannot proceed to the use of that, without more." p. 2, l. 27.
- "Gods tenants, etc.," for instances of Donne's legal metaphors in this book, see pp. 7, 24, 36, 42, 120, 140, 145. p. 4, l. 3.

p. 4, l. 15.

"a Circle." This "Hieroglyphick" of God is very ancient; Donne employs it also in 80 Sermons, II, p. 13; in a verse-epistle (Grierson, I, p. 220), and in Divine Poems (I, p. 334). Sir Thomas Browne, using the simile once in Religio Medici and once in Christian Morals, refers to it as "that allegorical description of Hermes," giving the exact description as "a circle whose centre is everywhere, and whose circumference nowhere." Donne follows this more closely in a sermon preached in 1629 (Fifty Sermons, XLIV): "In God's own place..., in that sphere, which though a sphere is a centre too; in that place, which though a place, is all, and everywhere," with which may be compared:

"As God in Heaven
Is centre, yet extends to all,"

Paradise Lost, Bk. ix, l. 107;

and

"Heav'n
Is a plain watch, and without figures winds
All ages up; who drew this Circle, even He, fils it."

Henry Vaughan, The Evening Watch.

The definition is not found in any of the works attributed to Hermes Trismegistus, and Prof. Grierson (ii, p. 176) definitely assigns it to St Bonaventura.

p. 5, l. 21.

"The Heavens...move continually." Cf. Juvenilia, Paradoxe I, "The Heavens themselves continually turne."

p. 6, l. 22.

"the picture, the copie of death." Cf. Grierson, I, pp. 9, 326, and Devotions, p. 90, l. 16.

p. 8, l. 27.

"Surgite Mortui." Cf. Fifty Sermons, XLIV, p. 413: "Till the Angels Trumpets blew,...till you heard the Surgite Mortui."

p. 10, l. 4.

"crowned with thornes." Cf. La Corona (Grierson, I, p. 318):

"But what thy thorny crowne gain'd, that give mee, A Crowne of Glory," and the Hymne to God my God (I, p. 369): "By these his thornes give me his other Crowne."

p. 11, l. 4.

"Every nights bed is a Type of the grave." Cf. 80 Sermons, XIII, p. 129: "Thy metaphoricall, thy quotidian grave, thy bed," and Obsequies to the Lord Harrington, lines 18, 19 (Grierson, I, p. 271).

- "In the grave no man shall praise thee." Cf. Psalm 6. 5, and Isaiah 38. 18, in the Song of Hezekiah mentioned in the Epistle Dedicatorie. p. 13, l. 10.
- "therefore I am cast downe, that I might not be cast away." 16.
Prof. Grierson, in an interesting note on Donne's Hymne to God my God (Grierson, ii, p. 274), quotes this as recalling the last line of that hymn, "Therefore that he may raise the Lord throws down."
- "Abacuc." For this tradition concerning Habakkuk see Bel and the Dragon, 33-39, where "the angel of the Lord took him by the crown and bare him by the hair of his head" to feed Daniel in Babylon. For another seventeenth-century reference to the same legend, see Browne's Religio Medici, Part I, section xxxiii. 18.
- "Meteor." For another instance of Donne's peculiar use of this word, see his letter to Sir H. Goodyer, written in 1612 (Gosse, ii, p. 9): "Our nature is Meteorique, we respect both earth and heaven." 29.
- "the Matter," i.e. medicine. See l. 22: "the matter, Phisick it selfe." p. 18, l. 6.
- "as not being," explained in the margin of the A.V., "as a dead man." p. 19, l. 28.
- "King Jareb" was a heathen image, mentioned only in Hosea. p. 20, l. 26.
- "and seven is infinite." Cf. Fifty Sermons, XLVII, p. 440: "and three and foure are seven, and seven is infinite"; and Essayes in Divinity (1651), p. 124: "seven is ever used to express the infinite." p. 22, l. 4.
- "As Sicknes is the greatest misery." Cf. Fifty Sermons, xx, p. 167: 13.
"Put all the miseries, that man is subject to, together, sickness is more then all"; and Devotions, p. 42, l. 14.
- "Nothing can be utterly emptie." A frequent reflection of 19.
Donne's, cf. The Broken Heart (Grierson, i, p. 49):
- "Yet nothing can to nothing fall, Nor any place be empty quite";
- and Devotions, p. 127, l. 19.
- "As the ill affections of the spleene, complicate, and mingle themselves with every infirmitie of the body." Cf. "Every distemper of the body now is complicated with the spleen," in a letter to Sir H. Goodyer, written in October, 1622 (Gosse, ii, p. 169). p. 28, l. 9.
- "those, which they seeke to downe, the last cries of men." A 23.

strange and vivid phrase, perhaps a recollection of Donne's own naval experiences.

p. 30, l. 9.

"God wil not say, etc." Cf. 80 Sermons, II, p. 13: "God never sayes you should have come yesterday, he never sayes you must againe tomorrow." (Preached on Christmas Day, 1624.)

p. 31, l. 12.

"How fully...feare?" Here, where modern convention requires "feare!" and in all similar cases throughout this book, the question mark given in all the old editions has been retained.

p. 32, l. 29.

"Grandfathers of the Church." Cf. The Litanie (Grierson, I, p. 340), where the Patriarchs are called "Great grandfathers of the Church."

p. 36, l. 5.

"Even that Tiran Dyonisius." Donne is wrong here: Dionysius the elder, tyrant of Syracuse (c. 430-367 B.C.), did indeed gain a prize for tragedy at Athens (see Milton's preface to Samson Agonistes), but it was the debauch, and not the elation, which succeeded this triumph that proved fatal. Moreover it was his son who "suffered so much after," was driven from his throne, and died "a wretched private man." 19.

This is historical fact concerning William I (see Freeman's Norman Conquest, iv, pp. 712-3).

p. 37, l. 21.

"Bezar." An obsolete spelling of "bezoar," "a stone formerly in high repute as an antidote, brought from the East Indies, and said to be formed in an animal called pazan." Johnson's Dictionary. (See Alford, I, p. 267.)

p. 38, Ref.

"Buxdor." Johannes Buxdorf (more usually spelt Buxtorf) was a famous German student of Oriental languages, and a contemporary of Donne (1564-1629); he published many works on Hebrew and Jewish philosophy. (See Ramsay, p. 297.)

Ref.

"Schindler." Valentine Schindler was a professor at Wittenberg and Helmstad; a huge Lexicon Pentaglotton written by him was published after his death, in 1612, by his son.

p. 42, Heading.

"The King sends his owne Phisician." This was certainly Sir Theodore Turquet de Mayerne, who has left an account of the King's health written at the end of the year 1623. (See Norman Moore's Hist. of Med. in the British Isles, 1908, pp. 93-113.)

21.

"God is presented to us under many human affections." Cf. 80 Sermons, LXXII, p. 726: "God in the Scriptures is often by the Holy Ghost invested, and represented in the qualities and affections of man."

"Agarick," a fungoid growth found on larch trees. See Gerard's History of Plants, 1597, p. 1365.

"the Ægyptian gods, plants and herbes." Cf. The second Anniversary, lines 425-8 (Grierson, i, p. 263).

"Augustine." See De Civitate Dei, v, xxi: "qui Mario, ipse Gaio Caesari, ipse et Neroni, qui Vespasiano, vel patri vel filio, suavissimis imperatoribus, ipse et Domitiano crudelissimo."

"As...thy Son...upon the Coyne, I...upon the King." The stamp on a coin is a favourite image of Donne's. Cf. The Canonization (Grierson, i, p. 14):

"Observe his honour, or his grace,
Or the Kings reall, or his stamped face."

"one disease for him, that hee onely might cure it," viz. scrofula, "the King's Evil."

"The holy King S. Lewis in France." Louis IX (1215-1270), canonized by Boniface VIII in 1297.

"our Maud," Matilda, wife of Henry I, who "devoted herself especially to the care of lepers, washing their feet and kissing their scars, besides building a hospital for them in St Giles-in-the-Fields, London" (D.N.B.).

"the Wolf" = lupus, or tuberculosis of the skin, usually on the face.

"they hide nothing from the world." Mr Gosse (ii, p. 185) makes the likely suggestion "bulletins on the door of the Deanery."

"that King of Aragon Alfonsus." The famous king and astronomer who was the author of this saying was Alphonso X, who ruled Leon and Castile 1252-1284; Donne gets the title right when he repeats the story in an undated sermon (80 Sermons, LXIV, p. 640).

"In the making of Man there was a consultation; Let us make man." Cf. Donne's dissertation on the plurality of God preached on that text in April, 1629 (in Six Sermons, 1634, and no. xxviii of Fifty Sermons, 1649).

Here and in the tenth Prayer we find thoughts exactly similar to those—or perhaps the very same—which inspired the Hymn To God the Father written during this illness.

(ii, p. 275), mentions this passage as throwing light on the sonnet Resurrection (i, p. 321). His references are to the pages of the later editions of the Devotions. Exactly the same phrase is used also in the Devotions on pp. 4, 91.

- p. 54, l. 23. "only that bends not to this Center, to Ruine." See Prof. Grierson's remarks (ii, pp. 160-2) about Donne's views on immortality; he mentions this passage in the same connection on p. 274. The question is also carefully studied in Ramsay, chap. iv, esp. pp. 225-7.
- p. 55, l. 15. "the Dog-Starre, etc." This "vulgar error" is refuted in Browne's Pseudodoxia Epidemica, iv, xiii.
- p. 56, l. 22. "Nazianzen." Cf. 80 Sermons, 1640, lii, p. 522, where Donne again tells the story. The sermon was probably preached in 1627-8 (Spearing, p. 478). The meaning of "by relation" and of the phrase "that did it" is not at all obvious, and the only way of making sense of the sentence seems to be by taking "relation" as "narrative," and giving "that did it" the meaning "that narrated" or "that wrote it."
- Ref. "Josephus." Antiq. Jud. i, i, 4: ἀφεῖλεν δὲ καὶ τὸν ὄφιν τὴν φωνήν, ποδῶν τε αὐτὸν ἀποστερήσας, συρέως κατὰ τῆς γῆς ἰλυσπώμενον ἐποίησεν.
- p. 58, l. 14. "As Phisicke works so, etc." Cf. Fifty Sermons, xlix, p. 462: "The proper use and working of purging Physick, is...[that it] lies still, and draws the peccant humours together; and being then so come to an unsupportable Masse, and burden, Nature her selfe, and their own waight expels them out." This was preached on January 1st, 1625.
- p. 59, l. 17. "the sinnes of my youth." In this passage we can see as clearly as anywhere in his later works the contrast between "Dr Donne" and "Jack Donne" as it appeared to Donne himself.
- p. 61, l. 27. "no Proprietie, no Meum & Tuum." Cf. p. 140, l. 2.
- p. 67, l. 3. "the flesh of Vipers." Cf. Fifty Sermons, xvii, p. 143: "a Sovereign triacle of Vipers, and other poysons."
22. "How great an Elephant, how small a Mouse destroys!" Cf. Fifty Sermons, xl, p. 372, The Progresse of the Soule, lines 381-400 (Grierson, i, pp. 310-11, and note), and Juvenilia, Probleme xi.
26. "If this were a violent shaking of the Ayre...with her owne breath?" This sentence is more than usually involved, but the general sense is clear, if too much stress be not laid on the construction.

"Coma, latro. in Val. Max." See Valerius Maximus, ix, xii, De Mortibus Non Vulgaribus; Externa, i: "Sunt et externae mortes dignae annotatu: qualis imprimis Comae, quem ferunt maximi latronum ducis fratrem fuisse. Is enim ad Rupilius consulem post Ennam, quam praedones tenuerant, in potestatem nostram reductam, productus, cum de viribus et conatibus fugivitorum interrogaretur, sumpto tempore ad se colligendum, caput operuit; innixusque genibus compresso spiritu, inter ipsas custodum manus, inque conspectu summi imperii, exoptata securitate quievit."

p. 69, Ref.

"gangred." This form is not given in the N.E.D., and in Alford's and Pickering's editions of the Devotions it is changed to the usual form "gangrened." But in Donne's Hymne to the Saints and to Marquesse Hamylton (Grierson i, p. 289) lines 17, 18 run, in the text of the first edition (1633),

l. 21

"...the losse of him Gangred all Orders here."

Prof. Grierson has followed the later edd. of the poems in changing the word to "gangreen'd"; but the fact that in two such diverse passages "gangred" is the reading of the earliest edition makes it probable that the form was peculiar to Donne, and should in both instances be retained.

p. 70, Ref.

"Ardoinus." A doctor of Padua who flourished about 1430. Donne quotes from the only book which may be really his—the Opus de Venenis, which appeared posthumously at Venice in 1492. See the list of authorities quoted in Biathanatos (Ramsay, p. 296). Cf. Fifty Sermons, xvii, p. 140, where the same sentence is practically repeated.

p. 74, l. 5.

"there are more stars under the Northerne, then under the Southern Pole." Cf. The second Anniversary, lines 79, 80 (Grierson, i, p. 253):

"Star-light enough, t' have made the South controule, (Had shee beene there) the Star-full Northerne Pole."

"snow water." Cf. 80 Sermons, xiii, p. 129.

p. 76, l. 11.

"pinches of death," i.e. the pangs caused by the grip of death; the N.E.D. quotes from Damon and Pythias, by R. Edwards, 1567, "Ne at this present pinch of death am I dismayed."

p. 77, l. 17.

p. 79, l. 24.

p. 83, l. 12.

"Neutralitie." For a similar use of this word, see The first Anniversary, lines 91, 92 (Grierson, i, p. 234):

"There is no health; Physicians say that wee,
At best, enjoy but a neutralitie,"

Fifty Sermons, xx, p. 167, and a letter to Sir Henry Goodyer (Gosse, ii, p. 227): "Physicians consider only two degrees, sickness and neutrality, for there is no health in us."

p. 84, l. 1.

"a cheerfull rising of thy Son." In the Pickering edition this is printed "Sun," and thus the point of one of Donne's favourite puns is spoiled. Prof. Grierson has collected other instances of his play upon these words (ii, p. 99), but he does not include this.

p. 88, l. 13.

"parasceve" = παρασκευή, preparation.

p. 90, l. 6.

"not the Aire,...nor the fire, nor the sphaeres, nor...any thing, till they come to starres." Cf. the peroration of the Second Prebend Sermon (preached in 1626)—almost a repetition of this passage; The second Anniversary, lines 188–206, with Prof. Grierson's note (ii, p. 198), and Obsequies to the Lord Harrington, lines 81–86 (Grierson, i, pp. 273–4).

p. 91, Ref.

"Magius." Girolamo Maggi was an engineer in the service of the Venetian Republic, and assisted in the defence of Famagusta in Cyprus against the Turks in 1571. When the town gave in he was taken prisoner and brought to Constantinople; but even in prison, and when all books were denied him and he had only his memory to rely on, he wrote two treatises, De Equuleo and De Tinnabulis, and it is the latter to which Donne here refers.

p. 92, Ref.

"Roan." Donne must be referring to the celebrated Amboise bell in Rouen Cathedral.

l. 14.

"There is a way of correcting the Children of great persons." Almost the same passage is to be found in the Sermon preached before the Kings M^{tie} at Whitehall, 1626, 4°.

Ref.

"Roccha." Angiolo Rocca, 1545–1620, Bishop of Tagasté. Donne refers to his De Campanis, Rome, 1612, 4°.

p. 94, l. 10.

"The garment of thy Priest." See Exodus 28. 33–35.

12.

"we enter into the Triumphant Church by the sound of Bells." Cf. The second Anniversary, lines 100, 101 (Grierson, i, p. 254):

"As Bels cal'd thee to Church before,
So this, to the Triumphant Church, calls thee."

"a Deaths-head in a Ring." Mourning-rings engraved with a skull were then much in fashion. Cf. A Valediction: of my name, in the Window, lines 21, 22 (Grierson, i, p. 26):

"It, as a given deaths head keepe, Lovers mortalitie to preach."

p. 95, l. 8.

"what the soule is, etc." See Ramsay, pp. 218-25, where two passages from this Meditation are quoted in a discussion "sur les idées de Donne, sur la nature et les fonctions de l'âme."

p. 103, l. 7.

"immediate infusion from God." Cf. what Sir Thomas Browne (Religio Medici, Part I, sect. xxxvi) calls "that Antimetathesis of Augustine, Creando infunditur, infundendo creatur," quoted by Donne (in a slightly different form), 80 Sermons, LI, p. 514, probably preached in 1627 (see Spearing, p. 478). See too the letters to Sir Thomas Lucy and Sir Henry Goodyer (Gosse, i, pp. 175-6, 192).

26.

"kennell"=gutter (cf. Channell, p. 70, l. 8).

p. 105, l. 4.

"a statue of clay...as if that clay were but snow." Cf. p. 5, l. 27:
"a statue, not of Earth, but of Snowe."

"mud-walls." Cf. The Litanie, Stanza III (Grierson, i, p. 338), Fifty Sermons, xx, p. 168, and Walton's Elegie on Donne, line 62 (Grierson, i, p. 377).

p. 109, l. 17.

"July-flowers"=the gilly-flower or wall-flower.

p. 111, l. 12.

"recidences." A word often used in the 17th century, meaning deposit or sediment.

p. 114, l. 27.

"August." Donne quotes this again in a sermon preached two years later (80 Sermons, xx, p. 196).

p. 120, Ref.

"the art of proving, etc." See Cicero, De Finibus, ii, 6: "Zenonis est, inquam hoc Stoici; omnem vim loquendi, ut jam ante Aristoteles, in duas tributam esse partes, rhetoricam palmae, dialecticam pugni similem esse dicebant."

p. 121, l. 3.

p. 122, l. 1.

"As hee that would describe a circle, etc." The figure of compasses is a frequent one with Donne; the most famous example is of course that in A valediction forbidding mourning (see Grierson, i, pp. 50-51 and note), which finds a parallel, as Miss Spearing points out (Mod. Lang. Rev. vol. VII, no. 1, p. 43), in the "Sermon preached at the Earl of Bridgewater's House" in 1627 (Fifty Sermons, i, p. 3). This passage in the Devotions is echoed in Obssequies to the Lord Harrington, lines 107-10 (Grierson, i, p. 274).

p. 123, l. 30.

- p. 124, Ref. "Galen." Donne seems to quote Galen from memory—an example of the knowledge of medicine, to which Walton testifies in his Elegie (Grierson, i, p. 377).
- p. 126, l. 14. For Donne's views on women, in his earlier and later years, see Miss Spearing's article in the Mod. Lang. Rev. vol. VII, no. 1, pp. 46, 47, where a passage from this Meditation is quoted.
24. "O what a Giant is Man, when he fights against himselfe, and what a Dwarfe when hee needs...his owne assistance for himselfe?" An obvious echo of the third verse of the famous farewell Song (Grierson, i, p. 19).
- p. 128, l. 13. "Circles, that goe about the whole world, etc." Cf. Obsequies to the Lord Harrington, lines 111-18 (Grierson, i, pp. 274, 275) and see Prof. Grierson's note on that passage.
- p. 132, l. 9. "Thy Sonne himselfe, alwaies infinite, etc." Cf. the sonnet Annunciation (Grierson, i, p. 319).
- p. 133, l. 18. "How ruinous a farme hath man taken, in taking himselſe?" Cf. "Wee are but farmers of our selves" in a letter to Mr Rowland Woodward (Grierson, i, p. 186).
- p. 134, l. 27. "weeping." To weep, of the soil, means to exude moisture.
- p. 135, l. 19. "as by Mummy." Donne refers to this cure in a letter to Sir Henry Goodyer: "When our natural inborn preservative is corrupted or wasted, and must be restored by a like extracted from other bodies, the chief care is that the mummy have in it no excelling quality, but an equally digested temper."
- p. 138, l. 7. "effigiate"=portray. A word used apparently only in the 17th century (see N.E.D.).
20. "the God of securitie, and the enemie of securitie too." Cf. To the Countesse of Bedford, lines 38-40 (Grierson, i, p. 200):
- "He will perplex security with doubt,
And cleare those doubts; hide from you, and show you good,
And so increase your appetite and food."
- p. 143, l. 7. "povertie, penurie, imprisonment": all these had killed sins in Donne himself.
- p. 147, l. 3. "I durst deliver my selfe over to thee this minute." This is the passage referred to by Walton in his account of Donne's last illness (Life of Donne, 1658, p. 115).
